Inland Empire to Hear Speakers Favor War Against Axis

SPOKANE, April 8 (AP)—Two of the principal speakers of the convention of the Inland Empire Education association, second largest group of the kind in the United States, were on record today, one day ahead of the main session as actively favoring United States participation in the war between Britain and the axis.

Karl W. Bigelow, director of the education commission of the American Council of Education, parent group of the education associations of the nation, and David Cushman Coyle, engineer, author and lecturer, both will speak Wednesday at the opening I. E. E. A. sessions and both, in interviews yesterday expressed strong anti-axis convictions.

"American isolationists are doing a better job for the axis than the axis could ever do for itself," Coyle said, and added: "I think we have more to fear if Hitler declares peace on us" than from invasion.

"Then we would just wait until he consolidated his position in the rest of the world and became so strong we could not oppose him."

Bigelow warned against too much theoretical worrying about the propaganda given out by the combatant nations and asserted "if the free peoples of the world do not unite to stop him, Hitler will engulf them one by one."

PASSION WEEK SERVICES WELL RECEIVED HERE

The first of a series of noon-day services for passion week was well received Monday with a fair-sized audience in attendance. The meetings are held in the Pelican theatre from 12:25 to 12:55 p. m. each day through Thursday.

The Tuesday meeting opened with the hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Prayer was offered by the presiding officer, Rev. Lawrence Mitchell, pastor of the Merrill Presbyterian church. A vocal duet entitled, "Nailed to the Cross" was sung by Gerda Persson and Gottfried J. Anderson.

The speaker for the day was Rev. Gottfried J. Anderson, pastor of the First Covenant church. He spoke on the theme, "Gethsemane's Fourfold Message." He stressed the thought that human weakness in the garden was exemplified in the tired and sleepy disciples; and that human selfishness and sinfulness were demonstrated in the act of betrayal by Judas. Contrasted to this was the divine power and the divine love evidenced in the Gethsemane experience of Jesus. Divine power and love are stronger than human weakness and sin, the speaker said.

Rev. Cecil C. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church, will preside at the Wednesday service. The audience will sing "In the Cross of Christ I Glory." The special musical number will be a solo by Allen Lewis of Merrill. Rev. Lawrence Mitchell, pastor of the Merrill Presbyterian church will speak on the subject "There Was a Cross."

These meetings are a union effort sponsored by the Klamath Falls Ministerial association. All are welcome to attend the meetings whether church members or not.

Boys Ordered to Dig Stolen Piece Out of Carload

Two boys were busy unloading tons of scrap metal Tuesday as part punishment for the theft of a piece of mower equipment, it was learned at the sheriff's office.

Officers said the boys admitted they stole a lever attachment from a mower belonging to Roy LaPrarie, nearby farmer. They sold it to a junk dealer for scrap iron. He loaded the lever, along with other junk, on a gondola car.

When the theft was discovered and traced, the boys started moving iron off the car in an effort to find the lever so they could return it to the owner. Officers said the boys got $2.90 for the piece of iron, and paid 25 cents to have it weighed.

California Police Seek Missing Oregon University Student

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8 (AP) Police here and in Los Angeles were asked today to help find Laurence Moore, 20, University of Oregon student, who dropped from sight March 4.

An appeal came in a letter from the boy's father, Earl B. Moore, John Day, Ore., attorney. Young Moore disappeared from the campus at Eugene after an attack of influenza and after he had completed final examinations. He had not fully recovered from the illness, his father said.

Although the youth had the privileges of using his father's checking account, no checks have come through the bank. The elder Moore said Laurence knew the San Francisco district well, and was acquainted in Los Angeles. He suggested to police here the student may have suffered an attack of amnesia.
