BURDEN OF SCHOOL TAXES DISCUSSED

That Oregon ranks eighth among the states in the wealth behind each student in the public schools, but takes 47th place among the states in spreading the school tax burden to all of our wealth, was one of the impressive comparisons brought to attention of the Klamath Realty board at its Monday luncheon meeting in the Willard hotel by Arnold L. Gralapp, principal of Klamath Union high school who spoke on the relationship between business and education.

Gralapp pointed out that Oregon is still supporting its educational systems under methods of taxation copied from an old Massachusetts statute that was abandoned in the Bay state years ago; that real estate, representing 35 per cent of the wealth of Oregon, bears the entire school tax. This unfair burden upon home owners should be removed by some plan by which all wealth of the state would bear an equal share of the tax, in the opinion expressed by the speaker.

The expansion of vocational education, particularly during the past year, since the schools were called upon to take a leading part in preparation of men for the demands of industry, was reviewed with particular reference to what is being done at Klamath Union high school. In the mechanical lines, new students are being entered right along. There are ten units for teaching electric welding and trainees are being sent to industries every month. This results in taking newly qualified men in mechanical lines to other centers. However, there is now an effort being made to award sub-contracts to small industries, so that it will enable these trainees to find employment in their home communities, Gralapp said.

At Klamath Union high school the government has furnished equipment representing a value of about $30,000, pays for the electric current used in operating the machinery, but requires the school district to furnish the building space for the purpose.

Demand for vocational training has been steadily growing from the beginning less than two years ago when the government called upon the schools to undertake preparation of men to be called in the draft, as an aid to industry and to the military establishment. This growth is denoted in the doubling of the calls under the draft, which will call 2,000,000 men to the colors during the next twelve months. Fred E. Fleet, who is terminating his term as president of the Realty board presided at the regular meeting.

Klamath Student Heads Committee

Barbara Lee Jacobs, of Klamath Falls, a student at the University of Oregon, served as committee chairman for the freshmen women's tea given last week.

The tea was sponsored by the Women's Athletic association of the university.

SMORGOSBORD TO BE OFFERED SATURDAY

The smorgosbord, or "little bit of Sweden" dinner is attracting a widening popularity in the United States, according to members of the First Covenant Ladies Aid who will sponsor another of these distinctly Scandinavian repasts Saturday evening.

The smorgosbord is very popular in the Scandinavian countries, especially in Sweden where it originated, but recently, because of curtailment of supplies, it has been forbidden in restaurants in Europe. Nearly all of the traditional smorgosbord delicacies, however, are still available in this country.

The public is invited to attend the dinner Saturday night between the hours of 6 and 8 p. m. at the First Covenant church, 623 Walnut avenue. A needlework sale will be conducted at the same time.

On the menu will be the following dishes, mostly Scandinavian: inlaid sill, sill salad, kalv sylta, rol puissa, Swedish meatballs, home-pickled pigs' feet, rolled corn beef, four varieties of other cold meats, five varieties of cheese, potato salad, rice pudding, home-baked beans, brown beans, pickled beets, dill pickles, jelly, butter, home-made knackebrod, rye bread, hardtack, cookies and coffee.

NEW HAVEN, W. Va., (AP)—Twice the front page of the New Haven News fell to pieces or "pied" as it was being loaded on the weekly's press.

Exasperated editors put out the paper with a banner headline: "The Jinx Downed Us This Week" and the explanation strung over page one:

"Two doses of pi is too much to overcome in one weekend, so our readers will be obliged to take the first page blank. Page one fell to pieces, 'pied,' as it was loaded on the press, was reconstructed only to pi again. Sorry, but accidents happen to all of us sometimes."

The United States uses about one-half of the world's output of tin.
