

BORROW PIT FOR AIRPORT JOB OKAYED

Discussion of a proposed borrow pit at one corner of the airport expansion site brought the city council's approval last night of a small additional purchase of land for the $254,000 project.

Ordinances for instituting condemnation proceedings to acquire certain lands for the airport also were introduced at the weekly meeting.

The city fathers were dubious when City Engineer E. A. Thomas told them the borrow pit would be about 15 feet deep and possibly 20 acres in area, five acres of which lies outside the airport, but approval for the purchase of the five acres was given when Thomas asserted that this land contained the only suitable gravel for the airport runways, and that the government had already been forced to pay its estimates to fit the $254,000 allotment.

Small Hazard

Use of material located on the site would help cut costs, Thomas said, but admitted he didn't know who would be required to fill up the hole which in his opinion wouldn't constitute much of a hazard anyway.

"The council should have free use of the place for a duck pond," Councilman R. H. Bussman remarked, and Councilmen John Keller and Rollin Cantrill chimed in that the mayor could have it for a swimming pool, or a skating rink.

Beside attending to a thick sheaf of property sale ordinances, the council referred to the city attorney a protest against the city's ban on auction sales. Attorney Fred O. Suction told the council he believed the ordinance was void and asked its repeal in behalf of a client. He suggested a regulatory license fee.

"Club Law" Talked

Also referred to the city attorney was a matter brought to the council by Harry Molatore, operator of Molatore's. He said his establishment, while primarily a restaurant, was required to comply with the new state "club law," but that he didn't wish his place to be classed as a club by the city, which levies a $500 operating license on drink clubs. Molatore said he believed most of the restaurants in town would come under the new law.

The opinion of the council was that the city club license applied only to establishments serving members only.

Official notice of the national defense program was taken by Mayor John Houston when he changed the council's public works committee to the public works and defense committee. Bussman is chairman of the body.

A $2219 WPA allotment for work on city streets and alleys was announced in a telegram from Senator Rufus Holman. Engineer Thomas said the money would be used on a Hot Springs addition sewer project and for a wall on Conger avenue.

SPEED-UP ORDERED FOR DRAFT BOARDS

SALEM, May 6 (AP)—Lt. Colonel Elmer V. Wooton, state selective service director, ordered local boards today to speed up classification of registrants by disregarding previous restrictions on the rate of classification.

Most local boards have completed the original goal of classification of the first 20 per cent of their registrants and classification has been almost at a standstill, Colonel Wooton said.

Local boards were directed to send out questionnaires at a rate sufficient to enable boards to proceed continuously with the classification process.

Approximately 650 men of over 3000 listed on the Klamath Falls Board 1 roster have been classified, Major Ted Case of the Selective Service headquarters said Tuesday.

On Board 2, considerably over the 20-plus per cent classified by Board 1 have been sorted, Case said. Latest figures reveal approximately 1000 out of nearly 4000 registrants classified.

heretofore on such objectives at Kiel and other German cities.

The Germans coupled their fierce pounding of the Clyde-side with night raids on other parts of England, Scotland and northern Ireland. Twelve persons were killed when a heavy bomb hit a Belfast shelter.

Much Damage

Today they made hit-and-run machine-gunning attacks on Dover's balloon barrage. Three of the big bags were downed in flames.

Anti-aircraft batteries at that "Hell's corner" threw up a tremendous barrage and RAF fighters chased the Germans back across the channel. It was announced that one German craft was shot down and one RAF plane was missing but that the pilot of the latter was safe.

The government acknowledged that "much damage" was done in the Clyde-side area, which the nazis attacked in re-lays for several hours, and indicated that the toll of dead and wounded might be heavy.

Considerable damage also was reported in the Mersey river shipping center at Liverpool, attacked for the fifth consecutive night.

The British asserted, however, they downed eight German planes during the night and said their own air force hammered western Germany. The big industrial center of Mannheim was said to have been the main target of the RAF.

Belfast, subjected Sunday night to a heavy attack, was one of the objectives on which the Germans loosed bombs in northern Ireland during the dark hours before dawn today.

DEDICATION OF NEW S. A. HOME BEING MAPPED

Tentative plans for a dedication, open house and cornerstone laying for the new Salvation Army home at Fourth street and Klamath avenue were shaped at a meeting of the army board at the chamber of commerce Tuesday noon.

The building is now being remodeled and will be finished in about a month, it was stated by Adjutant Norman Bowyer.

He said that former County Judge George Grizzle has presented a cornerstone for the structure. The board decided that laying of the stone would afford opportunity for inviting the public to look over the new quarters, said to represent values in excess of $20,000 although costing the Salvation Army only about half that much.

Further plans for the public event will be announced later. Adjutant Bowyer told the board that the gymnasium in the new building would be available for Boy Scouts and other community groups which might wish to use it.

Fair success was reported from the recent effort to raise sufficient funds to cover the costs of completing the remodeling work. Between $400 and $500 is needed, and further effort will be made to obtain this amount.

with their requests. Burns will go into the office of emergency management, in the executive office of the president, as executive officer of a new division of defense aid reports.

It was the president's belief, said Stephen Early, a secretary, that the job could be done better by a military man, with an understanding of the whole picture, than by a civilian.

It took a military order by Mr. Roosevelt as commander-in-chief of the armed forces to give Burns the new job.

The division of defense aid reports was created by a presidential executive order, which said it was to "provide a central channel for the clearance of transactions and reports, and coordinate the processing of requests for aid under the (lease-lend) act."

of the last century, and to the gangsters of the Dillinger days.

He then proposed that the president declare and congress approve a "state of national emergency—a state in which the government would have power similar to the war power."

Continuing, he said:

"I propose that we close exits of Europe, Africa and Asia against any possible attack upon our continent. I mean that we should not allow the axis to occupy Greenland, Iceland, the Azores, the Cape Verde islands, the Canary Islands, Singapore or Dakar. We know that if they do occupy them it will only be to have a vantage point from which to jump at our throat."

"I propose that the United States, in cooperation with Great Britain, occupy all those territories so we may stifle near its source this threat which we know to be aimed against us."

"If we occupy these territories we can keep the sea lanes of Britain open with our navy and our airforce."

ARABS WARNED NOT TO EXPECT AXIS BENEFITS

In the Middle East preceding the Nazi invasion of Greece and Yugoslavia, Eden declared he was impressed by the loyal friendship and determination of the Turks to "stand firm against any menace to their sovereignty."

The trouble which he said was "created" in Iraq, Eden went on, is of great concern to both Britain and Turkey.

He declared Britain had nothing to be ashamed of in her dealings with the Arab peoples, most of all Iraq "whose independence we assured; it is we who have assisted them and in every respect have kept our word."

Lees-Smith brought Irish bases into the debate, declaring that "it is worthwhile calling attention of the United States to this matter because the policy of patrol which the United States now has undertaken is being defeated and stultified by the policy of Southern Ireland of refusing us those ports."

"I believe," he added, "expression of public opinion in the United States and representations from the United States have more influence with the government of southern Ireland than from any other country in the world."

Hore-Belisha said there was no question but that Britain was obligated to go to the aid of Greece, but asked why, during the months before that Italy, "the most vulnerable country in Europe" with railways and industries concentrated along 200 miles of coastline, wasn't bombed by the RAF while the Greeks were whipping the Italian army in Albania.
