

Officers Installed In BPW Ceremony

Elenora Weatherford Takes Over Duties as President of Klamath Falls Business Women

Featuring the impressive candle lighting ceremony of installation, the Business and Professional Women's club inducted their new officers for the year 1941-1942 into office on Monday evening, June the sixteenth, at the Willard hotel, and closed their year's work with a beautiful program planned by Chairman Emma Carter and her committee of past presidents. The club has adjourned its regular meetings for the summer months and will meet only for picnics or special occasions which will be announced in the papers, resuming their regular work again in September.

The club colors of green and yellow were cleverly carried out in the table appointments, vases and low bowls of yellow iris, snapdragons, pansies, and columbine being used with green candles. Following the assembly singing of club songs, led by Claudia Lorenz, the members were pleasantly entertained by Lela Laursen and her daughters, Maxine and Dorothy. Their numbers were "Serenade Badine," by Gabriel Marie, and "Berceuse," from Jocelyn, with Mrs. Laursen at the piano, Maxine playing the violin, and Dorothy the xylophone.

The regular business meeting was conducted by President Flo Ann Eaton, with several yearly reports read, after which Chairman Emma Carter took charge of the installation ceremony, inducting into office the following officers: president, Elenora Weatherford; first vice president, Lillie Darby; second vice president, Dorothy Baillie; recording secretary, Esther Lawler; corresponding secretary, Isabelle Milne; treasurer, Nedra Hunt. Miss Weatherford was presented with a bouquet of red roses, and roses were given to all the officers.

A welcoming speech was given by President Flo Ann Eaton and the new president responded by accepting the office and pledging to be faithful to her duties and loyal in service to the club and friendly to the members. Mrs. Eaton was then presented with a beautiful gift of a set of Spode, Chairman Emma Carter commenting upon her generous giving of her time and efforts to the past year for the good of the club. Alice Allen, who has won the club pin in the call captians' competition, presented it to Nedra Hunt, and May King Conrad, social chairman, was praised for her efforts in that office.

Following the club pledge, given by all members, the emblem benediction closed the meeting. The theme of the club year just closing has been centered on "Making Democracy Work," for the business women of this nation, and twenty-five other nations abroad, recognize their responsibility in preserving democracy and making it work efficiently. They now face the future with the firm determination that democracy will not only work, but that it will survive. To accomplish this all business women must work together, must know the vital issues of national problems, and cooperate to meet them.

The program for the incoming year will feature the theme, "Strengthen Democracy for Defense." A novel want ad in the "Independent Woman" sets it forth thus: "WANTED: Women of vision and vigor able not only to defend democracy, but to advance and reform it. May be called upon to cooperate in national efforts, but chiefly expected to exercise constructive initiative and judgment in own communities. All ages needed. Pay: The saving and revitalizing of human freedom."

Business women would do well to think of the program themes for the new year, which are as follows: Look to the Spirit Within; Strengthen Democracy in Our Town; Our Country in a War-torn World; Faith for Living; Lobbying for Democracy; Training for Defense; Keeping Fit for Defense; and My Contribution to Democracy — Review and Summary.

Employed women who desire to join the local club for the full year's benefits should contact President Elenora Weatherford or any club member.

Girls State Interest To Klamath People

Citizenship School to be Held at Silver Creek Falls Near Salem June 22 to 29.

The second annual "Girls State" will be held at Silver Creek Falls, twenty-eight miles from Salem, June 22 to 29 inclusive, under the sponsorship of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The principal function of "Girls State" is to train girls showing leadership ability, in the practical workings of their American Democracy. A similar project inaugurated last year proved so successful that it was decided to continue this special training in the responsibilities of citizenship and government.

"Girls State" is designed to be a practical working model of our American form of government with the girls being taught the fundamentals of this government. One hundred and fifty girls from all over the state will attend this citizenship school, most of these girls have earned the privilege of receiving the training given at "Girls State" by awards of high standing in Americanism or citizenship in their respective schools.

This week of study, comradeship and actual participation in government may help these girls give a lifetime of devotion and true service to the greatest government in the world — our own United States. Few things are more important in our democracy than knowledge of and interest in the operations of our system of government.

The American Legion auxiliary of Klamath Falls made two scholarship awards; one to Janice Bubb for first prize in an Americanism contest, another to Gloria Pope for outstanding work in the junior auxiliary. Maxine Liskey received the Business and Professional Women's scholarship which was given her for outstanding Camp Fire girl work.

Mrs. S. F. Konnie has been chosen as one of the camp mothers and will accompany the girls north Sunday.

The program of government is under the direction of Senator Dorothy McCullough Lee, state senator from Multnomah county. Senator Lee will be assisted by Mrs. Zetta Schlador, former mayor of Silverton, Mrs. Elna Marie Moore of Newberg, Mrs. Barbara Rhoades and Mrs. Hazel Roland of Portland.

Mrs. Robert Hart and two daughters, Ann and Sara, are spending a month in Medford visiting with Mrs. Hart's mother, Mrs. Eugene Vilm.

Anniversary Observed

FORT KLAMATH—Climaxing fifty years of happy married life, Mr. and Mrs. John Varnum celebrated their golden wedding anniversary quietly at their home in Chiloquin on Sunday, June eighth. Mr. and Mrs. Varnum are longtime residents of Klamath county, and have a wide circle of friends here.

The couple was married in Yreka, California, on June eighth, 1891, the ceremony being performed by Judge Beard of that city. Mrs. Varnum was the former Miss Helen McClellan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McClellan, and was born in Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Varnum's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Loring Varnum of Siskiyou county, California, and his birthplace was Siskiyou, California. Four children were born to the McClellan-Varnum union, including Mrs. Eva Wilkins of San Jose, California, Mrs. Lena Diehl of Klamath Falls, E. W. Varnum of Bly, Oregon, and R. O. (Dick) Varnum of Fort Klamath. The Varnums also have four grandchildren.

Moving from California to Klamath county in 1917, Mr. Varnum was employed for one year at the Klamath Manufacturing company at Shipping-nomah before he and his wife and family went to Chiloquin, where Mr. and Mrs. Varnum have resided ever since and where they own their home. Mr. Varnum has been employed for the past eight years by the Chiloquin Lumber company.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Varnum are lively and active, and a host of friends throughout the Klamath basin join in extending congratulations to this fine pioneer couple on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary and in wishing them many more years of happy wedded life.

George Charles Vochatzer Jr., of Albany, California, and Miss Norma Griffith of East Oakland, were married at the home of the bride's parents on May the thirty-first. PTA Council Plans Future

Survey From County Chairmen's Reports Show Activity

The Klamath County Council of Parents and Teachers has been taking stock of its accomplishments and completed projects during the past year that it may understand better what will be necessary in the way of program planning for another year.

This survey is made up of reports of county chairmen and interviews with local presidents. In summarizing, welfare work, closely followed by youth organizations and parent education, are the outstanding achievements of the year.

Cafeterias have been sponsored by local groups and many of these have quietly supplied lunches or milk for the needy. In some cases clothing has been procured.

A majority of the local units are behind the trend of more youth organization groups. Thus Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, Bluebirds, Brownies, Boy Scouts, Cubs, 4-H clubs and safety patrols are sponsored by various local associations.

Interest in study clubs has taken a long step forward this year with different subjects such as homemaking, preschool, adolescent and family relations discussed by active groups.

One-half of the summer round-up program has been completed in that most county units have held their preschool clinics. Follow-up work in the fall will complete this activity.

An interesting gain in membership has been made. The state office credits Klamath county with a fifteen per cent increase and over 1550 members.

In closing the year's activities, the local organization repeats the invitation of Mrs. F. W. Blum, newly elected president of the Oregon Congress, "The strength of the nation depends upon the stability of the home. The congress believes that all problems relating to the guidance of youth should be the major concern of the home. This should be an invitation to every parent and every teacher in Oregon to join forces with us so that the home may play an increasingly important part in the destiny of their state and of their nation."

Member Of Last Troop In Basin Revisits Old Fort

S. G. HARRIS, above, member of last Fort Klamath troop, remembers Linkville in its early days. He's shown with Mrs. Harris.

A SILVER-HAIRED little "young" man sat in the Hall hotel this week and with a needle-sharp memory picked up the thread of a 55-year-old experience.

The little "young" man was S. G. Harris of Oakland, Calif., and the experience was that of being a member of the last troop of U. S. soldiers stationed at Fort Klamath in the year 1886.

The slight little five-foot-four-inch gentleman was about to make his first trip to the old fort since he rode away with the Second U. S. Cavalry in that year and left the Wood River valley in the hands of a few early settlers. And he was busy with his recollections.

There was Captain Jack Bogus Charley, John Schonchin and another Indian over whose graves he stood guard. They had been hanged a few years before for instigating the Canby massacre.

There was that pony race in 1885 which ended the argument between Jack Marr and the Indian as to whom had the best pony. . . . Marr's horse, with Harris on deck, settled that one.

There were the troops, one of infantry, one of cavalry, which comprised the last detachment stationed at Fort Klamath from 1884 to 1886. There was Curly Webb, stage driver who made a daily trip from Linkville to Fort Klamath.

There was the long voyage from Kent county, England, where Harris was born. . . . New York, where he disembarked and immediately joined the army at the age of 20. . . . Montana, his first post. . . . the long march to Fort Klamath and the next one from Fort Klamath to Fort Bidwell in 1886. . . . the subsequent honorable discharge. . . . ending with his return since to Oakland 20 years ago.

There were probably other recollections to the spry little gentleman as he sat beside his wife in the hotel lobby. But there was the present and future, too. The prospect of an imminent reunion with over 60 members of his family in Surprise Valley, Calif. . . . and congratulations on his brother's 50th wedding anniversary.

And then home again to Oakland and back to those regular afternoon bowling sessions on the green lawn of Lakeside park. There would be several weeks of practice yet before his team would be ready to make that annual jaunt to Pasadena and the yearly competition with the rose city bowlers.

S. G. Harris, the little "young" man, had picked up the thread, and he was satisfied.

The Thimble club of the Neighbors of Woodcraft will meet Tuesday afternoon, June the twenty-fourth, at the home of Mrs. Ellen Ely on Nevada street at two o'clock. Pinochle will follow a short business meeting.

Coyotes Thanked For $50 Bounty

LA GRANDE, June 21 (AP)—C. R. Wright, sawmill operator near here, shot a large cougar recently and thanked a pack of coyotes for the $50 bounty the pelt brought.

Wright and his brother and two nephews heard coyotes endlessly howling on a hill and investigated. They said they found the animals had treed a cougar which apparently had invaded the coyotes' den and molested their pups.

The men got a rifle, shot the coyotes away, and brought down the big cat.
