BLY HIGH HAS AVIATION AS SCHOOL THEME

BLY — With aviation as the theme successful series of graduation affairs were held in Bly honoring the class of 1941. The first was the junior banquet which was held at Hunter's Hot Springs hotel in Lakeview, attended by 20 guests. The program was carefully planned to include everyone present. In closing everyone joined hands and sang, "Auld Lang Syne."

At the baccalaureate service Rev. L. K. Johnson of Klamath Falls was speaker. The choir of teachers and violin numbers of Mr. Mabee were much enjoyed.

The commerce exercises on May 15 were arranged to carry out an analogy between flying and student life and ambitions. The continuity was written by Mrs. Helen Hoffman and the students became air-minded as they studied back-ground materials for speeches. All references to air tactics and maneuvers were authentic and based on study of up-to-date bibliography on aviation.

Dale Smith and Freddy Kobler, juniors, gave the class prophecy as a conversation between a pilot in a plane and a radio operator at Bly. Coming over the public address system with appropriate sound effects, the unique presentation brought applause. A davenport and chair given to the school for use in play productions, presented by Frank Meiser, senior class president. Scholarships, certificates, pins were presented by Mr. Elliott to a score of more 4-H boys and girls who have worked under the direction of Mrs. Fred Stone and Mr. Seeley. Honors varying from one to three-year awards were presented to the following: Joe Wallis, Wayne Ceborn, Ethel Neese, Willard Cline, Bonnie Jean Stone, Charles Hannon, Clara Marie Wallis, Clarence Rayson, Don Smith, Barbara Detrick, June Harrison, Lois Huston, Betty Abbott, Loretta Griffin, Florence Ihstrom, Pearl Ortis, Wadene Jenkins, Barbara Lowe, Jessie McMillan, Dolores McLeod, Gwen Asbough, Maxine Lowe, Hollis McMillan, Donald Harris, John Crain, Richard Neese and Dick Patzke. Summer camp and other scholarships were presented to Ethel Neese, Willard Cline and Bonnie Jean Stone. Mr. Mabee then presented first and second string basketball letters to the following: first string, Jim Hall, Bob Krog, Jimmy St. John, Ray Logan, Lyle Weaver and Freddy Kobler; second string, Ray Harris, Bill Alcorn, Gayle Rentle, Don McLeod, Dale Smith and Wayne Varnum.

Among the special awards to seniors were a DAR pin to Pearl Bowers for her participation in the state contest sponsored by that group. Pearl also received a scholarship pin and will have her name on the valedictorian plaque. The salutatory honor pin went to Mary Cile McMillan. Lorraine Richardson received an award for activities and Bonita Gooch one for outstanding citizenship. All seniors who received diplomas were Hank Hall, Frank Meiser, Bob Meiser, Bob Krog, Lyle Weaver, Lorraine Richardson, Mary Cile McMillan, Pearl Bowers and Bonita Gooch.

The auditorium was decorated by Mr. Varnum, Freddy Kobler and Mrs. Hoffman. A background of blue with light showing through stars carried out the class color scheme of blue and silver. Patriotic streamers and crossed flags with a large model airplane built and lent by Bill Alcorn carried out the aviation theme and the motto, "Out of the hangar and into the blue." A wings and propeller symbol designed and painted by Jimmie St. John extended across the top of the stage and will be placed permanently in the gym. Large baskets of red carnations, the class flower, completed the scene. Elliott presented the senior girls with corsages and the boys with boutonnieres. Colorful caps and gowns added to the dignity of the occasion.

The annuals "Pine Knots" were received also during commencement week. In legion on blue and white with red inserts and an artistic dedication to the defense of our democracy, they carried out the patriotic spirit which has been emphasized at Bly throughout the year.

The annual school picnic was attended by more than 100 persons May 16 on the Anderson ranch at the foot of Gearhart mountain.

The final PTA meeting of the year was held Tuesday. Mrs. Frances Moll is incoming president. All recently elected officers were installed and tentative plans made for next year's work.

West Side

At the meeting of the Lake county Pomona grange last Saturday at Westside it was decided that the Pomona grange would sponsor the federal cotton mattress program in Lake county. Forty-five representatives from the five granges of the county attended, including four from Fort Rock. W. H. Harvey of Summer Lake is master of the Pomona grange, and F. S. Fisher of Lakeview, secretary.

Mrs. Leo Buck was hostess to the Westside B. B. club at the hall last Thursday afternoon. Following the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. John Crowl, Mrs. Buck served refreshments. Mrs. Bob Wilson and Mrs. Beverly Robinson, who has joined the club, were guests. Mrs. F. M. Bunyard will entertain the club June 5 at the hall.

Mrs. A. M. Pierson is quite ill following a heart attack last week.

WEATHER FAILS TO HALT PICNIC

FORT KLAMATH — Classes of the local grade school were dismissed for the term on Friday afternoon, and on the previous day the annual picnic of teachers and pupils and their parents was held in the C. I. clubhouse. The picnic is usually held at some nearby picnic grounds, but was in the clubhouse due to stormy and unsettled weather.

A bountiful picnic dinner was served at noon, followed by a program consisting of numbers by the school band and harmonica band, in addition to a short skit entitled "Johnny Cake" by the lower grade children. Following the program presentation of reading and writing diplomas was made by Charles Race, local teacher, and James Wampler, Clifford Engle and Donald Olson were given grade school diplomas. They will enter Chiloquin high school in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Race, who have taught here for the past year, plan to take a vacation trip, after which they will spend the summer here and will resume teaching this fall.
