

TRIPLE-A EYES PROGRAMS FOR 1941 OPERATION

With the 1941 AAA farm program providing more leeway than ever before for county and state variations to meet local conditions, the state committee for Oregon is now preparing the new handbook and other details for putting the program in effect in this state.

Oregon is one of the few, if not the only state, to have the same farmer personnel on the state committee since its organization in 1936. The only change has been the promotion of the first chairman, N. E. Dodd, to the position of western regional director. Other farmer members then and now are Will Steen, Milton, chairman the past two years; John Shepard, Secy; William Enschede, Hillsboro, and Robert Weir, Lakeview.

Final details of the 1941 program, announced late in August, follow closely the recommendations of farmer committeemen at a national conference earlier in the summer, says N. C. Donaldson, Oregon executive officer. Both the agricultural conservation and range programs follow the same general lines as those of 1939 and 1940.

Provision is made for continuing the combined range and agricultural conservation in any area approved by the state committee.

Payment for natural reseedling by deferred grazing and supplemental practices is increased from 75 per cent to 100 per cent of the range-building allowance, to permit ranchmen to carry out to a greater extent practices best adapted to their land. Maximum payment for deferred grazing without supplementary practices is also increased somewhat.

Three provisions which may be applied in individual counties to obtain greater conservation are included in the 1941 program. These may be used in lieu of total soil-depleting acreage allotments in areas where feed crops are not generally grown for market and where greater conservation can be obtained under the alternate provisions.

Telling The Editor

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor) — Undoubtedly there are many persons in this state who feel that free high school text books would just mean an added burden to the taxpayers. Careful consideration will prove that free text books in high schools are not only advantageous and economical to the parents of the students but to the community and state at large.

All of us admit the advantages of a high school education. Is it fair to deny a child those advantages simply because he has been born into a large family or a family of low annual income? To cheat a child of higher education simply because he lacks the price of text books is not only unnecessary but un-American. For we of America believe in making an education possible for youth in all walks of life. In a democratic government education is essential to the welfare of that government.

If we look about the first of next month we will see teen age youths and their parents paying excessive prices for books. Or it they are among the more fortunate few they may be able to "get by" a few cents less by paying book rental. In most cases they will be forced to buy new books. The old books used by sister or brother last year are usually useless for one of three reasons. They are out of date (being a year or two old). The new teacher doesn't care for that particular author's books, or the books on hand are not books which can be used in the younger students' course of study. I recall one instance wherein a mother paid four dollars for a text book to be used one semester!

Take the number of students enrolled in KUHS this fall, multiply it by ten dollars, and you have an estimate of the cost of text books in Klamath Falls alone. Surely our school executives and citizens are business people enough to know that books purchased collectively cost less than books purchased individually.

Personally I had rather pay for my children's high school text books in annual taxes, as to take the chances of being in the midst of a depression such as we

Boy Driver Champions From Every State Reach N. Y. Fair

WORLD'S FAIR, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Forty-eight boy automobile drivers from every state in the union—champions of their home states—began registering here this morning for their first annual national driving contest, conducted by the Ford Good Drivers league. First to sign and receive his league sweater with "State Champion, California" on its sleeve was Paul H. Chamberlain, 17, of Auburn, Calif.

Central event of the opening day program today is a "Welcome to New York" luncheon at the Hotel Commodore. Hon. Stanley Howe, secretary to Mayor LaGuardia, will deliver the address of welcome and each boy champion will be presented a $75 wristwatch. Immediately thereafter a parade of 48 cars, each driven by a boy state champion, will make its way to the fairgrounds, where the guests will tour the Ford exhibit and the fair, and dine in the spacious seven-acre Ford pavilion.

The boy champions, each of whom was privileged to bring with him one adult sponsor, are spending a week in New York. Champions and sponsors have all their expenses paid by the league, and the week's activities center about the Ford Motor pavilion at the fair. The object of the league is to promote safety on the highways by teaching every teen-age boy in America to drive expertly.

Meanwhile judges for the $30,000 national driving contest have been assembling at the Hotel Commodore, the league's downtown headquarters. Each boy will go through two days of rigid testing, which includes day and night driving through traffic, driving amongst obstacles, a written examination on safe driving, and tests with specially devised apparatus that measures hearing, eyesight, reaction time and other mental and physical characteristics that influence driving ability.

While two days of the gala week will be completely occupied with driving tests, the rest of the program will be a merry round of sightseeing and entertainment. There will be luncheons at the Belgian pavilion and at Perylon hall, where the fair has entertained the king and queen of England and other distinguished guests. The boys will tour LaGuardia airport and lunch there as guests of American Airlines, which will also give them airplane rides over New York.

A steamer has been chartered to take the party completely around Manhattan island. The boys will see the celebrated Aquacade and view the fair's magnificent fireworks display from the spacious private cabana of the Florida state exhibit. Special buses will take them all over New York City. They will go to Yankee stadium to watch Charlie Ruffing, Joe DiMaggio and their teammates play an American league game. There's an evening at Coney island on the schedule, with a shore dinner on the famous boardwalk.

Meanwhile judges for the $30,000 national driving contest have been assembling at the

MOVIE SCOUT GAG CLEARED, CLAIM

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 30 (UP)—H. C. Carrasco, state labor commissioner, today claimed elimination of "racketeering" by so-called talent scouts in Hollywood who have defrauded parents with movie ambitions for their children.

Carrasco's office took jurisdiction over minors working in motion pictures a year ago and worked out a special procedure for issuing work permits to minors. In addition, the office attempted to inform all parents of their rights under the state laws.

As a result, Carrasco said: "In the year that the procedure has been tried out, excellent results have been obtained both from the point of view of this division and from that of the industry. One of the objectives of the procedure was to discourage petty racketeering by unscrupulous individuals who preyed upon parents with movie ambitions for their children. So far as we know, such racketeering has been eliminated."

PLACEMENTS GROW IN AIR INDUSTRY

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 30 (UP)—The state department of employment today reported a 400 per cent increase in placements in the rapidly expanding aircraft industry in the past year.

The department placed 1700 workers in the industry in July compared to 300 in June of 1939 and 900 in July, 1940. The figures represent placements made only by the state department, other figures indicate that employment increased about 10 per cent in the industry during the year.

The importance of the aircraft industry from the standpoint of placements by the department is indicated by the fact that it accounted for nearly nine per cent of all complete placements in private industry and over one-third of all placements in manufacturing industries during July.

Of the 1700 placements, 37 per cent were reported by the San Diego office, 17 per cent by the Los Angeles office, 16 per cent by the Glendale office, 8 per cent by Long Beach and 6 per cent by San Bernardino.

Most of the jobs filled were those requiring some skill. Principal occupations in which workers were placed were riveters, sheet metal workers and assemblers.

INVESTIGATION BY GRAND JURY ASKED

Bert Hugh McKechnie, appearing in justice court Thursday in a preliminary hearing on a charge of burglary not in a dwelling, asked a grand jury investigation and was bound over to that body.

His bond was set at $2500 cash or $5000 property.

McKechnie was arrested June 28 on charges resulting from the burglary of the Drumstick, a South Sixth street cafe. He is represented by U. S. Balentine.
