

AMBROSE SAYS OUTSIDE FIRE ALARMS HARD

Because Klamath Falls fire department equipment is scantily manned, the department is in no position to make runs outside the city, Fire Chief Keith Ambrose told the city council Monday night.

He was discussing an ordinance setting forth the city's policy on outside fire runs, which will be drawn by Ambrose and City Attorney D. E. Van Vactor.

Too Few Men
"Suppose I take the equipment and all of the men out of the city," said Ambrose. "Then suppose a fire breaks inside, which could easily happen. We would not be here to protect the property which is supporting the department."

He intimated that insurance ratings might be affected under such circumstances.

"It's not a question of what we would like to do. It's what we can do," said the chief. "I think we should give a measure of protection to industrial properties nearby, but not to the extent of weakening ourselves inside the city. I am not in favor of naming individual plants which we would help in case of fire."

Councilman Rollin Cantrall said he believes the city should ask the Oregon Insurance rating bureau what the effect would be if the city sends its fire equipment outside for any purpose. It was indicated the department could not possibly make runs to protect residential properties beyond the corporate limits.

Dogs to be Tied
After considerable discussion the council passed the ordinance which prohibits dogs from running at large in May and June of each year.

Councilman Buseman, who voted against the ordinance, said some people thought the dogs should be confined for six months instead of two.

Asked for his opinion on that, City Attorney D. E. Van Vactor said that "the very nature of dogs requires that they be given certain privileges." He said he thought six months being tied up was too restrictive on the animals.

Claim Filed
Walter H. Fleet filed with the council a claim for $42.39, which he said it cost him to repair his car after his wife attempted to drive over Second street between Main and Pine streets. He said she turned off Main to avoid traffic congestion due to the troops, and the car became "hung up" on the rugged part of Second street near Pine. The matter was turned over to the city attorney.

Councilman Martin asked about the possibility of having a center line painted on East Main street. City Engineer E. A. Thomas will get an estimate of the cost, and East Main business men will be asked if they wish to pay for the project.

A petition for graveling McKinley street brought a council request that this be made a WPA project.

a review of troops at Fort Lewis would be substituted.

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Aug. 26 (AP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, praised both officers and men for marked advances in training at the windup today of west coast maneuvers of nearly 100,000 men.

In a pouring rain, General Marshall spent the night in the field as the maneuvers ended with a sweeping victory by defending forces which sent a mythical invading force back into the ocean. Secretary Stimson motored here from Seattle this morning and spent a few hours on the ninth army corps front lines.

"The army has shown a tremendous improvement since the maneuvers in California in April," General Marshall said at a press conference.

"The object of such maneuvers is to permit soldiers to make all the mistakes when they're not costly, and be able to correct them. These troops have done that."

Secretary Stimson commented that the road discipline of the troops appeared "remarkably good," that he could tell "there had been an advance in training."

"I am very much encouraged and satisfied with the army's progress on the west coast," he added.

SENATE BODY TOLD OF JAP METAL PLANTS

the Aluminum Company of America are "more interested in preserving the company's aluminum monopoly than they are in national defense," resumed the stand today.

Japs Successful
Opening the hearing, Senator Monrad C. Wallgren (D-Wash.) asked Eichelberger:

"Yesterday you called attention to the fact that Japan is using your process in six or seven plants. Is that your process?"

"All I can say is that we patented it there and the Japanese weren't successful in making aluminum until after our patent," Eichelberger, president of the Kalumite company of Salt Lake City, replied. "Japan today is producing more aluminum than the United States and they are using that process. They manufactured more in 1939 than this country did."

"Has the office of production management tried to discourage the use of your patented process?" the senator asked.

"Yes sir, they have," Eichelberger said.

"And yet, Japan, using it, is turning out more aluminum than we are," Senator Wallgren remarked.

Tremendous Deposits
Eichelberger said that deposits of aluminum-bearing clays near Enclaw, Wash., which his company has tested with diamond drills, are "tremendous."

"The bureau of mines believes these deposits are as great as those near Salt Lake City, which are the largest in the nation, undisputedly," Eichelberger testified.

Resuming testimony, Eichelberger said that a site near the Hylebos waterway in Tacoma, which he had chosen for a proposed aluminum plant, could have been converted at one-tenth the cost of a site proposed by OPM officials "in the woods behind McChord field." He said he believed the least desirable site was chosen by OPM officials to delay him and make installation of his proposed plant prohibitive.

"I Wish I Knew"
"It's just another thing to slow this up," he said.

"Why don't they let you go ahead?" asked Sen. Harry S. Truman (D-Mo.), committee chairman.

"Senator Truman, I wish I knew," Eichelberger replied. "Well, we're going to find out," Senator Truman commented.

Donald Miller, department of interior metallurgist who has been working with the Bonneville power administration in light metal research, testified that all the ores and chemicals needed for the manufacture of magnesium are present in Washington state.

Miller said three groups have expressed a wish to the Bonneville power administration to engage in the magnesium industry in this state, but that he could not name two of them "because I do not know if they want their identity known." He identified one as the Henry J. Kaiser company, Oakland, Calif.

Nazis Cancel Privileges of Mexican Consuls

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (AP)—The German government has informed Mexico that Germany is obliged to withdraw the privileges of Mexican consuls in Germany, it was announced today.

(On Aug. 22 Mexico ordered the closing of 15 German consulates by Sept. 1. This step was taken in reprisal for Germany's action in closing Mexican consular offices in Paris and six other German-controlled cities. These moves followed straining of German-Mexican relations after Germany had requested strongly that Mexico protest against the United States trade blacklist of pro-axis firms.)

Yesterday Germany ordered the closing of Haiti's consulates in the reich "for political reasons," and it was announced that German consulates in Haiti had been closed.

DNIEPER CITY IS CLAIMED BY HIGH COMMAND

ing down from the north and British imperial troops striking from the south and west were reported meeting only sporadic resistance from Iran's little army of 190,000 men.

Dispatches from Teheran, the Iran capital, indicated that the government might be preparing the ground for early peace negotiations as Teheran police ordered 16 German businessmen to get out of the country within a fortnight.

On the Russo-German war front, a red army bulletin acknowledged that Nazi troops were advancing toward Leningrad's jugular vein, the rail line to Moscow, after capturing Novgorod, 100 miles south of the old czarist capital. The Germans were reported within 35 miles of the railroad.

Luga Taken
DNB, the official German news agency, said Nazi troops on Sunday captured the industrial city of Luga, 90 miles south of Leningrad, about midway along the Pskov-Leningrad road.

In a battle lasting several days, DNB said, the Germans silenced 112 soviet bunkers, captured 2300 prisoners and seized or destroyed 54 armored cars. Luga is the site of large chemical and metal industries and an important airport.

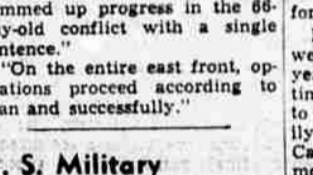

Soviet military dispatches said Leningrad's hastily-drilled people's army had gone into action "in heroic battles for their city, fighting courageously side by side with the red army."

A heavy 24-hour rainfall soaked the whole battlefield from the Baltic to the Black sea, and the Russians counted on increasingly bad weather to bog down the German advance.

Hitler's high command again summed up progress in the 66-day-old conflict with a single sentence:

"On the entire east front, operations proceed according to plan and successfully."

TOM INGRAM DIES SUDDENLY LATE MONDAY

George Thomas "Tom" Ingram, a well known businessman of this city for a number of years, died suddenly Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock of a heart attack in a local physician's office where he had gone for treatment.

Mr. Ingram was born in Rockwell, Texas and was aged 55 years and 11 months at the time of his passing. He moved to Klamath Falls with his family in 1927 from Anaheim, Calif., and purchased the Altamont camp ground which he operated until about 1934.

For several years Mr. Ingram was connected with the Klamath Falls liquor store until his promotion by the state liquor commission to the office of assistant supervisor of the Southern Oregon district, with headquarters at Roseburg.

From Roseburg, Mr. Ingram moved to San Pedro, Calif., then returned to Klamath Falls in January of this year. For the past several months he had been employed as a car salesman at the Balsiger Motor company. Mr. Ingram had been in poor health from a serious heart condition for sometime, according to members of his family.

Besides his widow, Mary Ingram, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lawrence Bertram of this city, and Mrs. Frank Rysavy of San Pedro, Calif., and one grandchild, Helen Bertram of this city.

Notice of the funeral arrangements, in charge of Ward's Klamath Funeral Home, will be announced on Wednesday.

ISSUES MULLED AS ATTORNEYS CONVENE HERE

Important problems concerning relations between attorneys and the public were discussed Monday when the board of governors of the Oregon State Bar association met in Klamath Falls with members of the local bars of Klamath, Deschutes, Jackson and Lake counties.

The meeting was called at 3 p. m. in the circuit court rooms with President George M. Roberts, Medford attorney, presiding. All members of the board were present with the exception of J. J. Crossley, Portland.

Each of the members of the board was called upon to discuss committee reports referred to them at the annual meeting of the bar held in Astoria in 1940. This year the session is slated for September 17 and 18 in Portland. At the annual meeting certain legal propositions are referred to committees for investigation and report. At some time during the year the board discusses the matters with local bars, the sentiment of the various groups then reported at the next annual session.

A few of the important matters discussed included enforcement of laws, juvenile delinquency, district courts, and the public defender system.

At 5:30 p. m. the meeting adjourned and reconvened at 6:30 p. m. at the Willard where dinner was served. Roberts again presided. Discussion continued until 10:30 p. m. Present during the meetings were H. H. DeArmond, Bend, past president of the association, and Circuit Judge Arthur D. Hay of Lakeview, as well as prominent attorneys of the surrounding area. Thirty were present for dinner.

It will have jurisdiction in the seven occupied departments and will enjoy the same court martial status as military and naval tribunals of the unoccupied zone.
