

UNRESTRICTED BLOCKADE OF GERMANY SET

which could be seen from the shore, carried a crew of 150 and 26 passengers, one of them British.

A lifeboat and other craft rushed to the rescue, and some survivors were brought to shore.

British reprisals against Germany, extending the blockade to exports as well as imports, would mean concentration on neutral shipping, since Germany herself has practically no ships at sea now.

The aim would be to halt completely all sea commerce with Germany.

Chamberlain made his statement in reply to a question by opposition Laborite Leader Clement Attlee on whether the government proposed to take any action as a result of the laying of mines which sank The Netherlands passenger ship Simon Bolivar and other vessels over the weekend.

Today a British mine-laying trawler, the Mastiff, was added to the toll, becoming Britain's sixth admitted naval loss of the war.

In reply to Attlee, Chamberlain explained that under international law if unanchored mines are used they should become harmless in one hour, at the most, after those who laid them lost control over them.

He said none of these provisions had been observed by Germany in laying the mines which Britain considers the cause of recent ship losses.

(Germany has denied her mines were responsible for the sinking of the Simon Bolivar.)

After recounting the loss of more than ten ships, both British and neutral, and many lives during the past six days, Chamberlain said:

"I may remind the house that in the last war, as a measure of justified reprisals for submarine attacks on merchant ships, the exports of German origin or ownership were made subject to seizure on the high seas."

"Many violations of international law and the ruthless brutality of German methods have decided us to follow a similar course now, and an order in council will shortly be issued giving effect to this decision."

Chambers greeted the statement. This step means that Britain will seek to shut off Germany's export trade, from which she acquires foreign exchange, as well as the flow of imports to Germany.

Description

The following description of Irwin Jack (Sonny) Maxwell, whose last name is really Beebe, was given out at the city hall Tuesday after authorities interviewed the child's mother.

He has a full round face, red cheeks, full lips, medium blue eyes, and freckles that are thick and stand out which are noticeable immediately.

His right arm, between the elbow and armpit on the inner side, was at one time caught in a wringer. He cannot straighten out his little finger. He has a sore on the top and back of his head which has mercurochrome on it.

He is bashful and shy. However, speaks very clearly and he has a soft-spoken low voice. One would imagine that he has attended school. He would never get into a car with anyone or make up with anyone unless they told him they were going to take him to his mother.

He is wearing a brown turtleneck thin cotton sweater and blue bib overalls which fit smooth in the waist but bunch on both sides where buttons have been set over. The right leg of the overalls is patched in the knee, patch is on underside and is sewn with blue thread. In the front of the bib is a zipper pocket slightly larger than a man's watch pocket which opens up across the top with a zipper. Two pockets in overalls which slant slightly. The right pocket is torn from top to bottom and is fastened with a safety pin. White cotton underwear, one piece shortsuit which buttons in back. Girl's brown knee length cotton stockings that are turned down from the knee and fit above the calf of the leg. Wearing light service field boots which lace together on the side, with a brown shoe string just at the top. The boots are fairly new, having been purchased about October 5. They have a wide flat heel, possibly one-half or three-quarters inches high. The toes on both shoes will be scuffed as he goes along dragging both feet as a boy would. The bottom of both toes will be scuffed as he kicks the dirt as he walks along. No hat is known.

He is about 35 inches high and weighs between 30 and 35 pounds.

Scouts. They carried lunch with them in order to continue their search throughout the day.

City Searched Police Judge Carl K. Cook asked for a number of older boys from Klamath Union high school to search the section of the city around Commercial street where it is thought "Sonny" might have wandered late Sunday evening.

Police were detailed throughout the city by Chief Frank Hamm and all sections were searched.

Thinking the child might have perished in the canal, along which his footprints were found Monday morning, several hundred men searched the ditch Monday night walking eight abreast. The water is exceptionally shallow at this time of the year. The men wore hip boots, and proceeded along the canal bed from the Esplanade bridge to the Shasta way bridge.

No Difficulty Elmer Beebe, father of the child, was questioned by officers Tuesday. Beebe assured police there had been no difficulty over possession of the boy and that relations between the Beebe and Maxwell families were friendly.

Beebe aided in the search throughout Monday night. He resides at the Great Northern hotel in Weyerhaeuser.

Grandfather of the boy, Con Crimen, 309 Commercial street, told news reporters Tuesday morning that the lad was a "bright little fellow, pretty well able to take care of himself." An uncle and aunt of the child are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shearer, 2325 Vine avenue.

Food on Hand Weary searchers gratefully accepted hot coffee and sandwiches served around campfires Monday night. The food was provided by the American Legion auxiliary and the Eagles auxiliary, both groups working until late Monday to prepare the meal. According to the Legion auxiliary they used 75 loaves of bread, 40 pounds of lunch meat, two gallons of salad dressing, one-half a case of milk, 10 pounds of sugar and 15 pounds of coffee.

Coffee and sandwiches were to be served again should searchers continue their hunt Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Members of the national guard as individuals and not as the guard, aided in the hunt Monday night.

Police received calls from several "mediums" who suggested various parts of the city where the child could be found.

Beer Vendor Held For Coin Murder LA GRANDE, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Union county grand jury indicted Walter Gover, 58, North Powder beer parlor proprietor, yesterday on charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of Virgil Jett, 28, in October. Gover was accused of shooting a nickel-in-the-slot machine after midnight.

Russia Holding Maneuvers for Baltic Defense

MOSCOW, Nov. 21 (AP)—Soviet Russia disclosed today her Baltic fleet is holding large scale maneuvers from newly won bases in that area.

The warning was voiced by Admiral V. Tributs, commander of the Baltic fleet, in an article in the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the communist Youth league.

Tributs declared the soviet fleet now was in command of the Baltic with "the acquisition of bases from Estonia and Latvia. He said the Baltic fleet, previously landlocked in the Gulf of Finland by winter ice, now could navigate throughout the year."

(Negotiations between Finland and Russia over soviet territorial demands were halted last week when a Finnish delegation refused Russia's demands and left Moscow.

(Russia asked a naval base on the north coast of the Gulf of Finland, a strip of territory north of Leningrad and concessions in the Finnish arctic. In return Russia offered Finland a larger section of soviet Karelia.)

SUSPECT HELD FOR BEER HALL BLAST

ber and October, 1938. Elser began work in August, 1939. Seven days before the Nazi anniversary meeting in the beer cellar, the explosive charge was brought into the building.

After two failures on Nov. 1 and Nov. 3, he succeeded in building his detonator into the bursting chamber of a bomb in the night from Nov. 4 to Nov. 5, the Gestapo chief said.

Then, he added, Elser departed for Switzerland to join his employer, but instead returned to Munich Nov. 7 in order to convince himself everything was in working order, that "the clock was ticking" and to deaden the sound.

On the morning of the explosion, Himmler said, the plotter departed by way of Ulm for the border where he was arrested that night.

Fuehrer Hitler and other high members of the Nazi party, with Air Minister Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering an exception, had assembled at Munich's historic beerbrau cellar to celebrate the 16th anniversary of the abortive Nazi beer hall putsch, which was staged there.

Hitler spoke for about an hour, and then, because of pressure of a head, left for Berlin well ahead of the schedule usually followed at the annual occasion. Most of the high party officials left with him. The blast occurred 11 minutes later.

Those killed and injured included no one well known. German officialdom immediately posted rewards totaling $360,000 for information leading to the arrest of those responsible.

Police Chief Himmler announced almost immediately that "the trail of the perpetrator leads abroad," and there were open hints the British secret service and Jews had a part in the assassination attempt.

BUDGET DESIGNED TO SLASH DEFICIT

mates of what President Roosevelt might recommend in his annual budget message to congress in January for the 1941 fiscal year, beginning next July 1:

Expenditures—Nearly $9,250,000,000. Receipts—About $6,500,000,000. Deficit—About $2,800,000,000.

The amount of next year's revenue constitutes perhaps the biggest question mark in the president's budget-making. Officials say since business is much better tax revenues should be considerably higher, but some of the officials in charge of preparing revenue estimates have been extremely conservative in their guesses of the amount of gain.

Because no official estimates of the current year's budget have been made for about a year, comparison of estimates for next year is difficult.

Last January, the president predicted spending of about $9,000,000,000, but the cost of neutrality enforcement and other unexpected items has increased this. At the same time, changing business conditions have altered the revenue estimates which were expected last January to result in a deficit of about $3,300,000,000 so that current guesses of this year's deficit range between $3,000,000,000 and $4,000,000,000.

LEADERS ATTEND RECREATION CLASS

Leaders from 13 organizations attended the first night of the recreation school Monday evening at the Fremont school. Miss Isola Jensen, extension specialist in community social organization from Oregon State college, is directing the programs. Monday night was spent in learning new table games which can be used in family groups or at parties. Tuesday night will be spent in learning active floor games.

Each leader was given an index listing about 100 games which are available without charge at the office of Mrs. Winnifred Gilen, home demonstration agent. Those wishing to order new material for their recreational scrapbooks may come to Tuesday's meeting at 7:30 p. m. The meeting itself begins at 8 p. m. As these meetings are also free of charge, anyone interested is invited to attend.

ECONOMY COPENHAGEN, Nov. 21 (AP)—Danish troops used fireworks to indicate artillery fire in their maneuvers today and threw turnips instead of hand grenades. It was merely a matter of economy.

Gen. Johnson Names Candidate For Presidency

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—The name of Wendell L. Willkie, chairman of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, was advanced by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson today as an ideal "business man" for president of the United States.

Johnson, former NRA administrator, voiced whole-hearted approval of Willkie in an address before an overflow meeting of bankers at the Bond club of New York.

ATLANTA, Nov. 21 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, utility executive and long-time opponent of government competition in business, had a ready response today to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's suggestion that he would make an ideal "business man" president of the United States.

"If the government continues to take over my business I may be looking shortly for some kind of a new job," said the chairman of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

"General Johnson's is the best offer I have had so far."

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR LUMBER BUSINESS

PORTLAND, Nov. 21 (AP)—The national lumber industry will revive strongly this year and next if lumbermen have "the nerve to demand the right prices," M. L. Fleishel, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, said last night.

"The outlook for the next six months is brighter than it has been for the last couple of years," he declared. "Stocks are not large and the order files are enough to carry through to the first of the year."
