

BIG GAMES SCARCE ON ADVANCED TURKEY DAY

PLAYOFF PROTESTED

Coach Cecil Sherwood of La Grande high—handedly raps the Oregon High School Athletic association for "high-handed" action in disposing of the mythical state football championship and snubbing the Tigers' claim to the title.

The eastern Oregonians, confronted by the same problem of cold and snow that forces the Klamath Pelicans to cut short their playing season, protest the legality of the newly adopted system on the grounds that it was announced too late in the year.

The charge of "high-handed" action, however, seems groundless, in the face of La Grande's arbitrary refusal, several weeks ago, to consider the state association's playoff scheme. The Tigers, basing their claim on an unmatched record of wins, announced themselves state titlists.

The OHSAA's decision did come belatedly, but cannot be tossed aside at this stage of the game without throwing the whole playoff system back into the unsatisfactory mythical status, possibly junking any chance of a permanent title setup.

We'll take the OHSAA winner as the bona fide state champs, admit that La Grande was a victim of circumstances this year, and urge that in future seasons the playoffs be moved up to allow "high country" teams a chance to compete with the rest of the state before playing and practice schedules are snowed out.

AGGIE ALL-AMERICAN

Homer Hill Norton, coach of the Texas Aggies, nominates no less than eight of his own players for a 1940 All-American football lineup. Without a tremor, he lists them as follows:

John Kimbrough, fullback; Jim Thomason, blocking back; Bill Conster, wing back; Marlon Pugh, tail back; Jim Sterling, left end; Ernie Pannell, left tackle; and Marshall Robnett and Charles Henke, guards.

Bill Street, an official himself, estimates the four officials travel a total of 20 miles during an average football game. . . . Stanford's student body is so certain that the Indians will play in the Rose bowl that the executive committee already has approved a plan to stage a rally December 30 "to drum up spirit, for the big game."

Pan-American Games Planned

WICHITA, Kas., Nov. 21 (AP)—A Pan-American semipro baseball tournament may be held next September among championship contenders representing Latin-American countries, the United States and possibly Canada. Ray Dumont, president of the National Semipro Baseball Congress, said today.

Sport Briefs

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 21—Nothing official yet, ladies and gentlemen, but here is the bowl line-up to date—Stanford vs. Texas Aggies at Pasadena; Boston college vs. Tennessee at New Orleans. (Now you just wait and see) . . . One of the terms of Jimmy Wilson's contract with the Cubs is that he will coach at third base . . . From what we hear, the all-America pickers are having their troubles deciding between Hapes and Hovious of Mississippi U . . . This town is high school football mad—and if you believe the taxi drivers, the schools (high schools, mind you) are putting out for talent . . . Tommy Harmon of Michigan is a cinch to get the Heisman memorial trophy for the year's outstanding griddler.

They May Play in Rose Bowl

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Thanksgiving football fare today is almost as bare as the Thanksgiving turkey will be tomorrow.

There was a time when this holiday was just about the biggest moment in any football season. That was when Armistice day, election day or any other red letter date on the calendar was considered set aside for the college schedule makers.

For several years, however, the trend has been toward sticking to Saturday's exclusively, and the confusion over the celebration of Thanksgiving the last two years has just about cooked the day's goose as well as the turkey, so far as football is concerned.

As a result, the only game in the east today involving a major team will be Fordham's fracas with Arkansas at the local Polo Grounds. This might have been an attractive entree on the holiday menu when it was scheduled, but the Rams are once-beaten and the Razorbacks have won only two out of seven engagements and the flavor of the offering has been somewhat impaired.

Fans in the Baltimore area will be entertained, presumably, by the battle of a strong little eleven from Rutgers and the staggering Terrapins of the University of Maryland, who have won only one game and scored but two touchdowns this season.

In the south the spotlight will be focused on the Southern conference, which has two games on tap. Virginia Military and Virginia Tech will keep their annual gridiron date while the University of Richmond Spiders engage William and Mary.

Coach's Choice

Utah vs. Idaho—Idaho is improving, but I think Utah will win.

Fresno State vs. Colorado Mines—Fresno State.

San Jose vs. South Dakota State—San Jose and the Warner offense—again.

College of Pacific vs. Nevada—Stagg's team is badly crippled, and Nevada should win.

San Diego Marines vs. Whittier—The Marines are too strong.

Willamette vs. Whitman—Willamette should win, but may have to work.

Denver vs. Colorado—Colorado by a shade.

U. C. L. A. vs. Washington—Washington will have trouble with Jackie Robinson but should win.

Gonzaga vs. Washington State—Gonzaga will be at peak, but I believe Washington State has too many guns.

Hardin-Simmons vs. San Francisco—Hardin-Simmons.

Portland vs. Montana—Portland in a scoring game.

Colorado State vs. Brigham Young—Brigham Young.

Loyola vs. Santa Clara—Santa Clara.
