IMPROVEMENTS AT BLY IN EVIDENCE

BLY—More improvements are in evidence in the line of building in Bly. Leo Moll has further enhanced the appearance of his service station by the addition of Neon lights both outlining the contour of the building and in a large sign. Now Bly has a Neon sign across the highway on the Protaman store. The sign is large and the street is as light as day.

Many here feel that addition of street lights on Main street would pretty well take care of the lighting problem. As it is Main street is dark and during the winter months almost treacherous for a pedestrian going to community affairs at the school or church.

Four-H News

Monday morning at the sound of reveille, all girls were up and preparing for roll call and flag raising. A history of the flag was given by Jean Masten at the early morning program, the entire plans being in charge of Jean Drew. Then the rush was on—breakfast served at 7:15. Immediately after breakfast, a meeting of all tent captains, with their camp president—advisor Jean Drew, and the club agent, Clifford Jenkins, was called near the breakfast table.

Then came camp cleanup and tent inspection, with tent No. 10 winning honors for the day. The members in the tent having the best record at the end of the week will receive special honors and prizes.

Crafts were then begun, with group A enjoying leathercraft and name-pin craft in the activity period between 8:30 and 10:40. Group B discussed "Healthy Minds," and met in marksmanship and leathercraft classes. Group C made name pins, small leather purses in leathercraft, and studied rifle marksmanship, while group D studied block printing and spatter printing. Now came the most exciting part of 4-H camp life at Lake of the woods, swimming and boating. Nearly every girl is extremely anxious to get in the water at every opportunity, but must not go in without her "buddy." Each girl has a "buddy" for swimming, so as to help toward the safety of the program. Steve Stewart is doing a fine job of teaching the girls to swim, life-guarding, and bugling. Swimming seems to give all the girls an appetite, so everyone was quite ready for noon meal, and soon after lunch made a running dive for the canteen, which was open from 12:30 to 1. A staff meeting was held from 1 to 1:30 with instructors completing more plans to make the week doubly interesting, and to keep things moving as scheduled for the 120 girls in camp.

Sylvia Hopkins of the county library staff, arrived Monday night to conduct a discussion around the camp fire about books interesting to younger people and books now being read. This discussion was exceptionally interesting to all the girls, chaperons and instructors. From the general attitude and the beam in each girl's face, it is evident that everyone is having a wonderful time and all are hoping that the week will last a long time.
