

COUNTY BUDGET BOARD CHOSEN FOR 1941 JOB

Alfred Collier, E. M. Hammond and R. C. Woodruff are the lay members of the Klamath county budget committee to prepare the 1941 financial schedule, county court members stated Wednesday.

Collier, a veteran on the budget committee, was named by Judge U. E. Reeder. Hammond, Merrill farmer, was chosen by Commissioner John Reber, while Woodruff, local business man, was selected by Commissioner E. E. Benner.

It is expected the budget committee will hold its first meeting late this month or early in October.

County Clerk Mae K. Short said that department heads are now turning in their proposed financial programs for the coming year.

There was some discussion at court meeting Wednesday concerning the new law which puts the county on a new fiscal year basis—from July 1 to June 30. This law becomes effective next year, and the question before the local group is whether to budget for an entire year in 1941, or for half a year.

Army Officer Here — Major Sol Richenbach, army officer attached to Oregon Selective service headquarters in Salem, was in Klamath Falls Wednesday on a tour of draft boards.

DRURY TAKES JOB AT PORT ANGELES

Don Drury, manager of the Kalmine Plywood company here, disclosed to directors of the chamber of commerce Wednesday that he has accepted a position as resident manager of a new fir plywood plant at Port Angeles, Wash., and will leave here October 1. He resigned as a director of the chamber.

Drury came here three years ago to manage the plywood plant on the Klamath river. He said Wednesday his successor for the local position has not been chosen.

The lumberman has been active in civic affairs, serving as director of the chamber of commerce and Kiwanis club, and participating in Boy Scout work. He recently completed a new home in Hot Springs.

Chamber directors reluctantly accepted Drury's resignation and voted him the thanks of the chamber for his services.

Portland Police Baffled by Request From California

PORTLAND, Sept. 10 (AP) — The desk sergeant and half a dozen detectives gathered around and puzzled—reaching no decision—over what to do about a letter the police department got today.

A Corona, Calif., woman wrote the department that she wanted a husband who would take her out of a packing house job — "which has no future" — and provide a "modest little home" for herself and her daughter.

She said she was 38, of "excellent reputation, neither smokes nor drinks."

She explained that she wrote to Portland because she had been told that "Oregon was so beautiful."

OVERSTEPPED

BALDOCK SAYS WORK PLANNED NEXT SPRING

lanes, right-of-way will be expanded from the present 60 feet to 80 feet, Baldock stated. He indicated local assistance was expected in working out right-of-way costs.

Baldock said his department is running into the slack season of the year so far as construction is concerned and would have time to work out details on the Klamath problem. He added that 1941 appropriations for South Sixth street work still stand, and for that reason he can see no reason why work cannot start in the spring.

The highway engineer conferred with chamber of commerce officials on this matter, after going over the Sprague River road route with county and Indian service officials Tuesday.

On this trip, division of work on the Sprague River project was outlined, with changes made from a tentative division laid out earlier Tuesday before the road was viewed. The state will spend $150,000 on this road, and another $150,000 will be spent from Indian department road funds.

Baldock said it is now the state's plan to start its construction on the Lakeview highway end of the Sprague River road, because this is the heaviest traveled part of the road and connects directly with a state highway. The state plans to carry the work on standard grade to the town of Sprague River, with an underpass or overhead there crossing the Oregon, California and Eastern railroad, and a new bridge over Sprague river at the town by that name.

"If right-of-way can be obtained without cost, the state will probably build the road from Lakeview highway to Sprague River on an 80-foot width basis, county officials said Wednesday. They viewed this as an opportunity for Sprague River people to get a road of the most modern standards."

The tentative plan is for the Indian service to take up where the state leaves off at Sprague River.

Klamath county will do some work on the Chilquin end of the highway. It is not believed the $300,000 currently appropriated will finish the entire construction job, but it will go a long way and other appropriations are expected to come easily after the major work is done.

Baldock told the local officials the state will make an immediate survey of the entire route. There may be some re-location on the western part of the road.

Traditional Diet May Help Spud Growers by 1942

ning from 15 to 20 per cent lighter in yield than in 1940. The reduced supply will have the effect of boosting prices, the agent points out, but rising costs may offset any gain in the market. Growers recently increased harvest wages from 25 to 39 per cent and will have to buy their sacks and other material at prices sometimes double those of last year.

Adding to the dark side of the picture, Henderson states that unfavorable prices have reduced early shipments, beginning in August, to half those of last year.

On the brighter side, Henderson reported that the quality of the Klamath potatoes is good this year and that purchases by the army and navy will greatly help to reduce any surplus. Growers are hopeful, he said, that the government will install a flat price system of buying agricultural commodities for the military forces. Potato men have complained that the system of buying from the lowest bidder tends to drive the market price down generally by fostering extensive options and price cutting by dealers who compete for the government business.

Growers see better times ahead also for the proposed national marketing agreement which was recently approved by Idaho growers who defeated the plan in 1938. The marketing plan is favored here over the federal acreage quota method because the acre yield of potatoes varies widely from year to year and could easily nullify any attempt to stabilize the supply by limiting acreage.

A marketing agreement, on the other hand, provides that the growers themselves, through regional committees, maintain a favorable price-supply relationship by withholding inferior grades from the market when the crop is large, Henderson said.

CLARK LEVELS WAR CHARGES AT FILM MEN

"made one propaganda film after another to rouse the hatred of the people of America."

"Next to them," he said, "I will put the Warner Brothers, who probably have made more of these hate-producing films than any other company in America. Next to them I will put 20th Century-Fox of which Mr. Joseph M. Schenck was chairman until he was sent to the penitentiary and of which Mr. Darryl Zanuck is now head. (Later, at the request of Willkie, Chairman Clark remarked that Schenck had been convicted of income tax evasion but had appealed and was not in the penitentiary.)

"I should say, next to them, though some might dispute their claim to this distinction, is the United Artists, which Mr. Alexander Korda now heads—a Hungarian who is a British subject and which company is dominated by two British subjects—Mr. Alexander Korda and Mr. Charlie Chaplin, who has lived in this country for 30 years and made a great fortune here, and never thought well enough of the United States to become a citizen.

"Both of them are using the instruments of the screen which they have in their possession to poison the minds of the American people to go to war for their respective native countries.

"And high on the list, of course, must go the March of Time and the men who control that, chiefly Mr. Henry Luce, who dominates that and a group of publications which are plugging not merely for American entry into war, but for American abdication of her independence to form a union with Great Britain."

As for radio, Clark said it was possible for both sides of the war debate to be heard on the air. But he added he did not want to "acquit the radio people" because "the great radio chains keep the air hot with propaganda for war in their sponsored programs and their sustaining programs almost every hour of the day."

Indian Youth, 18, Found Dead by Own Hand Tuesday

Jacob Charles, 18-year-old Klamath Indian, was found dead Wednesday morning at the home of his grandfather, Robert David, on Williamson river on the Klamath reservation. He had been shot through the temple with a .22 calibre pistol, and the death was pronounced a suicide by investigating officers.

District Attorney L. Orth Sienore said that Charles on Tuesday night went into the house of Dennis Crowley, an Indian on Williamson river when the Crowleys were away. He is believed to have been partially intoxicated at the time. He ransacked the house and was there when the Crowleys came home from Chilquin. He allegedly struck Mrs. Crowley on the head with a gun.

Remorse over this incident is believed to have led to his decision to take his own life later in a shed at the David house, where he went from the Crowley place. The remains are at Ward's.

SPUD LABOR SUPPLY HELD SATISFACTORY

No loss is anticipated in the Grants Pass hop yield. He attributed this to the fact growers had placed full responsibility with the OSES. An orderly handling of the migrant labor problem has thus resulted, Stoll claimed.

It is planned to begin sending labor into the basin during the latter part of this month so that full crews will be available when the main harvest starts on or about October 1.

The placement leaders conferred with Henry Semon, prominent Henley grower, and Harry Wilson of Malin, both members of the State Advisory committee on agriculture for the OSES, while in the area.

Gilchrist Youth Enlists in Navy

Roy D. McDonald from Gilchrist has volunteered his services in the naval reserve through the local recruiting station it was learned Wednesday.

He is 21 and will enter clerical training at San Diego. "The local enrollment of new navy men has declined considerably during the first part of this month, due either to the beginning of school or the draft or there aren't any more boys left in the Klamath area," stated Sergeant McDonald, the local navy recruiter.
