minent if not actually underway already was indicated by dispatches from Saigon, French Indo-China.

Well-informed sources there said Japanese warships had appeared off Cap St. Jacques and Camranh bay and that 12 Japanese transports were en route to Saigon Froo Hlanan, Chinese island off the Indo-China coast.

Camranh bay is a naval base on Indo-China's southern coast and Cap St. Jacques dominates the mouths of the Saigon river by which ships reach Saigon.

Vichy, Tokyo Agree

Foreign consulates there said today their representatives in Hanoi had been advised by the Indo-China government of a French-Japanese agreement granting the Japanese certain naval and military concessions in the southern part of the colony.

From Vichy came the announcement that France and Japan had agreed in principle on a basis for Japanese aid in protection of French interests but had so far signed nothing. Negotiations on details, it was added, have now been shifted from Vichy to Hanoi, capital of the colony.

Negotiations at Vichy centered around two points: (1) French recognition of Japan as the predominant power to safeguard peace in the Orient; and (2) French acceptance in the present instance of measures Japan deems necessary to safeguard Indo-China without detriment to French sovereignty.

Men of Tomorrow

Donald Noel, above, is one of the crop of freshmen who will enter Klamath Union high school this fall.

Possibly because of the interest of his father, Dr. P. M. Noel, in athletics, Donny has an intense enthusiasm for sports. In Fremont school, from which he graduated last spring, he took an active part in all forms of athletics, and played on those winning basketball teams at Fremont. He has some ambitions that are well wound up in the game of baseball, too.

Donny has no pet. Long-time readers of The Herald and News may remember a picture of a little boy rubbing his eyes in a dust storm several years ago under the caption, "Dust Gets in Your Eyes." Donny Noel was that boy.

REPORTS OF JAP ATTACK UNCONFIRMED that no military objectives were hit.

Jap-Russian Clash

Few details were immediately available on the reported clash between Japanese and Russian troops in the east.

Dispatches from Shanghai said the fighting was reported to have started last evening in the vicinity of Changkufeng, the scene of a Russo-Japanese "vest-pocket war" in the summer of 1938.

There was no immediate confirmation of the reports, which were said to have come from sources close to the Japanese military, and Japanese army press headquarters in Shanghai said they had "heard nothing" of such fighting.

London advices, picturing the German onslaught as having lost its momentum, declared there had been no re-grouping of Nazi armies for a third assault in the 33-day-old conflict—such as might explain the present slowdown.

The Soviet high command reported that bitter fighting raged throughout the night in the three main theaters of action: on the Perekhov (Leningrad) front, the Polotsk-Nevel and Smolensk (Moscow) front, and the Zhitomir (Ukraine) front.

No Change

This would indicate that there was again no change in the long battle line stretching from the Baltic to the Black sea. Nor did the Germans claim any specific gains, declaring broadly that Nazi troops were battling fiercely in the Smolensk sector, 230 miles west of Moscow, and in another fierce struggle 100 miles to the rear—apparently the Polotsk-Nevel sector—where masses of Russian infantry were said to have been split by the Nazi panzer drive up the Napoleonic road to Moscow.

On the southern front, where the Germans are striking toward Kiev, the capital of the Soviet Ukraine, Nazi dispatches said heavy rainstorms had turned the highways into gluey mud, impeding the movement on trucks, heavy artillery and other essential equipment.

Meanwhile, the London radio reported that 5000 Serbs had risen up against the German conquest in Yugoslavia, attacking Nazi garrisons and outposts. In one foray, 200 Serbs were said to have swooped down from mountain hiding places, attacked a garrison and returned to the hills with prisoners.

When such appeals are addressed to soldiers, he said, the action "crossed the line of what General Marshall called sabotage."

Marshall said it was against army regulations for a soldier to attempt to influence legislation. Stimson inhibited cards bearing Senator Wheeler's frank which he said were forwarded to Marshall by a staff sergeant at Fort Benning, Ga., and a first lieutenant at Fort McIntosh, Tex.

On the side bearing the address, was this plea in boxed type: "Write the president today at the White House, Washington, that you are against our entry into the European war."

On the reverse side were excerpts from speeches or statements by President Roosevelt, Senator Wheeler, Senator Nye (R-N. D.), former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, and Charles A. Lindbergh.

"Reports to the newspaper El Dia from the frontier also told of the presence of Japanese troops composing the enemy advance guard, indicating that the Peruvians act only as the rear guard."

math of the pussyfooting policy pursued by the politicians when the selective service act was adopted.

It would have been IMMENSELY better if there had been complete frankness from the beginning.

FORTUNATELY, the people of the country generally have been far ahead of the politicians from the start in realization of the seriousness of what we have been getting into.

Intelligent public opinion supports extension of conscriptee service—not enthusiastically, but with grim acceptance of the fact that it has to be done.

CRATER LAKE BANS PRIVATE BOATING

Privately owned boats hereafter will not be permitted on the waters of Crater lake, according to an order issued by the superintendent of the national park, E. P. Leavitt.

In a statement to the chamber of commerce, Leavitt cited a general order prohibiting the use of privately-owned boats on the waters of parks and monuments without first obtaining permits from the superintendents.

In accordance with this order, he said, no boats will be permitted on Crater lake except those of the Crater Lake National Park company, which has a contract with the park service.

The new ruling will affect Klamath fishermen who have taken takable and other type boats down the rim.

Stimson Says Wheeler Near Treason Line

"but they were not directed primarily to that group."

"I don't think that is subversive to quote the president of the other men quoted on the card," Wheeler added.

As to Stimson's statement about the nearness to subversive activities and treason, the senator asserted:

"Of course, no one should be too hard on the old man (Stimson). He is in his second childhood, and sometimes acts a little gaga."

The war secretary said only two such cards had been seen by the war department and added he did not know what proportion were sent to officers and men.

Chiloquin Strike Parleys Pending

Negotiations Thursday over settlement of the Chiloquin Lumber company employees strike were in abeyance until early next week, it was reported by both CIO and company spokesmen.

The strike, which started in the company woods operation Monday, July 14, and spread to the mill, yards and box factory on the following day, involves some 200 men who recently voted the International Woodworkers of America (CIO) as their bargaining agent.

BUILDERS PARLEY WITH AFL UNION

Negotiations Thursday were continuing amicably between the Building Trades council (AFL) and Klamath Falls material dealers toward a union shop agreement, according to a union report.

Parleys began several weeks ago when the BTC asked that a master contract be signed by the dealers assuring complete union labor on all local construction jobs. An agreement between the BTC and the Association of Building Contractors and Employers, providing for union labor on actual construction work has been in force for a number of years.

The new contract is designed to cover those affiliated with building projects but not actually engaged in the construction. The contract, if signed, involves primarily material truckers.

No wage or hour conditions are involved in the proposed agreement.

Criminologist Here For Williams Trial On Check Charge

Stanley MacDonald, director of the bureau of identification of Multnomah county, was here Thursday to testify in the trial of J. R. "Tex" Williams, charged with knowingly uttering and publishing a forged check.

Deputy District Attorney Clarence Humble put MacDonald on the stand just before noon and he was cross-examined after noon by F. O. Small, defense attorney.

It was expected the circuit court trial would be completed by evening.

Klamath Growers Report Prices Good for Wool

the price will advance five or six cents before the clip is entirely gone.

A few of the big operators who have sold range clips at the present time include Jack and Matt O'Connor of Spring Lake, Haskins brothers of Merrill, Dan O'Keefe of Dorris, Jerry C. Murphy of Tulelake and Pat Quinlan of Klamath Falls. Majority of the wool was purchased by three buyers, Adams and Leland of Boston, Mass., Haber Wool company of San Francisco, and M. Sanders of Albany, Oregon.

Difference in price of range and farm clips was explained by one grower. Range clips come from Rambouillet cross, or "white faces," the farm clips from "black faces."

Buying for army consumption has not affected the local market to any great extent inasmuch as the army needs more coarse wool and the Klamath basin is a "fine wool country." The army is taking "quite a bit" of Australian wool through the present trade agreement and on the other hand Australian wool is of the coarser type needed in present national defense specifications. "While the price has been attractive, the market is unusual because purchase of wool is definitely on 'order buying,' which means the mills must have the orders before they buy their wool," it was explained by an operator in the know.

indicate our participation in the world conflict. . . . A little calmness now is worth a whole lot more than flaming words."

More than 90 per cent of the draftees would "re-enlist in event of an outright emergency," he said. "I have great confidence in the patriotism of the boys. . . . But we said they could go home at the end of their training period and I stand on that pledge."

The senior Oregon senator said he hoped to remain for some time in Oregon, away from the summer heat of the capital and "the political and official heat as well." He said however he might be called back almost any time. "I may be in Oregon four days or four months," he said.

Recovering—Mrs. William Smith, the former Billie Dodge of this city, is reported recovering from major surgery at Klamath Valley hospital.

FREMONT FOREST DISTRICTS CLOSED

Two areas of the Fremont national forest have been formally closed "to unregulated use" by proclamation of the governor, according to Supervisor William Harriman.

Area No. 2-P is listed as the Goodlaw mountain area. It includes all lands in the national forest boundaries except the Bly-Bonanza road in townships 28 and 29, south, range 11 east, T. 28 S., R. 12 E.; T. 28 S., R. 13 E.; and sections 5, 6, 7 and 8 in T. 28 S., R. 13 E.

Area No. 3-P is the Cottonwood creek area, including Secs. 6 and 9 inclusive, and 14 to 21 inclusive, T. 28 S., R. 18 E.; and E4 Sec. 11 and all Secs. 12, 13 and 14, T. 28 S., R. 13 E.

Permits may be obtained for entering these areas from the Bly ranger station, the Keno springs fireman, the forest supervisor's office at Lakeview, and the Horsefly mountain lookout.

Recovering—Mrs. William Smith, the former Billie Dodge of this city, is reported recovering from major surgery at Klamath Valley hospital.
