Our Home Town

From Daniel Webster
By EARL WHITLOCK

Reading a good deal of pretty eloquent advice to graduating classes by various big shots, this past month or so, and taking into consideration the fine speeches which fervent patriots made at Fourth of July celebrations, I still stick to Daniel Webster as the greatest speaker of all.

Some of the more restrained speakers of his times used to joke about "old man Webster's Fourth of July rhetoric." But the following speech, which he made in the senate in 1850, should somehow be engraved on the brains of all glib American who look abroad for guidance.

"Americans, you are the most privileged people the sun shines on. Your soil, rich as a proverb, is less rich than your constitution. We live under the only government that ever existed which was framed by the unrestrained and deliberate consultations of the people. "Miracles do not cluster. That which has happened but once in six thousand years cannot be expected to happen often. Such a government, once gone, might leave a void to be filled for ages with revolution and tumult, riot and despair."

"We invite you to use Memory garden these warm July days."

Next Monday Mr. Whitlock of the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home will comment on "For a Greater America."

EAGLES CORPS TO APPEAR IN FREE CONCERT

The Fraternal Order of Eagles is sponsoring its two champion drum corps in a public exhibition on Modoc field Wednesday night at 7:30 p. m. In order that the people of Klamath Falls may see and hear a drum corps from their own home town that made an almost perfect score of 99.4 out of a possible 100 per cent, at the Eagles state convention in Marshfield last month. This is the highest score ever registered by any drum corps on the Pacific coast.

There is much talk throughout the state of sending this group to the Eagles national convention, held in Chicago the latter part of August. The Eagles corps uses the latest type of drum corps equipment and every member of the corps has become an artist on the instrument he plays.

The municipal band will give a public concert starting at 7:30 and will also fill in throughout the exhibition. All other uniform and marching units are being asked to participate and an interesting show is promised, as Klamath Falls can boast of several champion drum corps and drill teams.

All units will form at Third and Klamath at 7:00 sharp for a parade to Modoc field. The Eagles first aid group will also put on a demonstration of their work. This entire show is free to the public.

After the demonstration on the field, all members of the two Eagles corps are to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Drake at Roosevelt Tavern for a banquet and will also put on a demonstration there.

Any Eagle member who can furnish a courtesy car is asked to contact E. E. (Jack) Benner.

Omaha Has Serious Problem--Town Fast Going to Rabbits

OMAHA, Neb., July 8 (AP)—When a town goes to the dogs it's a pretty serious matter, but when it goes to the rabbits—you got something that's really bad.

The police department is worried, the Humane society is scratching its head, and Omaha housewives are up in arms—all over the rabbit problem.

The bunnies are thicker this year than in many past, and while now they feed on an ample supply of clover and blue grass, property owners are worried over the potential menace to trees and shrubs next winter.

Roberts of all is the attitude of the rabbits. Mrs. Martha De France, housewife, told Police Capt. Frank Rose she tried to shoo the rabbits out of her yard, but they just sat and looked at her.

British Morale Depends Upon Power to Endure Slaughter

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Whether England can ward off the impending nazi air-attack in connection with the projected invasion will depend in no small degree on how much civilian slaughter can be endured without cracking the morale of its military defenders.

It's one thing for soldiers to face death for themselves, and quite another to see their women and children blown to pieces.

Areas Congested
Under the best of circumstances, mass-bombing over Britain is bound to result in terrible civilian casualties. The bulk of its population lives in the congested industrial areas. Military objectives and civilians are so intermingled that there is no way of bombing one and not the other.

British War Minister Eden gave warning the other day when he admonished the civilian population to stay where they were when the bombs began to rain, and not rush into the highways and by ways. If the people can stick in their little bomb-proofs, or such shelter as they can find, there will be manpower enough to do a sizable job of looking after the injured, extinguishing fires, and opposing any actual invasion.

Difficult Job
It's a terrific strain to remain glued to a spot under heavy bombing—actually much more difficult than being in action against the enemy. However, the British are facing the coming storm under no delusions. Old and young alike know that death lurks in the sky and that many must die. All indications are that they are determined to see it through under the leadership of Premier Churchill, who has told them:

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat. . . Without victory there is no survival."

Moving Out
Britain is beginning to move women and children out of the country. Some already have arrived in Canada and the United States, and many more will come if there is time before the German attack begins.

Close Range
England's smallness, while increasing the danger to its big population from bombing, has one advantage—it should be easier to defend against an air attack. Employment of German planes in masses certainly will result in large numbers of them being shot down. The nazis expect this, and are prepared to lose the part of the rabbits, and Capt. Rose said he would try and cook up something.

Mrs. De France hopes it will be the rabbits. John Welch, Humane society executive, proposed setting of "figure four" traps to catch the bunnies. He pointed out use of firearms is forbidden, poison and steel traps are dangerous to dogs, cats and other pets.

You make a figure four trap out of three sticks, a small box and a piece of carrot for bait, and catch the rabbit alive. How to get rid of the captive becomes the citizen's problem.

Dr. C. M. Wilhelm of Creighton university suggested that fear of tularemia, or "rabbit fever," has caused hunters to quit shooting rabbits, and is probably one of the causes for their rapid increase.

MERCHANTS DECIDE YULE DECORATIONS

Main street will be decorated with Christmas lights as well as decorations during the 1940 holiday season, members of the Klamath Retail Trade bureau voted at their monthly Monday luncheon meeting.

The merchants agreed to accept the proposition of A. V. Wicklund, manager of the Kem Sign company of Portland, to make plans for Christmas street decorating now. Wicklund told members that if he could start work immediately in preparation for the holiday season, the price for decorations with lights would be the same as last year when no lights were put up on the festooned streamers.

Decorations this year, the merchants decided, should be in place the first Saturday after Thanksgiving, the exact date to be decided when President Roosevelt names Thanksgiving day by proclamation. They will cost $750 for Main street from Second street to The News-Herald office, with $15 charged for each additional string on side streets and $30 for each additional intersection cross-strings.

by JOHN CLINTON
Over the fence this morning my neighbor hailed me thusly: "Say John, why don't you tell your readers about those swell free post cards Union's giving away?"
So, here's your invitation to some of the most beautiful post cards you've ever seen— all for free!
They've been reproduced from natural-color photographs of western scenes, especially taken by expert color-photographers.
There are missions, mountains, the ocean, ghost towns, treasure islands, and a whole bunch of other magnificent scenery. Together they make a collection of western pictures you couldn't duplicate anywhere.
Here's the way it works. The Union stations around your community have scenes taken near you. Other stations in other communities have scenes of their prize beauty spots. Thus, if you take a trip, you can collect the entire set simply by asking at Union stations in the west.
You don't have to send in any box tops. No obligation. Just say: "May I have some post cards?" and you get 'em!
It's part of Union's service to motorists of the west. Get started on your collection, today. Send some to the folks back east, too. They'll love 'em.
Say, be sure you listen to Union's new summer radio program with Knox Manning and Mahlon Merrick's orchestra, 7:30 p.m. (P.S.T.) Mondays, Red Network, NBC. Don't miss it!
