CANADIAN WOMEN GRAB SILK HOSE

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 14 (P) Women stocking up on silk hose have caused such a run on supplies in Canada that some stores are sold out and others have limited sales.

Canada froze non-essential supplies of silk at midnight last Saturday as a war-time measure, one week after the United States ordered stoppage of raw silk processing. On Monday morning hosiery counters were jammed by women, some buying as much as $100 to $200 worth of stockings.

A local department store official said last night that women "are in practically before the store opens and you can't get them out at night."

In general, sales of silk stockings here have tripled, it was said. An increase in the price of raw silk has sent prices up 10 per cent, one department store official declared.

Sales in department stores here have been limited to four pairs of stockings to a customer, and Prince Edward island stores reported they were selling only two pairs at a time.

Silk supplies of all kinds are reported low at Halifax and St. John, N. B. Montreal store officials said they had enough to meet demands. At Ottawa "wild buying" was in progress, some women purchasing a dozen pairs of stockings at a time.

Winnipeg stores reported increases of 100 to 300 per cent in sales over a similar period of time in 1940. Edmonton reported normal buying and large stores said they had several months' supply on hand. Prices at Edmonton have not gone up. At Vancouver a rush appeared over last night. Prices were up five to 10 cents a pair.

AIRCRAFT INDUSTRY TO GO UNDER PROBE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14 (P)

The labor situation in southern California aircraft plants, including reports of payroll padding, and "persistent rumors of graft in connection with the establishment of Camp San Luis Obispo" will be investigated here next week by a senate committee on national defense, Sen. Mon C. Wallgren (D-Wash.) announced upon his arrival.

Of payroll padding Senator Wallgren, a member of the committee, said in an interview: "We have heard that such is the case in some instances."

He stated executives of all aircraft plants would be asked to tell "how many planes are being turned out daily and how much each plane costs the taxpayers. We are determined to see to it that the government gets dollar for dollar in aircraft production."

Aircraft manufacturers, Wallgren added, "must let us know where and why the bottlenecks exist. They also must inform us as to labor troubles."

Asserting "the labor situation in the aircraft industry is unstable," he added: "One company will have a closed shop, another an open shop, a third a combination of open and closed shops in various departments. You can't have stabilization of labor under that system, or lack of system."

The senator said Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt, commanding the ninth corps area, together with general and sub-contractors for Camp San Luis Obispo, (Calif.) would be called as witnesses concerning its establishment.

"We are going into all phases of that situation, the selection of the site, the letting of contracts and sub-contracts, the housing conditions, the water supply and the like," he added.
