

EAST INDIES SEVERES PACT WITH TOKYO

Trucks from Saigon, French Indo-China, said 1900 Japanese military trucks had arrived there from Hanoi to transport incoming Japanese troops to nine bases in southern Indo-China—all within striking distance of Britain's great stronghold of Singapore and the rich Dutch East Indies.

A reliable source at Saigon said Japan would land at least 24,000 troops in southern Indo-China at a point within easy range of Thailand (Siam).

Chinese intelligence operators in Chungking reported that Japan had increased her forces in Manchukuo and Korea to 27 divisions, and that they were in position for a drive into Siberia if Japan should decide to do so. Reports were favorable on the Russo-German front.

In Shanghai, a flood of rumors swept the stock exchange, creating a panic among traders.

These rumors, wholly unsubstantiated, included reports of a Japanese-American clash, a Japanese blockade of Hongkong and prospective blockade of Shanghai. Traders were further alarmed over the possibility that Japan would take over Shanghai international settlement.

The Germany we are fighting now is the same Germany that has plunged Europe into war five times since 1860.—Lord Vansittart, British diplomat.

WATER RIGHTS ARGUED BEFORE HEARING HERE

not with the method. He admitted there is waste in the Enterprise district, but said "something is being done about it," such as an underground pressure system and eliminating a dead-end ditch.

Subdivisions Eyed He said the district only wants enough water to irrigate crops to the maximum efficiency and is open to an amicable settlement.

The special commission investigating the charges questioned Thomas at some length concerning the development of subdivisions on the Enterprise district. Thomas said the district includes 3000 acres on which 4500 people reside. About 880 acres have been subdivided.

Change in Crops Thomas, I. J. Dixon and G. J. Hilyard, the latter two directors of the Enterprise district, stated that changing agricultural conditions brought about a greater need for water here and the advisability of raising the duty of water.

They said that 20 years ago grain and alfalfa were the principal products raised. Now there is a heavy production of potatoes and aslake clover, requiring more water. They also said that the development of small tracts had increased the water demand. Dr. William Peterson, one of the investigators, asked if the small tracts development had not been accompanied by the use of more land for roads and for buildings, thus reducing water requirements.

In questioning of Hilyard and Dixon, it was brought out there are not at present measuring devices at the points of intake for individual farmers.

Dr. Peterson said that it might be necessary to install such devices in order to determine the highest efficiency of the use of water.

"Have you thought of the cost of these devices and who might pay for them?" he asked. He also said that it would be unfair to attempt to make farmers produce less crops, but that it might be possible to introduce methods of irrigation which would use less water more efficiently. He asked if there would be any opposition to this, and the farmers replied they could not speak for the other farmers of the district.

Superintendent Thomas pointed out that there is ample water for the Klamath project. He said the project has an actual surplus of 1,000,000 acre feet.

Just before noon Monday representatives of the Pine Grove irrigation district appeared. They were L. O. Miller, president; A. R. Campbell, secretary; and W. E. Cunningham, director. All objected to excess charges. Clifford E. Fix, assistant chief counsel of the bureau of reclamation, and W. D. Burt, special agent of the interior department's bureau of investigation, sat with Dr. Peterson at the hearing and asked many questions of the witnesses.

Fix, in particular, questioned Thomas about the state laws which provide that only owners of four acres or more of land can vote in district elections, and that charges are based on nothing less than one acre. Thomas said that the four-acre rule was established when suburban development put many small holders in the irrigation districts, these people being unfamiliar with farming practices and problems, farm crop prices, and so on. He indicated the purpose was to keep district control in the hands of farmers.

Police Warn Drivers Not To Follow Fire Trucks

City police Monday issued a warning to motorists to stop following a fire truck on the way to a fire. This is a dangerous practice both because it may result in an accident with the fire truck, or some other vehicle, and also because it hinders the firemen when they stop in a hurry to fight the fire, according to Chief of Police Frank Hamm. Another violation the motorists commit is to not drive over to the curb when they hear the siren of either a police car or a fire truck. Chief Hamm said, adding that the excuse always offered is, "I thought the siren was meant for someone else." The following is the state law on following a fire truck:

Section 55-2503 Following a Fire Apparatus Prohibited. "It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle other than one on official business to follow any fire apparatus traveling in response to a fire alarm closer than 500 feet or to drive into or park such vehicle within the lock where the fire apparatus has stopped in answer to a fire alarm, or within three blocks of a point where the fire is in progress."

Section 55-2312 Exceptions to the Right of Way. "The driver of a vehicle upon a street shall yield the right of way to authorized emergency vehicles when the latter are operated in emergencies and the drivers thereof sound audible signals by bell, siren, compression or exhaust whistle. Upon the approach of any authorized emergency vehicle giving signal by siren, bell, compression or exhaust whistle the driver of every other vehicle shall immediately drive the same to a position as near as possible and parallel to the right hand edge of or curb of the highway, clear of any intersection of highways, and shall stop and remain in such position unless otherwise directed by a police officer until the authorized emergency vehicle shall have passed."

On July 27, the city police arrested the following persons for following a fire truck and cited them to appear at 2 p. m. July 30, at the regular traffic court: William Cornelius Cantor, of 727 North Ninth street, and Harold G. Stevens of 1218 Crescent avenue.

Paraguay Invokes Death Penalty For Revolutionaries

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 28 (AP)—The death penalty for anyone attempting to turn Paraguay of any part of it over to a foreign power was decreed today by President Higinio Morinigo a week after neighboring Bolivia nipped an alleged revolutionary plot and expelled the German minister.

The decree followed another last night in which Morinigo called it "the supreme interest of the nation" to have strict measures against "sad extremes to which anarchy would conduct it."

There was no direct indication that the Paraguayan action was connected with the purported Nazi plot to overthrow the Bolivian government but Bolivian officials had said the conspiracy uncovered in La Paz had ramifications in other American countries.

Philippine Patrol Put Under Control Of U. S. Navy

MANILA, July 28 (AP)—The Philippine off-shore patrol was placed under the jurisdiction of the sixteenth naval district tonight, becoming the first unit of the Philippine armed forces to be incorporated with the United States forces as ordered by President Roosevelt.

The patrol comprises about 150 officers and men, two torpedo boats and several such ships under construction. Informed circles expected that the air corps, most highly developed branch of the Philippine army, would be the next unit incorporated.

The air army has more than a hundred trained Filipino combat pilots and an undisclosed number of training planes which could be converted into pursuit ships.

Absorption of the Philippine army, political circles pointed out, will ease the commonwealth government's financial difficulties and save the government at least $8,000,000 annually.

Administrators For Post-war Public Works Appointed

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—Works Administrator John M. Carmody announced today the appointment of 32 state directors of the public work reserve, an agency established to prepare projects to absorb the economic shock when the war ends.

The federal works agency said preliminary studies indicated the reservoir of public work to be undertaken in the post-emergency period might reach 25 to 30 billion dollars in a six-year program.

It was said the inventory was being prepared without regard to the method of financing but only on the basis of the immediate and future needs of states and municipalities. The agency said the state directors would be responsible for a cooperative effort between local, county, state and federal officials to build up a "national shelf of public work projects."

Among the state directors (home addresses not given) and their headquarters cities: Idaho, Edward P. Horsfall, headquarters ungiven; Montana, Martin Kelly, headquarters ungiven; Oregon, Wallis W. Bartlett, headquarters ungiven.
