

COURT SEEKS STATE ACTION ON ROAD JOBS

County court members planned to leave late Thursday for Portland to attend a meeting of the state highway commission. Major matters to receive their attention in Portland will be to induce the highway commission to take the Sprague River-Chiloquin road into the secondary system, and to "plug" for the completion this year of a four and a half mile stretch of the Klamath-Lakeview highway near Lakeview.

Frank Z. Howard, county engineer, was to accompany the court on the trip. It is expected a Lakeview delegation will be on hand to help boost for the work on the Lakeview highway.

County court members have appointed a board for the county park in Stewart-Lenox addition. The members are William E. Marander, Arthur Erickson and C. P. Williams.

The Stewart-Lenox park property has been deeded to the county. Women of the community have been doing preliminary work in developing it, and it is expected industrial plants in that area will help.

Two boards of viewers were appointed by the court at its regular meeting Wednesday. On the plan for straightening and improving a section of the old Fort Klamath road, the viewers are J. C. Wright, C. W. Miller and County Engineer Howard.

The same viewers will function in connection with straightening the Crystal Springs road. One objection to the latter project has been received by the court.

The county court has not yet appointed a new member of the county library board, to succeed R. C. Groesbeck, resigned. Remaining members of the library board have been asked to recommend a prospect for the vacancy.

CHAMBER HEARS PLANS TO USE SMALL WATERS

Chamber of commerce directors Wednesday heard a letter from the National Reclamation association suggesting the larger development of small water resources with the aid of CCC camps. It was proposed that more camps be allocated to the interior department for work of this character.

The letter was referred to the land use committee of the chamber for study.

A letter from the Redding chamber of commerce suggested inter-community cooperation between Klamath Falls and Redding.

had served with the A.E.F., among them Col. Luke Lea of Tennessee and Larry MacPhail, now president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, secretly entered Holland and travelled to Kaiser Wilhelm's "haven."

According to legend surrounding the adventure, which the participants were reluctant to discuss in later years, the party actually entered Wilhelm's home, but fled when surprised by Dutch guards.

Complaints were made with the state department and Lea and his comrades were placed under military arrest. Disposition of the case never was revealed, but all were released.

Church said his group was not over-optimistic about its chances of achieving its end, but it thought the possibility was worth encouraging.

"I believe in my heart," he continued, "that Mr. Hitler should be held as the common enemy of mankind and brought to justice accordingly."

Church is a retired vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad and an officer of the French Legion of Honor.

operator and railroad agent at Corvallis. He abandoned the work because of eyestrain and joined his brother-in-law, N. B. Avery, in show business.

Still endeavoring to find an occupation to relieve his eyes, Irvine became a dairy farmer at Sprague, Wash., in 1888. Four years later, however—his eyes constantly growing weaker—he purchased the Corvallis Times and began a profession that lasted until his death.

He published the Corvallis paper for 16 years, contributing editorials to young Sam Jackson's Oregon Journal for the last two years. Jackson, crusading publisher of Portland's new paper, employed him in 1908 to devote full time to the editorial page.

The publisher promoted Irvine to associate editor and in 1919 he became editor, a post he held until July 22, 1937. He contributed a daily editorial column as editor-emeritus almost until death.

Irvine, a dignified, white-haired figure who moved unassisted about Portland despite his blindness, became widely known for his advocacy of United States affiliation with the League of Nations, public power, wartime liberty loans, Oregon agriculture, good roads and other issues.

The Wolf Creek highway to the sea is an outgrowth of his interest. His activities in recent years were centered around pioneer events, education, Americanism and anti-war movements.

He devoted 39 years to Oregon education and was among the first Oregon State college regents.

CAB DRIVER HELD ON TRAFFIC COUNT

George Stanley Duke, cab driver, was arrested by city police and charged with driving four-in-the-front seat Tuesday evening. Duke forfeited $5 bail.

Five traffic tickets were presented for payment at the desk sergeant's window, and in police court Police Judge Carl K. Cook sentenced three drunks, three charged with being disorderly, and one with being both drunk and disorderly.

From Medford—John Doerr, naturalist of Crater Lake national park, was a business visitor in Klamath Falls on Wednesday, calling on the park office here and also the US reclamation offices from his Medford headquarters.

had sent a British cruiser, a destroyer and five transports to the bottom and had damaged another cruiser and five other transports.

"The air force attacked British sea forces successfully before Namsos," the communique said, describing yesterday's operations. "One anti-aircraft cruiser was sunk by two direct hits, one heavy cruiser was damaged seriously by a direct hit of light caliber.

"In addition, one destroyer and five British transports sank after being hit, while five others suffered severe damage."

Declaring that "the German advance in Norway continues," the high command reported that German forces had taken more than 4900 prisoners. Of the front, it said merely that "At Trondheim fighting still went on yesterday," without indicating how near Trondheim the battle was raging.

KLAMATH'S VOTE BIG IN DISTRICT

parties than the four other counties combined.

Klamath county republicans represent 53.6 per cent of the total republican registration in the district. Klamath democrats claim 57.7 per cent of their total. Approximately 36 per cent of all the registered voters in the senatorial district reside in this county.

Klamath county has 8120 republicans, while the aggregate of republicans in the other four counties is 7003. Klamath has 12,125 democrats, against a total of 8886 democrats in the other counties of the district.

This apparently dominating position in the district is of particular interest at this time only in connection with the republican nomination for senator, there being no democratic nomination.

But the situation has an interesting complication in that three candidates are running for the republican nomination, and two of them are from this county. Senator U. S. Balentine and Marshall Cornett are the Klamath candidates, while George Brewster of Deschutes county is also running for the nomination.

The fact that two of the candidates are from Klamath may tend to diminish the importance of the heavy numerical edge enjoyed by Klamath republicans. It all depends on how Klamath republicans split votes between Balentine and Cornett. Presumably these candidates, between them, will get nearly all the Klamath vote, although Candidate Brewster is doing some vigorous campaigning down this way.

Both the Klamath candidates, of course, are going after the votes in similar fashion in Brewster's home balliwick in the northern part of the district, and there will be a strong play for Lake county's votes.

Lake and Deschutes county are together in one representative district, and the only candidate of any political complexion running for that job is Burt K. Snyder of Lake county. Deschutes is without a man in the field for either nomination in the joint representative district. It is just possible Brewster and his supporters are arguing to Lake county people that this is a show of friendship and generosity that should be rewarded with votes for Deschutes' senatorial candidate.

On the other hand, both Cornett and Balentine are well known in Lake county, and the friendly ties between Lake and Klamath county are well established.

Cornett, in politics for the first time, is proving an active campaigner and is widely known. Senator Balentine is a veteran of the political wars who has fought for votes in these counties on several previous occasions.

The outcome of the senatorial race on the republican side should be one of the most interesting of the May 17 primary election.

KLAMATH MEASLES SHOWS DECREASE

The measles epidemic eased in Klamath county, but flared up in other sections of the state, according to the report for the week ending April 27 and issued by Dr. Frederick Stricker, Oregon state health officer.

POLICE CREW GETS "PURITY" RATING IN BLOOD TESTS

"Positively negative," was the report issued by Dr. Peter H. Rosendal, Klamath county health officer, who typed the blood and gave Wassermann tests to the 29 members of the city police force, Police Judge Carl K. Cook, and the city hall family.

The boys did not take the tests that they might become known as the "purity squad," but instead as a gesture to other organized groups who might be interested in the tests. With typing the blood of the officers, these men may be reached in case of emergency morning, noon or night, it was pointed out.

Theatre Plans Cause Flurry Of Comment

Announcement of the proposed construction of two theatres, one in Klamath Falls and the other in the suburban area, was greeted with a flurry of comment along Main street Tuesday afternoon.

George M. Mann of the Redwoods Theatre corporation, San Francisco, made no further comment on construction of the $200,000 projects although he is expected to break ground within the next few weeks for both buildings.

One of the theatres will rise on the northwest corner of Pine and Seventh streets, the land now occupied by a used car lot. The property was formerly owned by J. I. and Orva E. Beard, and the Lorenz company. The sale was consummated late Tuesday.

The second theatre will be built on the corner of South Sixth street and Washburn way on property formerly owned by Andrew and Alfred Collier. The lots are on the left hand side of the highway going south and across Washburn way.

In Lakeview—W. L. McCauley, representative for the state industrial accident commission, has left for Lakeview where he will be located for the month of May. Interested persons may reach McCauley there.

STAGE SET FOR ARNHEIM DANCE

The stage is set at the Klamath Falls armory Thursday night for one of the highlights of the entertainment year—Gus Arnheim and his internationally famous "ace band from movie-land" who is being brought here under auspices of the junior chamber of commerce.

The celebrated band leader, signed through arrangements with the Music Corporation of America, is well known to radio through its nightly broadcasts, his commercial programs and coast to coast broadcasts.

Arnheim and his orchestra have furnished the music for many notable occasions in Hollywood. They have been featured in a number of talkies, having furnished the music in "Puttin' On the Ritz," "The Cuban," "Flying High" and "Her Majesty, Love," and others.

Gus has written many song hits, including "Sweet and Lovely," "It Must Be True," and "I Surrender Dear."

Recently Arnheim added to his many honors with a triumphant theatre tour during which he played the leading theatres of New York, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Kansas City.
