DRY LUMBER SHORT, LAKEVIEW REPORTS

Plenty of orders but a shortage of dry lumber available for shipping marks Lakeview lumber conditions, Jack Almeter of the Oregon State Employment service said Friday.

Almeter, district director for the service, returned this week from a survey of employment conditions in Lake county. Millmen in Lakeview, in giving their views on the current status of the industry, also told Almeter that logging operations in some instances have already begun and that others will open up as soon as weather permits.

The Lake county situation in regard to logging parallels Klamath activities. Many basin camps have either opened or plan to begin in the near future.
