One Dog—Two Boys

The new boy whistled and Frisky dashed across the road and wagged up to him. His young master coaxed the dog back and the new boy whistled again. A second time the little dog started across; then stopped at the call of his rightful owner. There he stood uncertain until Pat ran out and picked him up. Even a dog cannot serve two masters—"Ye cannot serve God and mammon," said our Lord. God and money, it means.

We recall the banker down in Kentucky who offered 8% interest on deposits. He spread the news far and near and the money flowed in. Then a U. S. bank examiner went over the books and called them. Mr. Banker had been helping himself to the money drawn in by that 8%. Off to the federal prison at Atlanta he went, to keep company with many another of his stripe and to ponder the words—"Ye cannot serve God and mammon." The Bible knew the end for such as make money their god.

Out of the glory and down to our little earth, came the Christ who was to redeem such as would believe in Him. He became God's servant to prove that in Himself, He had what our hearts crave and what this old world can never give. To one who would join with Him, Christ warned—"The foxes have dens and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head." To His followers He promised no easy path. Hear His challenge—"He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keep it unto life eternal. If any man serve Me, let him follow Me; and where I am, there also shall My servant be. If any man serve Me, him will My Father honor."

ONE—If you have settled it in your heart that Christ died for your sins, you by that have eternal life. "God said it; Christ did it; I believe it; that settles it."

TWO—Eternal life takes effect, not when you go into the grave, but from the instant you put your faith in Christ. But to make it priceless here and now you must surrender all. Sign over the days that remain and along with them the worry and woe; the sinful habits and thoughts. These do not belong to eternal life. They are of your dead yesterdays. THREE—So we say always, may Christ be not only your Saviour but for every hour of the living day, your hope, cheer, joy, strength and wisdom.

News Notes and Comment

By MAURICE O'CALLAGHAN

By far the best pep assembly of the year was held Friday in the big boys' gym. Two new yellows and a couple of old ones and several specialty numbers.

Marg Elliott and Janette Bayless gave a skit about a couple from Ashland who visited the game last night. It was on the old side but it was okay otherwise. Shirley Francis opened the show with a tap dance number. Patricia Brown stole the show with her vocal rendition of "Till Reville," and Marie Elenna accompanied by Keith McGilvary.

Well, to be honest with you all, the assembly was so hot it burned out the public address system. By the way, since assemblies are to be held in the boys' gym new public address systems are being used to find one adequate for public addresses in the gym. The proposed new equipment will be in addition to the system in the auditorium.

Girls' league held an election Thursday and Friday to pick girls to fill the vacancies of secretary and vice president of that organization.

Phyllis Emigh's job of vice president will be filled by Joanne Hamilton and Joanne Semons' secretary job will be held by Christina Demetras.

An average increase of three a day or so has been noticed in the office of the advisors, Dorothy Schupp and Don Ross, it was announced recently. The increase has been noted during the last two weeks or so. The new students are from widespread areas of the county.

The advisors are working now on the seniors' record to see if they have all piled up enough credits to graduate this coming spring.

Remember KUHS license plates are being sold. Forty-five (not 40 cents) as was mentioned Thursday) and 25 cents.

We would never have believed it had we not received the news from an authoritative source, that this year's El Rodeo was not selling very fast—only 10 so far. Too bad—a. But we still don't believe it. The El Rodeo this year are going to be as good as last year's and possibly better, and from what we have heard unauthoritatively several hundred dollars worth had been sold. Personally we think it was a trick to get the students interested in the annuals, and to remind them that they are still on sale. Buy one now, for in the spring who knows? There might not be any.

Sunday is Columbus day. To a grade school student it will be another day which comes and is gone the next. Monday they may have an assembly and a speaker and singing and so forth.

KUHS will take into consideration the fact that this country was discovered just 449 years ago. In history classes and social sciences they will look back over the history of this country. They will see the struggles for existence since the days of Christopher C. They will understand the importance of the struggle we are now in to preserve what our forefathers fought for in the past.

In the hands of the younger generation between the ages of 16 and 25 will fall the task of preserving what has been gained. They will know and will hold our rights as free people and Mr. C. C. trip to this country will not have been in vain. For this nation, dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal will not perish from the earth. (Lincoln). The greatest test is before us. Education plays a part in the preservation of the democratic system of our government. That is why high school students are being taught the duties and responsibilities of future citizenship. As long as the people who must fight know what they are fighting for they will not lie down before an oppressor, no matter what he threatens or how much he lies. That is what the high school teaches. A broader view, a deep-

CAMP VOTE ASKED AT WEYERHAEUSER

The Lumber and Sawmill Workers' union (AFL) has asked the National Labor Relations board to hold a board representation election at the Weyerhaeuser Timber company's area woods camps, it was disclosed Saturday.

The LSW, union officials said, claims a majority of some 300 Weyerhaeuser loggers belong to the AFL organization. The company, according to the unionists, refuses to recognize the mill and woods as separate bargaining units.

It was believed a hearing will be held on the petition in the near future.
