WHEAT LIFTED BY INCREASED BUYING

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—Buying inspired by sharp price gains in the soybeans, cotton, cottonseed oil, lard and hog markets lifted wheat quotations more than two cents a bushel today.

Strength of securities and Russian claims about halting the German advance and heavy Nazi casualties were additional bullish factors in the wheat pit. Some buying was attributed to milling and baking trade activity.
Soybeans rose more than 5 cents due largely to reports of government purchases for export.
Despite late profit taking sales, wheat closed 14-2 cents higher than Saturday, July 5. Corn 1-4 cents up, July 7 7 1/2 cents up, September 7 1/2 cents up, September 7 1/2 cents up, Oats 1-3 cents higher.

FOOTREST

PYROTECHNICS CLOSE FOURTH WEEKEND HERE

The traditional Fourth of July display of skyrockets, Roman candles, star shells and artistic pieces closed Klamath's celebration of the holiday Sunday night at Modoc field.

The grandstand was packed and the turf was covered by the throng, including hundreds of frolicking children, while cars jammed into every niche of parking space for blocks around and swarmed over the hillside above. Hot Springs addition, as most of Klamath Falls and many visitors watched the show.

Preceding the fireworks, the city band directed by Charles Stanfield played a concert which was followed by several short talks and a demonstration by the state champion Eagles drum and bugle corps.

Commander Angus Newton of the Klamath American Legion took the microphone to extend his organization's thanks for support received in celebration, and Eldon Frock, deep-voiced rodeo master of ceremonies, spoke on behalf of President O. D. Matthews and the rodeo committee. Frock praised the Klamath rodeo highly as the best he has worked on this year and quoted comment to the effect that Buckaroo Days equals the best seen at the rodeo capitals, Pendleton, Cheyenne and Calgary.

Mayor John Houston, introduced by Frock, sounded the patriotic note for the occasion and called upon the crowd to give the "Pledge of Allegiance" in unison.

The Eagles drum corps presented a complicated marching drill and finished with a short concert, part of which was drowned out by a cascade of horn-honking from cars along the canal and on the hill. The Eagles corps will be sent to the national contest under the sponsorship of the wooden box and lumber industry, it was announced to the crowd.

Shortly after the fireworks got underway an unscheduled spectacle was presented when a rocket arched over the canal and exploded its stars in dry grass along the railroad track near Alameda street. The city fire department put out the blaze a few minutes later.

When the show was over the hill above Pacific Terrace blazed up like a Christmas tree as car headlights came on.

The fireworks were presented by the Shell Oil company through the courtesy of the local distributor, Fred W. Hamilton.

'Fats' Waller to Present Triple Show at Dance Here

"Fats" Waller, radio's famous pianist-composer-comedian will sing, play the piano, act as master-of-ceremonies July 9 at the armory. A Hammond electric organ has been installed at the armory for Waller's use as an added attraction.

Like many another minister's son, "Fats," at the age of fifteen, decided against his father's wishes that he don the cloth, and instead chose music as his career. A few years of theatre and night-club work followed, and then came his first real "break" in the form of an assignment to write the music for the show, "Keep Shuffling." Next came a tour of the Public

COMPLAINTS MADE AGAINST DRIVERS

Nineteen complaints charging traffic violations were filed in justice court through District Attorney L. Orth Sismore's office Monday, indicating police activity over the holidays.
Most of the complaints charged such offenses as driving with improper lights, parking on highways, and driving on the wrong side of roads.

Lewis Edward Hescocock and Walker Henry Beane were charged with violation of the basic traffic rule. Drunkenness on public highways also brought a number of arrests.

in other words
by JOHN CLINTON

Well, now you know the worst. That picture above is John Clinton, himself. And I'll send a fur-lined coffee pot to the reader who guesses closest to what it looks most like! But remember, I never said I was pretty!

"In Other Words" seemed appropriate because in this world, everything has been said before... everything is simply "in other words!" Of course, that applies mostly to writing. Lots of "things" are really new.

Take New 76 Gasoline. That's really new because it was designed specifically for the kind of driving that you do most—Traffic Driving.
It has all the fractions you need most—sudden power to pass middle-lane loafers, quick response to take off from traffic signals, and that special quality of smooth, economical performance that in traffic—on the highway—or on the main street—lets you relax while the motor does the work.
New if you happen to be an old skeptic, and you have to be shown performance before you believe it, I propose a test you can make in your very own automobile this very day. Here's what you do... wait till the tank's almost empty. Then fill 'er up with New 76, and try it for yourself! I believe you'll thank me for the suggestion.

REGATTA BIG EVENT SLATED NEXT SUNDAY

This coming Sunday, July 13, will see the junior chamber of commerce's annual Upper Klamath Lake boat regatta in full swing. A larger number of boats will be entered this year than in previous contests and everything points to a "bigger and better" regatta than ever before.
Speedboat artists from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California have already sent in their applications and, according to Jim Kerns, regatta chairman, the number of top-notch drivers has already exceeded his expectations. Besides the regular speedboat competition there will be the usual sailboat races, this year divided into two classes, the large boat and small boat classes. This was done in order to give the smaller boats an equal chance for a prize.
Another part of the program which always proves interesting to the public is the log bucking and log chopping contests, an affair that was added some years ago by the junior chamber to give the men in the woods a chance to show the public what goes on behind the scenes in the forests of our great northwest. This event draws the best men in the pine region and competition is keen among them.

The racing course has been laid out by the Jaycees, the grass on the hill has been burned off, thanks to Fire Chief Ambrose and his men, and everything is all set for the grand kick-off at 12 noon Sunday, July 13.

Kidnaping Charge Filed Against Olympia Doctor

OLYMPIA, July 7 (AP)—Joseph J. Shebl, 28, an Olympia physician, was charged with first degree kidnaping in justice court, Prosecutor John S. Lynch, Jr., said today.
The charge was in addition to the attempted carnal knowledge count filed Saturday, in connection with what Lynch said was his attempted attack upon a 12-year-old Littlerock girl.
Dr. Shebl is employed by an Olympia clinic, formerly worked for the clinic in Littlerock, near the girl's home. The young physician's home formerly was in Creton, Neb.
Held under $5000 bail, Dr. Shebl is alleged to have lured the girl from her home on a ruse her mother was seriously injured in an automobile accident.
