'HAIL KLAMATH' SAYS MEMBERS OF BATTERIES

Letters of appreciation from members of Batteries A and C for entertainment given them on their recent visit here have been received by a number of individuals and organizations in the past week. All are warmly praiseworthy of Klamath's spirit.

The Herald and News Saturday received a letter on the subject from Captain John F. (Fred) Olin, of the 249th Coast artillery, who is adjutant of the second battalion.

His letter:

"I've written several letters of appreciation to several organizations and individuals in Klamath Falls for the wonderful hospitality shown the members of Batteries A and C and the band and officers of the 249th Coast Artillery on our recent homecoming but I might have omitted some who hal a part in helping house, feed and entertain us. To those swell people and organizations who didn't get letters of appreciation I would like to use the columns of your papers in expressing our sincere appreciation and thanks for the wonderful way they all contributed to making our homecoming an event that will never be forgotten.

"All the men and officers had the time of their lives, thanks to our loyal folks at home, and the men of the regimental band and the selectees who do not live at Klamath Falls all are enthusiastic in saying that from now on they also are from Klamath Falls. They all remarked that Klamath Falls was a swell place and would be proud to call it their home.

"Several of the enlisted men of the batteries are from the eastern and southern states. They had an opportunity to see Crater lake and other points of interest and believe me they were overwhelmed and to those people responsible for taking those boys to Crater lake I wish to express my thanks from the bottom of my heart. Those kids will remember that sight the rest of their lives.

"Again thanking each and every person and organization in Klamath Falls for their part I remain,

Very truly yours and "HAIL KLAMATH"! ! !

JOHN F. OLIN,
Capt. 249th Coast Artillery.
Adjutant 2nd Battalion.

AFL Certified at Crater Lake Box, Lumber Company

The Lumber and Sawmill workers union (AFL) has been certified by the National Labor Relations board as the bargaining agent for 259 employes of the Crater Lake Box and Lumber company, it was announced Saturday.

The AFL several weeks ago won a board election at the Sprague River lumber operation, balloting 142 votes to the CIO's 61.

In the election, there were no votes cast for the "no-union" designation, a circumstance unprecedented in NLRB ballots throughout the northwest, according to the best available statistics.

The suspect denied ever having been in Nevada, Harvitt said. "He did admit, however, having thrown a switch on a railroad track near upper Sandusky, O., in the spring of 1940, but there was no accident as trainmen discovered the act," the sheriff added.

Harvitt said the man told him he threw the switch because he "got mad at a trainman."

NEWTON NAMES FOWLER CHIEF FOR NAVY DAY

Commander Angus Newton of Klamath Post, No. 8, American Legion, has appointed James Fowler, Americanization chairman, to serve as chairman of the Legion navy day program and navy recruiting drive, it was announced Saturday.

Fowler has outlined a program arranged for the observance of Navy day, October 27, and made the following statement:

"We must have recruits to man the new ships being built for our two-ocean navy and awards have been made for the construction of 332 new combat ships. These, added to what we already have, will give us a combined sea strength of 32 battleships, 18 aircraft carriers, 91 cruisers, 364 destroyers, and 186 submarines, a total fleet of 691 vessels of war.

"Most important is the enlistment of men who will be trained as skilled mechanics to man the new ships. A young man has a choice as to his job, but if the present situation should become acute, the man will have to take what job is given him. The navy has established 26 new training schools for the purpose of preparing young men for their work.

"For the purpose of manning the ships, the American Legion of the state of Oregon, through its commander, Joseph K. Carson, has the task of recruiting 140 men or more by Navy day. We have 120 posts in the state and I am sure we will fill our quota. The fortunate men, who will pass the examination requirements, will be sworn in at a big mass meeting in Portland and will go to the San Diego training station on a special train."

tion against American merchant ships entering belligerent ports, senate leaders were understood to favor pushing the armed ship bill through without injecting the other issue at this time.

Armed ship opponents conceded the house measure should reach a senate vote by Nov. 1, but warned that any effort to expand it to permit travel through combat zones to ports of warring nations would prolong a decision indefinitely.

Candidates Here For Spud Show Over Weekend

Several real and potential candidates for public office in the state were in Klamath county this weekend for the Merrill potato festival festivities.

Heading the list was Governor Charles A. Sprague, a candidate to succeed himself for the republican nomination for governor. Lowell Stockman, probable candidate for the republican nomination for congressman from the second district, came down from Pendleton. Robert Farrell, speaker of the house of representatives at Salem and an expected candidate for the republican nomination for secretary of state, was here from Portland.

NAZIS CALL KEARNY INCIDENT 'MADE-UP'

the U. S. destroyer Kearny happened at the very moment when the neutrality debate was at its height in congress.

Saying they had no information from the German admiralty on the incident and thus no official reaction could be given, they added that President Roosevelt "and his whips in congress undoubtedly find the incident most welcome in order to hasten their aggressive program."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) The capital today grimly awaited further word from the torpedo-damaged U. S. destroyer Kearny, reported laboring toward an undisclosed port after an encounter with a raider 350 miles southwest of Iceland.

The navy's terse official announcement, issued shortly after the attack yesterday morning, left many important questions unanswered. It did not specify whether the torpedo was fired by a submarine, surface raider or warplane; the nationality of the destroyer's adversary was not made known, and the degree of damage was not indicated.

Naval men pointed out, however, that a damaged warship could hardly risk using her radio at length while in a danger zone.

There was widespread relief in the capital over the announcement that "no casualties to personnel were indicated in dispatches received by the navy department." Destroyers of the Kearny's class normally carry about 200 officers and men.

President Roosevelt, weekending at Hyde Park, made it clear to reporters that the torpedoing occurred within the American defense zone. But for answers to other questions, he referred the newsmen to the navy department.

Although an official declaration was lacking concerning the nationality of the attacker, most congressmen were quick to assume it was a German torpedo which struck the 1530-ton vessel, completed last year at a cost of $5,000,000.

And in the light of the president's orders to the navy last month, to hunt down the "rattlesnake raiders" of the Atlantic, it seemed a foregone conclusion that U. S. warships were seeking contact with the raider.

Many legislators called for quick retaliation against the aggressor, but others took the stand that all the facts should be ascertained before making any far-reaching decision.

BERLIN CLAIMS VICTORIES IN MOSCOW PUSH

spearheads thrusting dangerously close to the capital.

Reuters, British news agency, quoted a Stockholm dispatch as saying that red army counterblows had driven the Germans back in the northwest, recapturing the strategic town of Kalinin, 95 miles from Moscow.

Other British reports quoted the Moscow radio as saying soviet troops on Tuesday recaptured Orel, key rail center 200 miles south of Moscow.

The Russians reported especially stubborn fighting west of Moscow, where the Germans are pressing against the capital's defenses, and said the "red army beat off several fierce enemy attacks."

However, the Moscow radio admitted that the situation on the outer approaches to Moscow and on the southern front still was very serious.

In London, Exchange Telegraph quoted the Moscow radio as saying the Russians recaptured last Tuesday the city of Orel, about 200 miles south of Moscow.

There was no word from Moscow on reports from other capitals that government leaders had gone to Kazan, 450 miles east of the capital.

The state department in Washington, however, said high soviet foreign office officials had left Moscow for an eastern destination.

The Russians branded German and Rumanian statements on trophies allegedly captured in the Odessa area as "empty bragging" and said that in reality Odessa was evacuated upon the decision of the red army supreme command "for strategic reasons."
