ever, stressed the damage done by the British Spitfire and Hurricane fighter defenders.

One squadron of Spitfires, it was stated, chased a large formation of Dornier bombers across the channel toward France and "damaged at least five." Another Spitfire group engaged more than thirty Dorniers—five miles above the Kentish coast.

Ominous undertones to the day of aerial struggle were continued reports, trickling belatedly through the censor, of the reported shelling by long-range cannon yesterday of one southeast coastal town. Householders were unanimous in their belief that shells, not bombs, caused damage to houses. However, authorities said there was no confirmation "at all" of the reported cannonade.

Despite the hundreds of planes which the Germans used today and the "zero hour" predictions from the continent, some British experts said they didn't believe the battle yet had reached "blitzkrieg force."

Germany, they asserted, can afford to send a thousand planes a day against England in an attempt to smash aerial resistance. They speculated, too, on the possibility that the reich may choose to maintain an aerial blockade of England to bring her to her knees before winter, rather than a frontal assault.

BERLIN, Tuesday, Aug. 13 (UP)—Germany's aerial offensive has blasted a path for Adolf Hitler's promised "destruction" of Britain with crippling attacks on three of Britain's four great naval bases along the English channel coast, nazi spokesmen said today.

Britain's resistance in the air has been "broken," under the blows of the aerial assault which has destroyed 164 British planes in the last 48 hours, the official BNB agency said.

Waves of "blitz" assault planes roared upon Britain's great Portsmouth naval base, airdromes, convoys in the channel and protective balloon barges today were claimed to have added another 71 planes to Sunday's bag of 93. "This is only the beginning," said nazi spokesmen.

WALTONS RETURN FROM LONG TRIP TO CANADA, EAST

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Walton returned Wednesday of last week from an interesting trip by train and motor which took them from the Pacific coast into Canada, and along the Atlantic coast and return. The Waltons left by train July 6 for Lansing, Mich., where they took possession of a new car. They visited in Alma, Mich., with a cousin and from there motored to Cleveland, O., where they attended the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar of the United States from July 14 to 19.

The next stop made by the Waltons was at Niagara Falls and from there they motored to Utica, N. Y., where they joined an old friend and were his guests for three days touring Quebec and other Canadian points and visiting their host's estate which faces the St. Lawrence river. The Waltons then returned to the United States through the Adirondacks and visited Lake George and Lake Champlain, West Point, and on to New York where they saw the fair. In Summit, N. H., they were guests of friends, and from there motored to Washington, D. C., where they spent the greater part of three days and enjoyed visits with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tebbe, she being the former Margaret Nye and at one time a Klamath librarian, and also with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Andrews.

Walton reported the heat intense in Washington and they became anxious to return to the west coast. En route home they visited the Bad Lands and Black Hills of the Dakotas and were particularly impressed with Ten Sleep canyon. An interesting stay in Yellowstone completed their touring and from there they drove directly to Klamath Falls by way of Boise, and the John Day country.
