HULLITT EYES U. S. TIMBER LAND FOR SALE

SILVER LAKE—Henry Hullitt of the U. S. forest service office at Washington, D. C., spent Sunday here renewing old friendships. Hullitt, who was in charge of Fremont ranger station here eight years ago, is making an appraisal of US timber lands to be sold to private timber interests in connection with the sustained yield program. By this program, in which the forest service and timber companies cooperate, part of the timber on private land is saved for new growth. In exchange for the trees thus saved, the forest service allows a certain amount of US owned timber to be cut.

It is a conservation program to prevent the complete denuding of timbered lands and consequent soil erosion which ruined forested areas in some western states a few years ago. Hullitt began the survey in which he is engaged, January 1. He expects to finish the job covering most of the western states and return to Washington, D. C., in July.

"Happy" Hullitt, as he is known here, was wearing his famous smile at being again in central Oregon. He has been in forest service work in many states since leaving Oregon, he said, but found none he liked better. While here he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leston Linebaugh.

Residents of Silver Lake Get Serum Injections

SILVER LAKE—Almost the total population of Silver Lake, 97 persons, received serum to prevent typhoid fever here Sunday. Before the serum was available spotted fever, resulting from the bite of ticks, caused severe illness which often resulted fatally.

Those who have had the serum seldom contract the fever and never in severe form, says Dr. Thom. A second shot of the serum is administered one week after the first to insure immunity.

Presidency of the White Sox has been vacant since the death of Mrs. Comiskey's husband, J. Louis Comiskey, in July, 1939.

BLY WOMEN HEAR EVENTS OF MEET

BLY—One of the most interesting meetings of the Home Economics club was held at the home of Mrs. George Beck on Tuesday, March 11. Those present were Mrs. Lem Huston, Mrs. Karl Deering, Mrs. Archie Strong, Mrs. James Dixon, Mrs. Dave Campbell, Mrs. Gene Detrick, Mrs. Fred Stone, Mrs. Lester Geisbeck, Mrs. Isadore Robbins, the hostess, Mrs. George Beck, and Mrs. Ross Shepherd, who joined the organization.

Each guest brought a basic lunch in a sack, all of which were put together and served with a delicious salad and coffee.

The project for demonstration was care of the hair, and Mrs. Gene Detrick had charge of this part of the program.

The reports of the delegates to the home interests conference were given and proved most interesting. According to the delegates, points of unusual nature were stressed.

The address of Dr. Stanley Jones was said to be one of the highlights of the conference. He spoke on the extremely important part religion must play in world crises.

A most entertaining afternoon was spent, delegates demonstrated, during which actual life demonstrations were carried out, using real babies and students. A 15-year-old boy attributed part of his success as a student to the fact that he blew a trumpet instead of smoke rings.

Another speaker discouraged the general use of vitamins in capsules. She said no one is competent to judge his own actual requirements and that it is much more logical to acquire them in the natural way by eating well balanced meals.

The delegates said they especially enjoyed hearing Dorothy McCullough Lee, senator from Multnomah County. She spoke emphatically on women's duty regarding politics and government affairs.

A style show given by Meier and Frank's and the dramatic presentation of "Readymade Family" a play by Blackamas delegates, were reviewed with favorable comment.

The consensus of the club women seemed to be that it was an entirely worthwhile project to send Mrs. Dave Campbell and Mrs. Fred Stone to the conference and that they had received lasting inspiration and many new ideas for advancing the year's work from their reports.

Mammoth Tent to Be Hung In Canyon to Keep Dam Dry

ENUMCLAW, Wash., March 13 (P)—A vast spider web of cables was in place across the White river chasm near here today to hoist the world's second largest tent up canyon walls to keep a dam dry.

The tent, 196 by 328 feet at full wingspread—bigger than a football field—will act as an umbrella over Mud Mountain dam, which the federal government is erecting as a flood control project across the ravaging "river nobody wants."

The main job of the tent will be to keep rain off the "oven-baked" dirt after it is prepared for packing into the impervious core of the rock-fill barrier. The dirt's moisture content will be reduced to between 10 and 17 per cent by heating in baking oil-heated ovens. The baking increases its compactibility.

The tent-making task would have put Omar himself to shame. Built in Seattle, its maker, the Seattle Tent and Awning company, listed it as second in size only to the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey big top.

The tent cost $35,000, just about $1 per pound. Twenty-two hoists will be required to lift it into place. Canvas and rigging have been designed to hold the weight of a foot of snow, or 840,000 pounds. M. L. McHugh of the manufacturing company said he wouldn't hesitate to walk around on the tent after it is hoisted.

"There's nothing to it," he commented, "if you know where to step. If you don't know,

THIS WEEK'S HINT FROM THE SEAGRAM HOUSE DETECTIVE

Here's how TO LOOSEN DOORS THAT STICK

Another Service of the House of Seagram

DOORS will stick when door frames are thrown out of square by the settlement of the house. The door is sometimes adjusted by putting a piece of stiff cardboard or thin wood strip under one wing of a hinge. Or a little of the wood may need to be cut away from behind a hinge, so that it is set deeper into the door frame.

If the door is too badly stuck to be loosened by such methods, one or more of the edges must be planed off. This usually requires that the door be removed from the hinges. Edges that have been planed should be painted or varnished in order to prevent swelling through absorbing moisture.

To take off a door, open it part way, and support its outer edge by placing a book underneath. The pin that holds the two parts of a hinge together can be driven out with a hammer and screwdriver. In taking a door off, the bottom hinge should be freed first; and in putting a door back, connect the top first.

Columbia Region May Be Aluminum Center of World

PORTLAND, Ore., March 13 (P)—The Reynolds Metals company factory, second aluminum plant attracted to the Pacific Northwest by the Bonneville project, will be at Longview, Wash.

R. S. Reynolds, president, disclosed selection of the site last night. It will consist of 400 acres west of the Weyerhaeuser Pulp company, on the Columbia river.

Reynolds, who recently signed 20-year contracts for 60,000 kilowatts of Bonneville power, predicted, "The Columbia basin is destined inevitably to become one of the great aluminum centers of the world."
