Is it to be the tragic jeopardy of democracy that if it would go to war it must adopt the very systems which we abhor?—Herbert Hoover, former president.

DEFENSE OF DUBLIN

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., (To the Editor)—In reading the story of the Klamath "Eagle" in Wednesday's evening paper, I was not favorably impressed with his reported proposal, that "Dublin be forced to black out or be blown off the face of the earth."

My first impulse was to wish, that the epochal power dive he made in running away from the German planes, might also have split his tongue, along with the ear drum. It appears now, that any lung power he may have lacked during the dive, has been greatly restored since his arrival here.

Would like to offer the thought that Ireland is a NEUTRAL country, and after its many centuries of British occupation and oppression, can hardly be expected to be sympathetic to British problems.

Could it be perhaps some poetic justice, that Britain's enemies are guided by the lights of a city, which has known much bloodshed in the struggle to throw off the British yoke?

In my opinion, (for what little it may be worth) the "eagle" in this case sounds very much like a parrot.

J. P. LINMAN, 39 Nevada Ave.

Editor's Note: In fairness to Mr. Kennerly, it should be noted that the statement concerning Dublin which appeared in this newspaper was not made directly by him for quotation. It was a second-hand interview, and in such cases a man's thoughts may not be worded exactly as he would express them publicly if he were here. His reported comment was to the effect that Dublin, ablaze with lights at night, is used by Germans as the landmark that guides German bombers to important targets in England.
