

RED AND WHITE

They Do Credit to Klamath

LIVELY, but precise, snappy but formal, colorful, effective and strictly first class, the Klamath Union high school drill organization has succeeded in making the between-halves intermission on Modoc field almost as interesting as football games themselves.

To the 150 or more youngsters who execute intricate formations and produce stirring music, and to their leader, Charles Stanfield, The Herald and News dedicate this week's Photorial. Their offerings have become an indispensable feature of Modoc field events; they have sent local pride to new highs when they appeared on the fields of neighboring communities.

Key to the pictures:

1. Two views, one with the negative reversed, of six vivacious and expert baton twirlers. Left to right in the picture at the left: Lucy Kimball, Pat McVey, Joyce Dollarhide, Lois Hankins, Dean Hamilton, Barbara Moore.
2. Larry Gallagher, the band's drum major.
3. The entire group forms a K on the green turf.
4. Neva McNulty, leader of the baton twirlers.
5. Charles Stanfield, director of music at the high school and director of the drill work.
6. A group of Pep Peppers. Left to right: Janice Bubbs, Barbara Bell, June Van Barabalee Jacobs, Jeanette Fitzgerald.
7. Bob Fredrickson, drill leader for the Pep Peppers.
8. Director Stanfield gives a lesson in baton twirling.