

FINAL ACTION ON AIRLINE'S BID AWAITED

Final decision on the United Airlines application for service into Klamath Falls will not be given until late in June, according to word received by The Herald and News from Senator Charles L. McNary.

Senator McNary said that time will be given the United to reply to the unfavorable report made by the civil aeronautics board's examiners. Thereafter, the case will be submitted to the board.

It will be the latter part of June before this stage of proceedings is reached.

The Klamath chamber of commerce is in correspondence with congressional representatives and officials of the United Airlines with regard to the forthcoming proceedings.

The chamber is strongly urging that every effort be made to win approval for the United's application so that service may be started here when the Klamath airport construction is finished.

dent Roosevelt and the United States.

A front page cartoon showed a caricature of Roosevelt sprawling on the deck of the French liner, Normandie in New York harbor with the caption, "La Fayette, I am here."

A three-column article head, "Where is Mister Roosevelt going?" declared American "meanings" was an echo of the "insolent declaration of President Roosevelt."

(The newspaper apparently referred to the president's message May 15 appealing directly to the French people not to deliver their country to Germany.)

WASHINGTON, May 22 (P)—Secretary Hull gave an implied assurance today that the French island of Martinique had no reason to fear any imminent United States action against it.

The secretary of state described as German or pro-German inspired reports published in German-occupied France that Martinique officials had received orders to prepare for an American attack.

Hull asserted at his press conference that the situation at Martinique itself was unchanged, despite increasing evidence of French-German collaboration in Europe.

There have been no recent developments on the Caribbean island to change the situation, he said and he indicated no immediate concern was felt there.

WATERY MUSCLES

More than a third of the entire weight of the human body consists of muscles, and three-fourths of all muscles are composed of water, according to scientists.

CHARMED WASHING

The faces of babies in India and Persia often are bathed in the liquid in which holly bark has been soaked, as a charm against evil spirits.

DISTANT

So far from the planet itself are the two recently discovered moons of Jupiter that an observer on the planet would need a six-inch telescope to see them.

"DUSTY" MILLERS

Because they have a dusty appearance, due to tiny, easily shattered scales that cover their wings, moths also are known as millers.

Caught Short

Chicago elevated train crashes through guard rail at dead end station and dangles over street. Cause: failing brakes. Result: no injuries to passengers.

War's Worst

This young Englishman probably thinks things can't get much worse now that younger set licks candy-coated carrots instead of real all-day suckers. Tragedy results from war measure to conserve sugar.

ATTEMPTS TO LAND TROOPS BEATEN BACK

taining troops had been sunk. Churchill declared the situation remained in hand generally, but he said "the fighting is continuing with intensity . . . The Germans are using large numbers of air-borne and parachute troops and these are being increased daily."

"At Malemi airdrome, 10 miles southeast of Canea," the prime minister disclosed, "it appeared that the enemy are now in occupation of the airdrome and of the area to the west of it, but the airdrome is still under our fire."

Churchill in answer to questions painted a picture of a struggle in which neither side has a chance to retreat and the weapons are oddly mis-matched.

"It is a strange and grim battle that is being fought," he said, "one in which our side has no air support because they have no airdromes—not because they have no airplanes—while the other side have very little or no artillery or tanks, and neither side has any means of retreat."

British Intercept French Tanker With American Oil

LONDON, May 22 (P)—British naval patrols have intercepted the 13,467-ton French tanker Sheherazade en route to French North Africa with an oil cargo from the United States, it was made known today, and it was understood this was done with the full consent of Washington.

The ship was in the Atlantic bound for Casablanca, French Morocco.

British authorities granted the Sheherazade a navicert "some time ago" to carry the cargo, it was stated, but "actions of the past day or so by the Vichy government, particularly in Syria, had a very sharpening effect, not only in London but in Washington."

The 13,467-ton vessel, one of the largest oil tankers in the world, left Houston, Texas, on May 10 for an unannounced port. She had been repaired at New Orleans where she tied up after the fall of France.

British authorities granted the Sheherazade a navicert "some time ago" to carry the cargo, it was stated, but "actions of the past day or so by the Vichy government, particularly in Syria, had a very sharpening effect, not only in London but in Washington."

of Martinique have received orders from Vichy to prepare for an AMERICAN attack.

(The Paris newspaper Le Matin (The Morning) says the defense of Martinique will be centered around the fortress containing the gold reserves of the Bank of France (sent there when the French gave up) and that the defenders will blow up the stronghold as a last resort. French warships at Martinique have been warming up for several days.

Youth Gets New Elbow in North

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 22 (UP)—James Bennett, Galice, Ore., who hitch-hiked here to get a new elbow, started home today, his arm showing almost normal action.

The youth's elbow, which had been stiffened badly by an accident, was operated on by Dr. Fred H. Albee, famous New York bone surgeon, while he was attending the Montana Surgical guild meeting here several weeks ago.

When Bennett left the hospital yesterday, the money he had sent to pay for the operation was returned to him to use for a bus ticket home.

More Sidelights On Army Visit

sure," said the MP. And looked like he meant it.

A burly sergeant was looking over a couple of boxes of strawberries in a Main street grocery store. After selecting two likely looking boxes, the sergeant bought a bottle of cream, handed them to a perspiring private, and then both proceeded to a khaki-colored car on which, in chalk, was scribbled the word, "General."

Four soldiers drove by a yard in the residential district where a cocky 13-year-old yelled, "Hooray for the army!"

"Got any sisters that feel that way?" shouted the soldiers.

"Yes," fibbed the youngster, and sure enough, two of the trainees returned later on to see the sister who didn't exist.

Half a dozen young soldiers walked past a car parked on Main street. In it sat a girl, munching popcorn.

"Hey, fellows, here's some popcorn," shouted one trainee. Without further ceremony, he and his friends helped themselves, and in a moment the popcorn supply was gone.

Ten minutes later, when the car was again observed, the trainees were lounging inside, with the girl playing the part of an apparently flattered hostess.

State highway engineers are studying the convoy problem with an idea of improving safety conditions when troop movements are in progress on Oregon's roads and highways. Checking the "bottle-necks" and preparing reports were a number from Salem in this vicinity Thursday. It is understood Don Manning is in charge.

A glum-looking young lad in olive drab was overheard talking to an apple-cheeked young lass along Main street last night just before 10 o'clock.

"But I've got to report back to camp at 10," he was overheard saying.

Then the lass looked glum—and the lad glummer.

ing committee today called a hearing in Washington Friday on the west coast shipbuilding leap which Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) said was "to find out what is involved in the strike, why it has not been settled, and who is responsible for the country not getting ships."

Senator Truman said witnesses would include representatives of the involved San Francisco unions, a spokesman for Bethlehem Steel, probably Vice President A. B. Homer of the Parent corporation, Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, and others, possibly including John P. Frey, head of the AFL metal workers union.

Stimson Says Neutrality Act Unamerican

what he described as a conflict between the neutrality act and the freedom of the seas principle would have to be "very carefully considered," however, in delivering munitions to Great Britain.

"It's for others to decide whether repeal of the act is an urgent matter now," he told a press conference inquirer.

Noting that he had opposed the principle of the neutrality legislation for years, Stimson said "I always prophesied it would bring us into trouble."

"It was abhorrent to our principles to yield to our fears by this policy," he added.
