CARPENTERS NAME YEAR'S OFFICERS

Elections of officers of the Carpenters and Joiners, local 190, took place Wednesday night at the labor temple, where labor officials are busy this week preparing for three labor conventions which get underway here over the weekend. The new officers, to be installed at a meeting on July 3, are: President, J. R. Fugli; vice president, Charles Ohles; recording secretary, V. Schortgen; financial secretary, R. J. Hill; treasurer, C. D. Long; warden, Brooke Johnson; conductor,

Howard Wolf; trustee (three years), Howard Burkhard. Central Labor Union delegates elected were C. D. Long, Howard Wolf and Brooke Johnson. Fugli and Long were re-elected to the building trades council.

Outgoing president is Earl Godding and the outgoing vice president is L. C. Wishard. Schortgen, Hill and Long were elected by acclamation to serve again on the officers' staff.

Delegates and visiting officials were expected to begin arriving Friday for the three labor meetings which start here Saturday. The first meeting will be the building trades groups, which convenes Saturday morning. On Sunday, the culinary alliance will hold a one-day convention and on Monday the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Oregon State Federation of Labor will get underway for a five-day session.

QUOTA STILL OPEN FOR C.M.T.C. CAMP

Only three Klamath county men have made application so far for attendance at the citizens military training camp at Vancouver, Wash., July 1 to 30, according to Jack Kimball, chairman of the Klamath county committee on CMTC.

Klamath's quota is 18. Men from 18 to 29 are eligible to attend the CMTC. They should apply by calling at Kimball's office, at the Klamath Forest Protective headquarters on Conger avenue, or writing direct to the CMTC officer at Vancouver, Wash.

KLAMATH MAN HAS MANY RELATIVES IN EUROPE'S WAR

There is one man in Klamath Falls who finds the war brought close to his own doorstep and that is Richard Beddows, custodian laborer of the federal building, who served with both the British and American Expeditionary force in the World war. At this time Beddows has seven nephews in the British army, and one of the boys, the 28-year-old son of his brother, Solomon Beddows, was one of the Tommies who escaped with the British Expeditionary force from the Flanders inferno. Two of his brothers are fighting in France, and Beddows said four others were called to the colors early in the conflict. Last word from England was received last week, and no casualties were listed among the family at that time.

We must be certain beyond the shadow of a doubt that any war in which we may become involved is that of our own interest. —Raymond J. Kelly, national commander, American Legion.

RAILROAD NEWS

FIRST CAR OF WOOL LEAVES KLAMATH AREA

The first carload of wool to leave the Klamath basin this year was moved Thursday, bound for Boston.

Charles DeLap, local agent for H. I. Haber Wool company of San Francisco, handled the purchase, the wool being produced by Mike and Dan Sullivan.

The Haber people have made the only purchases so far in the basin. They have taken the clips of Jim and Morris O'Keefe of Merrill, and F. E. McMurphy of Tulelake. It is estimated there are more than half a million pounds of wool in the basin. The going price so far has been approximately 30 cents.

SHASTA CANDIDATE HIGH IN CONTEST

Hilda Huffman, who represents Shasta district in the Southern Pacific queen contest, is close to the top in the vote total, according to an announcement at the Klamath Southern Pacific offices. The Klamath county committee is turning over additional votes to her this week, which are expected to place her even higher in the contest standings.

Miss Huffman, only candidate among the six in the Sacramento division who is an employe of the company, is a telephone operator at the Dunsmuir offices. She was recently honored at Klamath Falls in the queen's dance held at the armory.

Several special cars have occupied places on sidings at the Southern Pacific depot here during the past few days, creating interest among travelers and visitors at the local depot. The "Shasta," a private car used by M. L. Jennings, assistant superintendent from Dunsmuir, arrived recently when Jennings and party came to Klamath Falls on business. Another official car, the "Sierra Nevada," left the local depot Wednesday morning, carrying C. F. Donatin, assistant general manager.

E. W. Masher, district passenger agent for Pennsylvania railroad, was a business visitor in Klamath Falls Wednesday, conferring with officials at the Great Northern offices.

G. G. Smart, general road master, with offices at Seattle, was a Klamath business visitor

Wednesday, calling on trainmen at the Great Northern offices. T. B. Hogan of Portland, claim agent for Great Northern railroad, has been a business visitor in the Klamath basin for the past few days.

MARY WORRELL TO TAKE FSA POSITION

Miss Mary Worrell, a case worker on the staff of the Klamath county welfare commission, has resigned to accept a position as home supervisor and social worker in migratory labor camps for the farm securities administration.

She will leave on June 15. Mrs. Altha Urquhart, administrator of the welfare agency, said no one has been selected to fill the vacancy on the local staff.

FIVE TRAFFIC FINES TURNED IN

Five traffic fines were paid in police court Thursday morning. One vag, John Regan, was arrested by city police and fined $100 and sentenced to 50 days in the city jail, the fine cancelled with the understanding he leave town immediately, according to Police Judge Carl K. Cook. Five drunks also appeared in court.

162 years ago, the American Flag took its present form. On that day congress resolved that the symbol of our democracy should be "13 stripes, alternate red and white on a blue field representing a constellation." John Paul Jones first unfurled the Stars and Stripes when he took command of the warship Ranger in June, 1777.

This store believes the American Flag means more TODAY, with the world in a turmoil, than it ever meant before and pledges renewed allegiance to it and all it stands for.
