Odessa Sieged
Hitler's field headquarters declared that Nazi Schnelltruppen ("speed troops") were successfully attacking the few remaining bridgeheads on the west bank of the Dnieper still held by the Russians, and it was evident that the grand assault on the new soviet defense line was about to begin.

German dispatches said that Nazi siege guns were intensifying the attack on Odessa, Russia's big Black sea port, and that increased pressure was also being exerted on Kiev, the Ukraine capital. Nazi aerial observers said Odessa harbor was littered with the burned wreckage of ships.

Jungle Explorer

Will the lid blow off the powder keg of the world, Singapore, in the Malayan Peninsula? If Singapore falls, what will that mean to Americans, and particularly to the Pacific coast? Capt. Harry Schenck, pictured here, who is internationally known as an explorer, big game hunter, motion picture producer and writer, is answering some of these questions here in Klamath Falls in their duties.

At the broiling pits were "Red" Bussman, R. D. "Hod" Eller, Roland T. Warren and C. H. "Hermie" Foster. Other Legionnaires were at the serving tables.

Angus Newton was installed for the second consecutive year as commander of Klamath post No. 8, the installing officer being Victor Micelli of Roseburg, commander of district No. 4. Meanwhile, Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Heffernan, in charge of the district attorney's inquiry into the origin of the devastating fire, announced that a worker's "smoking carelessness" was the cause and that except for a few routine matters the investigation was completed.

MERCHANTS VOTE AIR BASE SUPPORT

Unanimous support was voted by the retail trade bureau Wednesday for efforts to present Klamath Falls as a favorable site for an air base for the army air corps.

Bonneville dam to augment the 162,500 kilowatts it had previously been allotted by that government project. The power instead was assigned to the Reynolds Metals company to operate a competing plant.

Both here and in Grand Coulee, scene of another giant power-irrigation development which he inspected earlier in the day, Ickes pledged his complete efforts toward helping enlarge public control of power.

Prediction
"I regard it as inevitable," he told the mass meeting, "that this far northwest will, in due course and by an orderly procedure, under which a just and fair price will be paid for existing private utilities, come to be a great self-contained public power empire with industry balancing agriculture, and with agriculture finding a market locally for its products, while the great supporting industries of mining, lumbering, shipbuilding and fishing make their considerable respective contributions to the public welfare."

A start toward this end, he suggested, might be made by erecting aluminum fabricating plants in the northwest to utilize the pig aluminum already produced here.

The secretary said there was also a possibility that plants might be built in this state to extract aluminum from alunite, a plentiful but low grade ore, and that a magnesium operation might be established in Spokane.

Interesting Notes of Herald and News Advertisers, Their Products and Activities

Best on every hand by admonitions to conserve supplies of everything from gasoline and oil to tires, the car owner today will welcome definite instructions on how to get the most out of these commodities that he buys, in the opinion of V. J. Goodwin, local Goodyear tire dealer, whose company's new booklet, "How to Make Your Tires Last Longer," offers worthwhile, timely, constructive help.

"The booklet, copy of which is available for every car owner who calls here," said Goodwin, "compiles in easy, understandable language just what the motorist should do to get the most mileage and longer service from his tire equipment. The advice is taken from the company's engineering and test car records over a long period of years and is sound. In fact, it's just what we have been trying to tell people for a long time. Now that there is a national demand and extra good reason why rubber should be conserved, use of such advice is not only patriotic but economical as well."

President Earl B. Gilmore, of the Gilmore Oil company, has just been awarded the famous Edensbun trophy, honoring him as the automotive industry's "Man of the Year."

The award was made by A. C. Pillsbury, regional director of the AAA, and member of the Edensbun trophy committee.

"I am sure no one has done more to merit this award than you have," Pillsbury said. Pillsbury told newsmen Gilmore was chosen for his sponsorship of outstanding racing figures such as England's John Cobb and Salt Lake City's "Racing Mayor" Al Jenkins, as well as for conducting the annual Gilmore "economy run," which has aided in development of more efficient auto engines.

smiled and replied, "not exactly."

Asked by reporters what collateral Russia would give for a loan, he said he assumed the United States would have to take Russia's promissory note for collateral. He added that Russia had one of the smallest debts of any of the major powers.

The federal lending chief said he had no idea of how much money might be involved in such a loan. The amount, he explained, "depends on how much material they want."

Asked whether the amount might be as large as $1,000,000, Jones said, "I can't imagine it would be that big."

He added that, as previously announced, he also was prepared to buy any manganese or other strategic materials Russia could sell this country.

CHINESE PEOPLE UNITE IN FIGHT

Harry Schenck, world-wide explorer and big game hunter, spoke at a meeting of the Lions club at luncheon Tuesday in the Willard hotel and gave first-hand descriptions and experiences of the war in the far east.

Schenck discussed the support which is being given the Chinese government by its people and reported an instance where a road was partially destroyed during a Japanese bombing raid and when the government called for volunteers to repair the road, "three million coolies responded."

The explorer was under fire on the Burma road, was eye witness to many incidents which have a bearing on the present crisis in French Indo-China, Malaya straits, and China. Schenck is lecturing in this city, a film which he took, "Beyond Bengal," now showing at the Pelican theatre. He also showed pictures at the Lions luncheon. Vern Moore was chairman of the meeting.
