

INDIANS WILL OBSERVE 77TH ANNIVERSARY

Klamath Indians at a special program Tuesday will celebrate the seventy-seventh anniversary of the signing of the treaty of October 14, 1864.

The treaty of 1864 was signed at council grove, on the reservation near the present location of the agency. It was signed by representatives of both Klamath and Modoc, and through it they gave up their claims to this area with the exception of the reservation, which was set aside at that time.

Tuesday's observance will begin with a dinner at the council house at Klamath agency, starting at 11:30 a. m. The afternoon program starts at 1:30 p. m., and is announced as follows:

Song, "God Bless America," Eldon Miller at the microphone. Invocation, by Rev. Asa Miller. Welcome address, Superintendent Courtwright.

Song, "America," (sung in Indian) by Seldon Kirk. Welcome address, Klamath Junior council, by John Copeland, president.

Reading of the Treaty of 1864, by Joseph S. Ball.

Song, "South of the Border," by Dlee Crane.

Brief history of the Klamath Tribe, by Andrew Wright.

Instrumental solo, by Manuel Mose.

Guest speaker, Judge Edward B. Ashurst.

Song, by Seldon Kirk family.

Speech, by Judge Levi Walker.

Male chorus.

WORKMANSHIP

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—That's a thorough pickpocket at the state fair.

Six visitors reported the thief lifted their billfolds, removed the money, then replaced the wallets in their pockets.

Malted Milk Cookies . . . they'll love 'em in that school lunch. Raisin, nuts and malt. 2 dozen 25c. Polly Ann Bakery.

by JOHN GUNTON

Out here in the West we practically wallow in the midst of plenty of oil. You'd think that western gasoline rationing would be about as imminent as coal shortage in Newcastle, war or no war.

But we folks out here do face possible gasoline shortage or rationing. Not because there's a lack of oil, but because there aren't enough tankers.

The government sends tankers to Britain, and those tankers are released or sold by Union Oil and other American oil companies. That, in turn, leaves us short over here.

Now it takes 8 railroad trains of 80 cars each, to haul as much oil as goes in just one tanker. And out here on the coast a big share of our oil is moved by tankers.

So I asked the boss what Union Oil was doing about it. And, as seems to be the policy of Union—they're doing plenty. In the first place, they're securing every barrel, truck and tank car they can get their hands on.

But that's not all. As a matter of fact, 2 years ago when war broke out, Union suspected something of this sort might happen, and ordered 7 new tankers, without aid or urging by the government.

Well, 3 of these ships are already delivered and the rest due in 6-month intervals. Of course, they won't end a shortage of transportation, but boy how they'll help!

This Union is doing everything possible to minimize the effects of any transportation shortage—looking out for the interests of its customers as it has been doing in peace and war for over 50 years.

Official German picture radioed from Berlin shows German soldiers holding up in the face of Russian counter-attacks. Picture of scared looking youths hardly bears out legends of Nazi invincibility.

K. F. STUDENTS IN ACTIVITIES AT UNIVERSITY

Dan Halferty, Klamath Falls, University of Oregon student, was one of 20 men named members of the symposium debate team last week.

This team is under the supervision of Professor W. A. Dahlberg of the speech department and has scheduled Tuesday, October 14, as the date for its first meeting.

Phyllis Collier, Klamath Falls, a sophomore at the university was appointed by Betty Kincaid, YWCA president, as YWCA representative for Kappa Kappa Gamma of which she is a member.

In order to have the YWCA represented in every women's organization on the campus 19 girls were commissioned to represent the YWCA this year.

Jim Burness, Klamath Falls, a sophomore at the university, has been chosen by Wilbur Bishop, editor of the Oregonian, to be the representative of the college annual for Phi Gamma Delta of which Burness is a member. Dick Igl, also of Klamath Falls, and a sophomore at the university, will represent Beta Theta Pi.

The Oregonian, recently awarded All-American honors in a contest that included all college annuals, will this year be the world's largest annual published by a university or college.

Jerry O'Callaghan of Klamath Falls is a member of the Oregon staff this year, working under the activities editor.

Dan Kirkpatrick, Klamath Falls, a junior at the University of Oregon having completed his primary civil pilot training course with a superior rating has been enrolled in the advanced civil pilot training class, according to James C. Stovall, CPT coordinator, at the University of Oregon.

Twenty students were chosen to complete the advance work, which will be devoted to 40 hours flying, and 144 hours of ground school training. The flying will be mainly acrobatic maneuvers. If the student completes the entire four-course program he will be granted a commercial license and student instructor rating.

James Burness and Morry Stein, Klamath Falls, are among Oregon's 30 civilian "trainees" who are enrolled in the fall civilian pilot training class at the university.

Stovall announces that dual instruction is well underway and solo work is expected to begin some time during the next few weeks.

Auto Beaten Flat By Logging Train; Driver Escapes

BEAVERTON, Oct. 13—An automobile, colliding with logging train near here Saturday night, was jammed against a telephone pole an arm's length from the train tracks.

Succeeding log cars battered the auto, flat, and pushed it through the clearance space between pole and tracks.

The auto driver, Rev. Alexander Hawthorne, Portland, crawled out, suffering only minor injuries.

KLAMATH MAN SENTENCED IN FEDERAL CASE

MEDFORD, Ore., Oct. 13—(Special)—Andy Bennett, 70, Klamath Falls, was sentenced to two years in a federal prison and fined $10 by Judge James Alger Fee in U. S. district court Saturday on a charge of providing liquor to Indians.

Bennett pleaded guilty to an indictment accusing him of selling or giving wine to Audrey Baker, an Indian ward of the government, in Klamath Falls September 18. Saying that he was getting "pretty old," Bennett asked for leniency and Judge Fee commented that the court could not keep him out of trouble. Bennett's record showed that he had been convicted on the same charge once before in federal court, twice for the same offense in a local court in Klamath Falls and 26 times in Klamath Falls for various misdemeanors such as drunkenness and vagrancy.

The court was told also that Bennett would not stay at the county farm there, through the effort of the county public welfare commission, he had been placed.

Another aged defendant, D. W. McEvoy, 81 Klamath Falls, was arraigned on an indictment charging him with selling liquor to Indians, and asked the court to appoint an attorney to represent him. Judge Fee said an attorney would be appointed later. McEvoy is accused of selling or giving alcohol to Alfred Butler, an Indian ward of the government, in Klamath Falls last July 3. The indictment stated that he had been convicted twice before in federal court on the same charge.

Trial of Edwin Walker, 20, and Marvin J. Walker, 18, Beatty, both Klamath Indians, was set to follow liquor law trials scheduled for October 21. The defendants are charged with the larceny of livestock owned by Archie Chippis, also a Klamath Indian, on the reservation September 10.

Boyd J. Jackson Jr., the Klamath Indian charged with murder, was brought back into court for pleading after appointment of Attorney George Coddling to represent him. He previously had been set for October 21. Likewise Roland Hicks, Klamath Indian charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and represented by Attorney Otto J. Frohnmayer under court appointment, pleaded innocent. His trial had already been set for October 20.

August Walk, represented by Attorney Frank P. Farrell under court appointment, pleaded innocent to selling liquor to Indians. The case had previously been set for trial October 21. Trial of Frank Abila, charged with the same offense, was scheduled for October 23. Attorney James T. Chinnock of Grants Pass having been appointed to defend him. The court specified October 22 as date for the trial of Harry W. Hill, also charged with selling liquor to Indians. Hill, represented by Attorney George M. Roberts, has been at liberty under bail.

Rep. Isaac D. Calif. who won the congressional medal of honor for his World War naval service, recalled that he was an officer aboard the battleship Florida which he said furnished the first gun crew for merchant service in 1917.

"We trained most of those crews in Chesapeake bay," Isaac said, "and many of them were young fellows with less than a year's naval service."

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee said he was satisfied the navy would have to provide the gun crews for merchant ships, not only because of the degree of skill required but also because maritime unions probably would object to civilians being used for such purposes.

Qualified sources said that the average gun crew aboard a merchant ship would be about 10 men under a petty officer. That would be sufficient to man the gun 24 hours a day.

Appointed—Catherine Lyon has been appointed secretary of the associated students of Pacific university at Forest Grove. Miss Lyon, a senior and president of Kappa Delta sorority, was appointed to fill a vacancy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Lyon of Klamath Falls.

Sleeping Sickness Carried By Mosquitoes, Says Profs

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP)—Laboratory tests confirming the suspicions of scientists that mosquitoes can carry the virus of American sleeping sickness or encephalitis were reported Saturday by scientists of the University of California's Hooper foundation.

They found the disease organisms in mosquitoes from Yakima, Wash., center of an area in which more than 100 persons have died from the infection.

As yet there is no evidence that the mosquito actually transmits the disease to human beings.

MINOR INJURIES RESULT OF CRASH

Ernest Sanders, 1920 Menlo way, an employe of the Waldorf, suffered minor cuts and bruises in a one-car accident which occurred near the state line on highway 97 late Sunday afternoon.

A passing motorist, John Smith, Morton, Wash., brought Sanders to Klamath Valley hospital where he was admitted at 4 p. m. He was dismissed Monday morning.

In a two-car accident shortly after 8 o'clock Sunday morning two miles south of the Lakeview junction on highway 39, a cow was reported to have been the only casualty. The animal, owned by Andrew Short, Route 2 Box 536, was later destroyed.

Operators of the two cars were Dale Ross, Medford, and Charles Edgar Ward, Pelican City, according to state police. Both cars were damaged.

Indication of an all-out battle next Friday in a game which may determine the mythical state high school football championship came out of Monday's regular session of the Quarterback club.

Coach Buck Hammer of the undefeated Pelicans told some 75 Quarterbacks that Modoc field practice gates will be closed and barred all week, leading to the belief the blonde, gruff pilot is cooking something unusual for the edification of Bill Bowerman's also unbeaten Medford Tornado.

Hammer refused to predict the outcome of the Friday fracas which is expected to play before over 5000 spectators, but did say that if any edge existed it might lie in the Bigbill line.

He said that he fully expects Bowerman to throw the book at the Klamaths in Modoc field, a book which will probably include a spread formation. The spread last year was used by the Pelicans against the Tigers and nearly won the game.

Bowerman, Hammer stated, is reported to have said he has the best team in Medford history.

One of the best between-halves parade exhibitions in Modoc field history was promised by Chuck Stanfield, KUHS music director. Stanfield told Quarterbacks that his organization was working behind figurative barred gates and would come up with several surprises.

Everett Vanderpool, high school ticket manager, reported that Medford has reserved 250 seats for the game.

To Eugene—The Rev. Carl F. Nitz of the Zion Lutheran church left by motor Monday afternoon for Eugene where he will show the film, "The Life of St. Paul." Before returning here, Rev. Nitz will pay similar visits to Bend, Roseburg and Medford.

Fishing—Mr. and Mrs. Angus Newton were among the Klamath folks fishing for salmon this past weekend at Gold Beach.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—These burglars went at it the hard way.

Thieves smashed three cash registers at a cocktail lounge and stole $1200. Owner George Biff said a mere punch of a key would have opened them.

The vikings and saxtons considered the raven a sacred bird and adorned their helmets with its wings.
