DAYTON DAIRYMAN CRITICALLY HURT BY MADDENED BULL
McMINNVILLE, Nov. 29 (AP)—An attack by a maddened bull left Warren Miller, 34, Dayton dairyman, in a critical condition in a hospital yesterday.

The bull ripped almost all Miller's clothing from his body, gored him so severely that 120 stitches were necessary to close the wounds, and left him for dead in a field on his farm.

The animal later tore to pieces Miller's porch. His blood-stained clothing was left there, and the bull went on a rampage, goring and trampling the cloth.
