FIRMS DONATE TREATS HERE FOR CHILDREN

Prizes and treats are being donated weekly to boys and girls of the recreation centers, according to Dave Bridge, city recreation officer. Last week through the generosity of the Lost River dairy over 200 boys and girls were treated to pop. Sears Roebuck, Steinseifer's Bottling company, Cola Cola Falls creamery and Pacific Fruit and Produce have also signified their interest in donating treats for the children. This week's big treat will be five gallons of ice cream furnished by the Klamath Falls creamery.

During the remainder of the summer program prizes will be awarded to outstanding individuals at the play centers. These donations will be passed to the theatres furnished by Al Fourmet of the Esquire theatre and Mrs. Rose Poole of the Poole Theatres.

Two weeks ago through a reduction in the WPA recreation quota Mrs. Marie Cone was released from the program. This week the recreation office received a letter stating that Mrs. Cone could go back to work at once. Inasmuch as Mrs. Cone is said to be one of the outstanding art teachers in the state, the returning of her personality to the program is expected to aid the children and the program. Mrs. Cone handles arts and crafts at Roosevelt school. The highlight of next week's program will be on Friday. All children and supervisors from the centers will gather at Moore park for the annual Moore park day.
