

TOWNS WIPED OUT, FLAMES ADD TO TOLL

Explosions — Again at mid-morning today, earth tremors shook this capital, toppling balconies and adding to the death list which grew steadily as communications were re-established with provinces where village after village reported fatalities yesterday.

Explosions and fires in the ruins of an apartment house where nearly 200 were entombed killed an undetermined number of iron guard rescue workers. Bursting gasoline tanks spat flames through the wreckage, sealing the fate of those trapped beneath and it was not known how many searchers had gone to their deaths.

MOSCOW, Nov. 11 (AP) — Earth tremors, the strongest ever recorded in Moscow, were reported today to have damaged some southern Russian cities yesterday, particularly Kiev and Odessa.

Striking at the same time as the tremors which devastated thousands of buildings in Rumania, the earthquake awakened many persons here and cracked the walls of some buildings, but did no serious damage, the Seismological institute announced. No casualties were reported.

Stronger shocks were felt in the southern cities. Authorities said the disturbance was part of an earthquake centered in the Carpathian mountains, with a radius of 2000 kilometers (about 1250 miles).

The sixth recent earthquake in the Carpathians, it was registered in Moscow at 4:42 a. m., Sunday (5:42 p. m., PST, Saturday).

Britain Waiting To Strike Blow In Near East

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP) — An informed British source declared today that Britain would strike at the axis forces in the near east at the earliest possible moment.

This authority said that reinforcements must be sent swiftly to the near east in preparation for "a fierce and protracted struggle" and that Egypt must be held "at all costs" because of its vital strategic position.

He estimated Italian strength in Libya, pointed toward Egypt and the Suez canal, at 250,000 troops, plus a group of German technicians and tactical experts. Commenting on the near eastern campaign, experts declared that Britain's position in the western desert was "immensely improved" with "better" armaments and defenses.

STRONG AMERICA URGED IN TALK BY SENATOR DAVIS

are building a strong America — not strong in armaments alone, but strong in that we are a productive nation."

He left a prepared text to make several extemporaneous comments, but touched only occasionally on politics.

"We hope," he said, "that campaign pledges will be kept to keep America out of foreign wars."

Senator Davis outlined a "peace formula," in which he traced the history of early efforts for peace following the last World war. He described the efforts for disarmament in the early '20s, and said that "no one kept disarmament agreements except Great Britain."

"Dream" — "We lulled ourselves into a pacifist's dream of never having war," he said. "But who could have dreamed that countries such as Germany and Italy would arm and seek to change the world as they have?"

Declaring that peace can be founded on brotherhood between nations, Senator Davis declared:

"The triumph of good will is assured only as we discover in the practical working relationships of life that brotherhood brings the greatest rewards. The ultimate triumph of the brotherhood of man is assured from the fact that it pays. Our peaceful relationship with Canada all these years has been founded on this brotherhood. We have no fortresses, no armed guard at this border. We have love and respect for one another."

Cost of War — The man who won world-wide fame by rising from an "iron puddler" in an eastern steel plant to national prominence in government and politics, declared that one good way to keep the peace is to remind the public of the cost of war.

"I believe in peace. I shall continue to work for peace," he said. "One practical way of keeping the peace is constantly to remind taxpayers of the cost of war. When we allow veterans' claims to go unpaid we abandon the cause of peace. Every dollar which the government pays for just veterans' claims should be a dollar which shall protect America from ever again involving ourselves in foreign wars. By this time we should have learned that it is far better to spend our national funds in behalf of a guarded peace than for politics which lead to war."

Hits Spending — The address touched on political issues when Senator Davis referred to "partisan political spending" as closing down private work opportunities.

"We have been spending the nation's substance in riotous living," he said. "Now we are nationally in want. It is time that we came to ourselves. I know that the vast majority of the idle men and the women of America want an opportunity to work. They are not idle because they want to be idle but simply because a national policy of partisan political spending has closed down the private work opportunities we so greatly need. We must have a productive America.

"No other nation in the world would permit such precarious conditions of citizenship as we have been tolerating in the United States. I faced these problems intimately for ten years administering the immigration and naturalization laws while secretary of labor. The basic immigration laws were passed during that decade and we began our national march toward unity and homogeneity which are so necessary to the welfare of all our citizens and to the peace of the world. It has been apparent now for many years that there are persistent movements in our midst, inspired by alien leadership, to overthrow our American institutions of government.

"It is dangerous to toy with these incipient swarms of radicalism which are now breeding in secret fashion in obscure places in the country or being heralded from the house-tops under the cover of names which were once the badge of respectable citizenship and national honor. We must resolutely resist those who seek to dominate our country by boring within our established institutions quietly and apparently peacefully, hoping that later they may develop such strength that through force and violence they may overthrow this republic.

"America must be on her guard against those who prefer expediency to principle, personal power rather than distributed responsibility, and mass hysteria to established procedure of law and order."

Klamath and Bend football team members will be honored guests at the Armistice day dance tonight in the armory it was announced by Samuel P. Miller, chairman of the American Legion committee planning the affair. Members of the Legion auxiliary and junior auxiliary are also assisting. The public is invited to attend the dance, Miller stated.

Scores of Bend football fans invaded Klamath Falls Monday for the annual Armistice day football game between the Lava Bears and the Pelicans.

The Bend Kiwanis club members joined the Klamath Kiwanians for lunch at the Willard hotel prior to the game.

and operated by Rhodes, his employee.

The vehicles came together on the truck's left-hand side of the Weed highway in a terrific crash that merged the front ends in a mass of twisted wreckage.

Instantly Killed

Young Johnson and his wife were instantly killed by the impact.

Kramer and Bothwell were seriously injured.

At Klamath Valley hospital, it was reported Monday morning Kramer has a possible skull fracture, fracture of the right ankle, possible fracture of the right leg and fractured right hand. He is an employee of Balsiger Motor company, residing at the garage where he operated the night wrecker.

Bothwell, who made his home with the Johnsons, was less seriously hurt. He has bad cuts on the right wrists, painful leg injuries, scratches and bruises. He is employed in the parts department of the Balsiger Motor company.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were badly mangled. Their bodies were removed to the Ward funeral home. Johnson has been employed by the Turner Chevrolet company since the spring of 1937 as floor man. He was the son of Mrs. A. H. Johnson of The Dalles. Mrs. Johnson was the daughter of Mrs. Effie Wilson, Centralia, Wash.

Passersby reported the Sunday night accident to authorities, and state police, District Attorney Sisemore, and Dr. George H. Adler responded.

Rhodes, who was uninjured, was immediately placed under arrest and held in the state police car while an investigation was made.

The car and truck were resting in the left traffic lane, southbound, near the yellow line. They were wedged together so tightly auto wreckers had difficulty pulling them apart.

Dies on Arrival

Smith, the victim of the Merrill highway accident Saturday night, died upon arrival at the Hillside hospital. His skull was fractured and his back injured when the car he was driving left the road, apparently when a tire blew, plunged into a ditch on the left side, rolled over twice, took out a highway pole, crashed into a telephone pole and came to a stop astride a ditch.

With Smith in the car was Mrs. Mary Booker, also of Rogue River. She was treated at Hillside hospital.

Both occupants of the car were thrown clear when it somersaulted but it is believed Smith was struck by the rolling machine.

The car, a heavy 1936 sedan, was headed south at the time of the accident.

Although there was considerable snow on mountain highways near here over the weekend, both of these fatal accidents occurred on dry pavement on valley roads and apparently were not attributable in any way to weather conditions, officers pointed out.

CHAMBERLAIN DIES AMID WRECKAGE OF DREAM OF PEACE

ioners at the neighborhood church had prayed for his recovery.

"Grand Failure"

At evening services, the Rev. H. R. P. Tringham said in eulogy:

"Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God, and no one has worked harder for our peace. Although his work seemed a failure, it was a grand failure."

That and the press praise of Chamberlain as an "honest statesman" who did his best to save peace without attempting to sidestep criticism of the results of his policies were the first tributes paid publicly.

King George VI and Queen Elizabeth headed the list of many who sent private messages to the family. During his illness they recently spent an hour at his bedside.

WORKERS LIST SKILLS IN 370 DEFENSE JOBS

More than 350,000 workers throughout the state are being given an opportunity this week to list their skills in 370 essential defense occupations.

In appeals made through representative committees in fifty communities, the board for the mobilization of labor is urging that no eligible person be missed. About 15,000 employers are co-operating by keeping individual work-sheets for use in case of a defense production emergency in this area.

Early returns from the census, forms for which were mailed out last week, indicate that many thousands skilled men will be found. Tabulations will be started soon, according to Leon S. Davis of Hillsboro, who has been placed in active charge of the survey under Director L. C. Stoll.

"After looking over the returns, I believe that in nearly every instance employers are making a whole-hearted attempt to list all skilled workers," said Mr. Davis. "However, I urge that reports should not be concluded until every employee has had a chance to list his experience."

Committees now are organizing headquarters where farmers, small business men and others also may register their skilled experience so as to be available for nearby defense production when needed.

senate foreign relations committee immediately became a matter of moment.

Senator Pat Harrison (D-Miss.) was the ranking committee member, but for him to take the post would mean relinquishing chairmanship of the equally important senate finance committee. Harrison indicated promptly that he intended to retain his finance chairmanship and—since no senator may head two committees—this decision made George the No. 1 man.

Large units of the division were annihilated, it said. Although the full extent of the reported Greek victory in the Pindus mountains still was not learned, reports indicated that a large proportion of the Italian Alpinists were either killed or captured.

BERLIN, Nov. 11 (AP) — Annihilation of another British sea convoy by air attack was reported by authorized sources today but no details were divulged.

These sources also said a merchantman of about 3000 tons also had been sunk about 300 miles off the west coast of Ireland.

ROME, Nov. 11 (AP) — Italian bombers attacked two British naval squadrons, one in the Gulf of Suda off the Greek island of Crete and the other in the central Mediterranean, the Italian high command reported today. Two cruisers were said to have been hit by bombs in the attack off the northwest end of Crete.

F. R. SPEAKS ON DEMOCRACY AT ARLINGTON TOMB

now finds itself Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I, for one, do not believe that the world will revert either to a modern form of ancient slavery or to controls vested in modern feudalism or modern emperors or modern dictators or modern oligarchs in these days. The very people under their iron heels, will, themselves, rebel."

Of the three major allies fighting shoulder to shoulder when the armistice was signed November 11, 1918, this country alone was at peace uncoursured by war as it rendered reverential homage to the unknown soldier who personifies its World war dead.

Britain Marks Day

In London embattled Britain will forego her annual observance and make the day one of rededication — to the memory both of those who fell in the long years between 1914 and 1918, and of those who have died in the present struggle.

Paris, where once France paid solemn tribute each year to the World war fallen, is in the hands of a conquering army and the nation has a new roster of dead to add to the long list of the former war.
