

Britain Seeking Pilots to Ferry Planes Over Sea

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 21 (AP)—An offer of $500 per trip to all takers to ferry planes across the turbulent north Atlantic to England had the Oklahoma flying fraternity buzzing today. Arriving unheralded, Col. William C. Brooks, flying soldier of fortune, outlined this proposition and two alternatives, according to aviators he interviewed. For the pilots he could not reach during his stay, he left interview blanks and posters. The supplemental offers were: (1) Ferrying jobs to England and, (2) commissions in the Canadian royal air force with assurances that those enlisting would serve only as instructors and see no foreign service. These offers bolstered the reports current since the war began that England eventually would seek to ferry American-made ships across the ocean, taking a chance on losing only a few through crashes or combat rather than a whole shipload in a submarine or naval bombing attack.

"Dangerous" Nazi Escapes From Canadian Camp

SOMEWHERE IN ONTARIO, Aug. 21 (AP)—A young German officer who speaks perfect English and who is described as "dangerous" was at large today after a bold, perhaps radio-directed escape from a Canadian internment camp in northern Ontario. Fifth columnists, at least one of them a woman, were believed by Canadian authorities, to have aided in the escape. The prisoner, brought here from England, crawled to freedom through a three-foot high tunnel built directly under one of the guard rooms and braced efficiently by timber which police said was stolen piece by piece from workmen building additions to the camp barracks. So carefully was the tunnel made that authorities believe a general escape may have been planned. Perhaps most amazing of all was the discovery of a radio transmitting set concealed in the ceiling of the barracks over his bed, over which the prisoner apparently planned his escape with outside help. The tunnel extended 50 yards from an ice house in which the prisoner worked.
