Speaker At Club Produces Magic

Mr. Seavey Entertains Soroptimists With Interesting Feats

C. E. Seavey, guest of the Soroptimist club at luncheon Thursday noon, kept the group amused, startled and perplexed with his clever manipulation of cards, thimbles, "telephone poles" and handkerchiefs which went into his palm as red, but emerged as orange, green, or what have you, and although Mr. Seavey earnestly tried to explain the queer happenings of various articles he was using no one seemed much the wiser when it was all over.

BPW Club Has Dinner

Members Enjoy 'Mess' With National Guard Boys

"Roughing it with the boys," the Business and Professional Women's club Monday patriotically ate its second dinner of the club year from the mess kits of the national guard, whose culinary headquarters are also, at present, in the Willard hotel building.

Speaking in keeping with the general theme of the meeting, Mrs. Frank C. Henderson, itinerant director of the Girl Scouts of America, gave an entertaining description of her organization's history and purposes.

Of considerable interest to the Business Women was Mrs. Henderson's account of her first Girl Scout venture, that of knitting for the soldiers in World War number one, which was the inspiration for the national organization of Girl Scouts.

Under the able direction of Mrs. Esther Lawler, the club's call to arms was issued, in the form of a membership committee rally designed to interest old and new members alike in the program outlined for the coming year.

Following the manual of arms, presented by the national guard, a brief business meeting was conducted by the club president, Mrs. Flo Ann Eaton.

Assisting Mrs. Lawler, chairman of the membership committee were Bernice Britt, Mabel Upper, Delphia Hoyt, and Cordelia Cantrill.

STINGERETTE CLUB ENJOYS THURSDAY PARTY

Phillips, Mrs. J. Jensen, Mrs. P. Jones, Mrs. E. G. Thomas, Mrs. W. Fuller, Mrs. P. Horne, Mrs. H. Sackett, Mrs. H. Lyke, and Mrs. J. J. Pex.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Zella Blankenship, 312 Martin street, on September the twentieth, at one o'clock. Members of the club honored Mrs. Marguerite McKim with a shower and cake on her birthday.

Accompanying his expert demonstration of magic, Mr. Seavey told of the development of the art from the time Merlin of Arthurian days down to the present. Among the many interesting things he told the group was the original use of a deck of cards by the Crusaders as a calendar, the fifty-two cards representing the weeks of the year, the spots on the cards adding up to the number of days in the year, and other intriguing facts in this connection.

Miss Catherine Gaylord acting as program chairman introduced the guest. The club welcomed Mrs. Fred W. Bertram home after an absence of many weeks.

Delegates to the conference to be held at Wenatchee October the eleventh and twelfth were elected by the club at a former meeting. Mrs. Rita Whisenant becomes senior representative upon the expiration of the term of Mrs. Ruby Lyle. Mrs. Lyle was elected as alternate for Mrs. Whisenant and Mrs. Gwendolyn Wright was elected as junior representative with Mrs. W. E. Lamm as alternate.

Copies of the latest reprint of the federation constitution were handed to the members, this having been revived at the biennial meeting in Salt Lake last June. According to action taken at that meeting no further revision is apt to take place for some time. The report of the proceedings of this convention is now in the hands of the president and available to any member interested in looking it over.

From the region this week came a news chat item of interest regarding each club in the northwest region. These will be handed to members at next Thursday's luncheon.
