

SPOKANE AIRPORT TO BECOME ARMY BOMBING BASE

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 28 (UP)—Spokane's municipal airport, Felta Field, will become an army bombing base this fall with 40 bombers and 1400 men, it was learned Tuesday.

City authorities and army officers mapped plans for the transition, which will include immediate construction of two-mile-long runways. The two major airlines serving Spokane will continue to use the field.

The government will pay 90 per cent of the cost and the city 10 per cent, the city council revealed. Construction of Sunset Field will continue, although it was not known if the field would be used as an air base as originally contemplated.

$80,000 HOUSING PROGRAM TO CARE FOR GUARDSMEN

CAMP MURRAY, Wash., Aug. 28 (UP)—An $80,000 housing program will care for national guardsmen who will be mobilized during September, Brig. Gen. Maurice Thompson said Tuesday.

The program will precede construction of a permanent camp at Fort Lewis. It will provide 73 mess halls and kitchens, and 1500 tent floors for guardsmen from Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Wyoming.
