Pelicans Beat Grants Pass, 30-23

PELICAN BILL

By Bill Cummings

LOVE STANDS HIGHEST IN PELICAN SCORING

Eugene Love, Pelican forward, who has seen action in every one of the eight games the Klamath cage team has played this season and has scored in all but one, ranks No. 1 among the Pelican players in the scoring column with a total of 38 points.

The first Chico game, which the Pelicans dropped by a score of 41 to 27, was the only contest of the year in which Love failed to find the hoop. He scored at least four points in each of the other seven games and was high point man against North Bend and Ashland, besides tying Cooley for high point honors in the game with Marshfield.

Next to Love comes Marion Reginato, who has a point total of 35 for the year. In third place is Bob Erlandson, with 32, and in fourth spot is George Cooley with 29.

Here's how other team members have scored for the season: Rush, 14; Lowe and Cody, each 11; Lorenz, 6; Crane, 5, and Martin, 1.

A glance at the score book shows that although the Pelicans demonstrated slightly better form Saturday night when they defeated Grants Pass, they have been tabbed with plenty of defeats this season. Klamath has won only three out of eight games. In the season opener they defeated Yreka 20 to 8. Then in the second Chico game they came out winners 22 to 20, and lost four straight before winning the final contest against Grants Pass.

Despite the long string of lacings the Pelicans stand fairly close to opponents in the total number of points scored this season. The opponents' collective total is 192, while the Pelicans have gathered in 182, only 10 points behind.

The Pelicans have been edged out by only two or three baskets in most of the games to date. The only large margin stacked up against them was piled up by Chico in the first game of the Chico series, when the southern team won 41 to 27.

Some other interesting statistics from the score book:

Cooley stands at the top of the heap as a free throw tosser, having collected a total of 11 points on gift shots. He missed the hoop nine times during his season's trips to the free throw line.

Next to Cooley in the gift shot ratings comes Erlandson, who has collected nine points, missing seven tries.

Kansan Proves Still in Trim

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—In the cannon-infested confines of the 245th coast artillery armory in Brooklyn, where the only shots fired came out of a starter's harmless gun, Glenn Cunningham proved Saturday he isn't dizzy, in spite of running around in circles so many years.

Opening the winter track season, the tireless Kansan slammed his way around the 880-yard route in the K. of C. meet in good enough time to beat a select field—and to indicate he probably is in for another of his very good seasons, and possibly his last.

Cunningham, 30 last August, isn't going into this campaign in the gay and reckless spirit of his younger years.

He said before he raced his competitors into the ground in the 880 in 1:56.1 that he was through arriving in towns in the afternoons, running the same nights and then driving off to some other destination—all without taking a long breath.

LOCALS CLING TO LEAD IN ENDING LOSS STREAK HERE

Klamath high's fast charging Pelicans broke a four-game losing streak Saturday night at the high school gym by rolling to a 30-23 victory over a scrappy quintet of Grants Pass cagers in the first game of a double-header basketball program.

Showing fast improvement as the contest progressed, the Pelicans took the lead from the Cavemen in the opening minutes and held it until the final whistle.

Grants Pass opened the tallying when Royal Mooers, big forward, potted a field goal immediately followed by one scored by Hill, Cavemen center. Then the Pelicans found the target and swept to a 10-6 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The Cavemen crept to within one point of the locals at halftime when the scoreboard stood at 14-13, but after the recess Coach Dutch French's boys hit their best stride of the season to dominate the last part of the game. The score at the end of the third quarter stood at 19-16.

Bob Erlandson, Klamath guard, was high point man for the locals with seven, followed by Love with six and Cooley with five. Erlandson flicked the hemp for three field goals and potted one free throw. The Klamath scoring was well distributed among the two complete quintets that Coach French ran on and off the floor.

Erlandson was tied for scoring honors by Thomas, Grants Pass guard, who also rang up seven points, scoring three field goals and a gift toss. Mooers followed with six, and Hill, Caveman center, came next with five.

As the last quarter began Reginato, Klamath center, fouled out of the game. Cooley potted two free throws after being fouled by Mooers to set the Pelicans ahead 21-16.

Then Erlandson spun the ball through the hemp for two field goals in succession to add four more to the locals' growing margin. Love scored another from the floor, Cody netted a free toss and with half a minute to go Cooley caged a basket to sew up the game. The free toss and two field goals scored by the Cavemen in the last period failed to dim the Klamath team's winning march.

It was the first win for the Klamath quintet since they checked the Chico team December 22 by a score of 22 to 20 after dropping the opener of a two-game series played on the southern court. On a holiday barnstorm tour to the Coos bay region they lost three straight to Coquille, Marshfield and North Bend.

The Pelicans dominated the floor with superior ball handling despite the height of several of the Grants Pass cagers. Love, Lowe and Cooley were outstanding on defense while Erlandson led the scoring attack. Lorenz, coming into the game on the reserve quintet, used his height to take the ball off the backboard and to check the Caveman's offense.

During the latter part of the game the Grants Pass team shifted to a man-to-man defense, but were unable to hold the Pelicans in check and the Grants Pass floorwork went to pieces under the fast pace of the locals.

How Will He Whirl 'Em in 1940?

This is how Cowboy Dude Chick, celebrated airplane spin artist from Cheyenne, Wyo., whirled Hans Hitler Schultz to the canvas to win his last 1939 match at the Klamath armory. Fans are speculating as to just how he'll look in his first 1940 bout when he tackles King Kong Clayton, ivory-pated negro grappler, in Tuesday night's main event. In the semi-windup Prince Nihalakis of Arabia will tangle with Bob Montgomery of Georgia. Joe Smolinski, Polish ruffian, and Zim Zimovich, fighting Finn, will be the contestants in the opening bout.

Famed Rookie Hurler Foresees Good 1940

SEATTLE, Jan. 8 (AP)—Phlegmatic Freddie Hutchinson, 1939's most-publicized major league rookie pitcher who likes his base hits as well as his shutouts, isn't worrying about the 1940 baseball campaign.

The 20-year-old Detroit Tiger right-hander sizes it up this way:

"If you've got it, you've got it. If you haven't—well, that's that."

Freddie "had it" less often than he didn't have it last year.

Sold to the Tigers by Seattle of the Pacific coast league for a reported $80,000 in cash and players, the young pitcher, only a year out of high school, was under tremendous pressure from the time he went to training camp last spring. Announcement he would pitch brought the grapefruit fans en masse.

Hutch didn't fare so well in his training trials, and he was benched during the early weeks. Finally, he was sent in while Detroit was taking a merciless lacing from Yankee bats. The Yanks had a hot streak and Hutch couldn't cool it. He was sent first to the showers—and—within two days—to Toledo, tail-end club of the American association.

With the Mudhens, Hutchinson won nine and lost nine. He was seldom derricked, Tiger instructions being that he should be left in for the distance to regain the poise, confidence and control he lost after a sensational season in the coast league.

In late season he was recalled and won three and lost six with Detroit. He refutes stories the Tigers tried to change his pitching style.

"If anybody changed it, it must have been myself. Nobody else did. When you're right the plate looks so close you can reach right out and touch it. When you're off, it looks the size of a dime a block away. But control isn't everything. You've got to have your stuff, too."

The Tigers finished fifth in American league standings, but it will be different this year, Hutch declares.

Husky Basket Coach Picks Ducks to Win

SEATTLE, Jan. 8 (AP) — They started hitting the hoops for keeps this weekend in the northern division race, so what does Clarence "Hec" Edmundson, University of Washington cage coach, think about it

"Oregon," says Hec.

"At first I thought Oregon State would be the number one club," Hec continued. "Everything seemed to favor them, including the return of a fine bunch of veterans. But based on preseason showings, I believe Oregon has demonstrated a lot more. Although the Ducks only have one vet in their starting lineup, they've really developed. I regard the results of their barnstorming trip as outstanding."

Edmundson also feels Washington State will be "right up there," although he said the Cougars showed as well in the midwest as he had expected. He admitted he didn't have much of a line on Idaho, but figured the Vandals would be dangerous.

And how about Hec's kids? Well, Edmundson has had a change of heart since the start of the dismal practice season, and he figures the inexperienced Huskies will be set to make it tough for everybody.

"The boys have been improving every time out and are really showing a fine defense. They've been getting a lot of tries at the basket but in some of our early games I just couldn't see how they could miss so many. But maybe they'll star dropping in for us soon."

Smith and Nave To Play in Pro Football Game

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8 (AP) — Professional football has claimed All-America Guard Harry Smith and his University of Southern California teammate, Doyle Nave, who completed college gridiron careers in the Rose bowl victory over Tennessee New Year's day.

Smith said he and Nave had signed contracts to play one game, with an option on their services for two more. Promoter Larry Sunbrock said they would play on a team with Kenny Washington, negro halfback star of the University of California at Los Angeles, against the Los Angeles Bulldogs here or at San Francisco January 14.

Johnny Schiechl, all-America center for Santa Clara, also reportedly has signed a professional contract.

Padre Club in Ownership Mix

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 8 (AP) Ownership of the San Diego baseball club in the Pacific Coast league appeared as muddled as ever today.

Directors of the club announced last October 8 that the Padres had been sold to M. L. Clark, a former Oklahoma City business man. But legal complications developed, and the directors have given Clark until next Thursday noon to accept a new contract.

The San Diego Union says new clauses in the contract are objectionable to Clark and "he has refused to accept the contract as amended," but the Oklahoman believes things can be patched up and expects the deal to go through.

SUCCESSOR UP

PALO ALTO, Calif. Jan. 8 (AP)—The choice of a successor to C. E. (Tony) Thornhill as football coach at Stanford university may be made next Friday night. Thornhill was ousted after Stanford's most disastrous season in years.

Bonanza Casaba Team Wins Game

BONANZA—Bonanza's Independent basketball team won a hotly contested game from the Beatty town team here last Thursday night by the score of 24 to 19.

In a preliminary game the Bonanza junior high quintet defeated Beatty's fast pony team 20 to 11 in a well played contest.

OREGON STATE LEADS LEAGUE AS SEASON PUT IN GEAR

By The Associated Press

Those long lean men from the state of Oregon were in a fair way to dominate the northern division of Pacific Coast conference basketball, with one team favored in the race and the other leading it.

The favored team—defending champion University of Oregon—gets three chances to live up to its reputation this week—two against Idaho beginning tonight and one against Oregon State, which holds the league leadership at the end of the first week of conference play. Oregon State took Idaho's measure twice last week; but Oregon has not yet played.

Idaho also gets a third chance to break into the winning column this week when it meets Washington State at Pullman Saturday. WSC opened its two-game series Saturday with Washington, which is idle all the coming week.

Saturday's games followed the pattern of pre-season predictions. Washington, which surprised with a one-point victory the night before, was no match for WSC when the Cougars got their dander up. Even a jinx which had kept Washington State in the losing column on Washington's floor since 1920—with three exceptions—was no help as the Cougars ran up a 51-35 score. Guard Bob Olson, of Everett, with 16 points, and long Paul Lindeman, of Cowiche, with 14, kept things under control for the visitors. Oregon State, in winning 42-38, had more trouble with Idaho than in Friday's victory but stayed in front after the first 10 minutes of play.

The team standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Oregon State	2	0	1.000
Washington State	1	1	.500
Washington	1	1	.500
Idaho	0	2	.000
Oregon	0	0	——

CORVALLIS, Jan. 8 (AP)—Oregon State won its second northern division, Coast conference basketball game Saturday night from Idaho, 42-38 and took division lead.

The contest was closer than Friday night's 48-36 Orange triumph and once in the second half the Vandals cut the OSC lead to three points.

Forty-five fouls were called, 28 against a determined Idaho team that took all manner of chances in a scorching attempt to wrest victory from the Beavers. John and Frank Mandic, both starters, were benched, while Idaho lost two regulars, Atkinson and English, and two reserves, on four fouls each.

SEATTLE, Jan. 6 (UP)—Washington State college's Cougars, viewed as a strong contender for the northern division, Pacific coast conference basketball crown, came back Saturday night to swamp the University of Washington 51 to 35 before 8500 persons. Washington won Friday night 38 to 38.

Gehrig Not Through As Yankee Member

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (UP)—Lou Gehrig's baseball career has ended but he's not through with the Yankees.

Ed Barrow, president of the Yankees, announced today that Gehrig, who retired because of a disease of the spinal column, will not be given his unconditional release but will have his name placed on the New York club's voluntarily retired list.

In further respect to Gehrig's loyalty and outstanding service with the Yankees, Barrow announced that Lou's uniform number—the big "4" he wore on his broad back when he was clouting home runs and helping the Yankees win pennants—will be retired permanently and in addition his old locker will not be allotted to any other player.

Gehrig's name will remain on the door of the locker and it will be reserved for his personal use. He is free to come in the Yankee locker room any time he wishes.

Gehrig, who ended his remarkable endurance record of 2,130 games last May 2 in Detroit, is now a member of the municipal parole board, a job to which he was appointed by Mayor La-Guardia shortly after the world series. Gehrig's salary is $5700 a year under the present economy budget but will be restored to $6000 if the old scale is restored. The appointment is for 10 years.

The Yankees' retirement of Gehrig's number is the first time in baseball history that a major league club has so honored a player. The system of numbering players only came into use in the majors during the last ten years. Many colleges have retired the numbers won by outstanding football stars, the most famous instance being at Illinois where they permanently retired Red Grange's famous "77."

Gehrig is now actively engaged in his parole work, and apparently is happy devoting his time to his new profession. The sudden termination of his baseball career by his illness left Gehrig melancholy and worried about the future, but his job has given him a new lease on life. Medical reports indicate that his condition has been improving.

Doctors have advised Gehrig that his present work will not impair the treatments he takes regularly. His walk is slightly unsteady, especially in climbing steps or treading on uneven ground.

Contract Time Arrives Again

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—Like a siren of spring, Dizzy Dean's soniferous holdout squawk over the weekend aroused slumbering baseball fans to the fact contract time is here again.

In the next week or two the documents with the dotted lines will have been mailed to just about every eligible major leaguer, but that chant of "Ole Diz" isn't likely to get much of a chorus.

For one thing a lot of players, including several perennial members of the "beef" trust, already are signed.

Championship clubs are popularly supposed to face the most trouble rounding their players into line, but the Cincinnati Reds at this early date have 14 under contract for 1940 and the New York Yankees, who won't put their papers into the mail till next week aren't expecting much fuss. The world series bonus every year seems to keep the Bronx bombers happy.

The first of the Reds to sign up was Third Baseman Bill Werber, who has a pretty practical opinion of his own value, and one of the first was Paul Derringer, the big pitcher who used to be quarrelsome about his figures.

Pitcher Bucky Walters, the National league's most valuable player, and First Baseman Frank McCormick slapped their names on two-year contracts without the slightest hesitation.

Paul Warner, the Pittsburgh Pirates' persistent holdout, jumped to terms last November after conferring briefly in New York with President William E. Benswanger and his new manager, Frank Frisch. This action wasn't because Waner had no taking point, for he batted .328 last year and ranked fourth in the National league.

The Cleveland Indians have Bob Feller, Mel Harder and Jeff Heath signed and sealed — and they were about the only three that might have been expected to give the Tribe trouble. Feller was reported to have been given $25,000. Whatever it was caused President Alva Bradley to remark he didn't know whether "we signed Feller or he signed us."

The Boston Red Sox gave Joe Cronin another five-year player-manager contract last September and followed up this coup by signing Ted Williams, Jimmie Foxx, Bob Doerr and Jim Tabor, four better than fair faces, for the 1940 campaign.

Nevada to Bid For Grid Fame Outside League

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8 (UP) University of Nevada Saturday resigned from the Far Western conference, and conference authorities, in session here, accepted the withdrawal with the hope it would be "reconsidered."

Remaining members of the conference are Chico State college, Fresno State college, College of Pacific and California Aggies.

Nevada representatives indicated they were dissatisfied with the restricted membership of the Far Western conference, which formerly included San Jose State college and St. Mary's college.

Nevada has scheduled several stronger football opponents, but is seeking dates with Far Western conference teams on a non-conference basis. Nevada authorities definitely indicated they hope to put the Reno school on a "big time" basis in college football.

Officials of Humboldt State college at Eureka and California Polytechnic at San Luis Obispo attended the executive meeting of conference faculty representatives, presumably to ask membership in the conference.

RUBES POST 63 TO 40 WIN OVER BASIN LEAGUE STARS

Rubenstein's Oregonians, one of the best independent casaba quintets in the state, hit the hoop with great abandon in the second half of their game with the Klamath All-Stars at the high school Saturday night and smothered their opponents under a 63-40 score as Laddie Gale, stellar sharpshooting ace, amassed 28 counters during the tilt, 10 in the last four minutes of play.

Paced by Captain Bobby Anet, Wally Johansen and Gale, three members of last year's University of Oregon national championship team, the Eugene five put on the pressure in the second half to pull well out in front, seemingly going at a much faster speed as the local players tired in the last ten minutes. The victors kept driving away at the disorganized defense of the Klamath aggregation and almost scored at will in the fading moments of the contest.

The All-Stars, a collection of hoopsters from the Klamath Basin league, pushed the visitors to the limit in the initial half and actually led at the intermission, 26-25. Lou Aiello, forward for the locals, looped in two long ones in the first minute of action to give the All-Stars a 4-0 lead, but Johansen and Gale began connecting with the basket for points that gave the Oregonians a 16-12 margin.

Employing a combination tight man-to-man defense with a zone defense, the Klamath contingent tied up the Rubenstein big guns in the first half quite effectively, Gale had made only eight points, Johansen, seven, and Anet, four, when the whistle blew for the rest period. Captain Cliff McLean, leader of the All-Stars' attack, time after time fed the ball to his team mates for valuable points that meant a single point advantage at halftime.

As the second half opened the fast-breaking attack of the invaders began to produce dividends. With Anet and Johansen, the two little guards, stationed at the forward positions on the defense, the Oregonians on several occasions tallied with ease when either Gale or Bonney would gain possession of the ball and flip it quickly to either Anet or Johansen who between them would maneuver in close for a setup shot.

Rubenstein's All-American forward, Gale, too, became particularly hot in the second half. He caged nine field goals and two free throws in this stanza to account for his 20 markers, just a little over half the tremendous 38-point total the winners piled up in the last session. Johansen threw in four baskets to bring his total to fifteen, second high for the evening. Shipley, center man for the Oregonians, tallied for the first time in the fourth quarter after at least twenty attempts during the course of the fracas.

High scorer for the Klamath five was Lou Aiello, who played a fine game and wound up with 10 points. He was followed in the scoring column by Emil Strotheide, pivot man for the locals, who posted seven points, all in the first half.

The contest was very fast with both teams galloping up and down the floor for the full forty minutes of play. Bobby Anet of the visitors and Cliff McLean of the All-Stars each gave an excellent exhibition of clever passing and close checking. Johansen's floor play and dribbling was outstanding. Gale's point total, 28 counters, was of course the highlight of the free-scoring engagement.
