

1942 TOURIST OUTLOOK HIGH SAYS REYNOLDS

Next year's tourist crop will be good, in the opinion of tourist agencies in California and Arizona, it was reported by Earl Reynolds, chamber of commerce secretary, on his return from a trip into those states.

Reynolds said that tourist travel was generally good in the past summer, and many travel agencies expected it to be better yet next year.

"Maybe papa will be so busy he won't have much time to travel, but mama and the children will do more of it than ever, if these people have the right slant," said the chamber official.

While in Los Angeles, Reynolds experienced his first earthquake.

He was sitting at a table at the time, and across from him was Tom Cuning, former Klamath man.

"I asked Tom why he was shaking the table," said Reynolds.

The quake caused no serious damage in Los Angeles, but was reported to have resulted in considerable loss in nearby oil fields.

Reynolds attended a meeting of the National Reclamation association at Phoenix. On his way home he stopped at various tourist and travel agencies, leaving Klamath literature and making contacts in behalf of tourist travel here.

American Leaning Toward War Hit By Axis Leaders

ed it with enthusiastic headlines, but authoritative circles, while smiling with satisfaction, left official British reaction to Prime Minister Churchill.

"Still slowly perhaps, but inexorably, the United States moves toward war," the Evening Star commented, declaring the speech amounted to "a tremendous offensive against Hitler."

This part of the speech was described by Berlin sources as "the climax of Roosevelt fantasy and the emanation of hallucinations which are as bad as they are absurd."

The "secret map" which Roosevelt said had come into his possession showing Germany's plans with regard to South America they called "a complete swindle and forgery," and challenged him to say "where he got it and why he kept it so long."

DOG FILM ACTOR VISITS KLAMATH

A visitor at The Herald and News office Monday was Rinlo, a beautiful German shepherd dog that "knows all the answers."

Rinlo was presented on the platform at Klamath Union high school assembly Tuesday morning. It was his first public appearance in Klamath Falls, but his father, Rinlo I, was here in the late twenties for the opening of the Pelican theatre.

Rinlo I took the place of Rin Tin Tin in the movies. His son, the Rinlo who is here with his master, Verne Browning, was called Junior until the death of the elder Rinlo. He still will answer to the name "Junior."

Rinlo II has played in pictures. He was featured in the technicolor film, "Heart of the North."

In the lobby of The News and Herald office the big dog strutted a little of his stuff. He limped, prayed, bowed, preened himself and did many other stunts at the command of his master.

Rinlo has been trained through kindness, Browning said. The dog consumes a pound and a half of raw meat every day, and has never been sick.

AID TO DEFEAT NAZIS PLEDGED BY PRESIDENT

mitting acts of any industrial or labor leaders to interfere with it.

Mr. Roosevelt said the United States was pledged to help crush Hitlerism and that this country would assist in drawing up a peace to make a better world.

U. S. Won't Retreat

He charged Germany had initiated a movement of world conquest and that the U-boat attack upon the U. S. destroyer Kearny was an attack on all America. It was intended, he said, to force the United States to make a "trembling retreat off the high seas."

"We have wished to avoid shootings," he said, "but the shooting has started."

In the face of this "newest and greatest challenge," the president said, "we Americans have cleared our decks and taken our battle stations."

The president was supremely confident of Hitler's ultimate defeat.

"The forward march of Hitlerism can be stopped—and will be stopped," he declared. "Very simply and very bluntly—we are pledged to pull our own oar in the destruction of Hitlerism."

The speech, broadcast nationally and to the world, highlighted a nationwide celebration of Navy day. It was delivered after a banquet at the Mayflower hotel at which high army and navy leaders spoke.

In his speech the president: Reaffirmed freedom of the seas as a fundamental policy of this government.

Revealed he has in his possession a secret German map of the "new order" under which South America would be divided into five vassal states, embracing the Panama canal, under nazi domination.

Disclosed he had another document prepared by Hitler's government under which all existing religions would be destroyed in a nazi-dominated world and an international nazi church would be set up to substitute the God of blood and iron from the God of love and mercy.

Without specifically mentioning U. S.-to-Europe convoys, said American naval vessels would protect this country's merchant ships carrying war aid to Hitler foes—a freedom the merchantmen will have when and if congress revises the neutrality act.

Endorsed proposed repeal of other "hamstringing" provisions of the neutrality law to permit arming of merchant ships and to allow them to transit combat areas.

Asserted the navy is ready for action; units of the Atlantic patrol already are in action and the new army steadily is developing strength needed to withstand aggressors.

Said the United States would not take U-boat attacks on U. S. naval and merchant shipping "lying down" and declared the "shoot first" orders which he gave to the fleet on September 11 are in full force.

Warned the government will not permit the total defense program to be menaced by "selfish obstruction" of a "small but dangerous" minority of industrial managers and labor leaders.

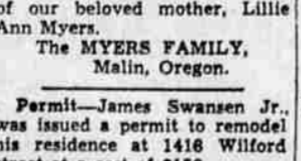

Praised Russia's gallant defense against Germany and pledged that increased help will be given the soviet armies by the United States and Great Britain.

and a half miles north of the city, was asked to report his information to the office of District Attorney L. Orth Sisemore.

On Saturday afternoon, Miss Russell was shopping downtown with her mother, Mrs. Katie Russell, 341 Mt. Pitt street in Ship-pington. She separated from her mother and started to walk home about 2:30 p. m. At 3 p. m., she was discovered lying beside the highway at Wocus, and state police were notified by a passing motorist who called from a service station.

When found, the girl was lying with her garments askew and her skirt missing. Later, it was found three quarters of a mile north on the highway.

A motorist informed the investigators that he had seen a car on the highway with a piece of cloth, apparently the skirt, flapping from a front door. This leads to the possible theory that the skirt was torn from the girl when she went out of the car.

Officers said Miss Russell is a girl of quiet disposition and excellent character. She is a close friend of two girls living in Wocus, and it is possible she may have planned to visit them. In that case, officers believe, she must have accepted a ride with some one with whom she was acquainted.

If she rode to Wocus, the car had passed the homes of the girls she intended to visit when she left the machine to tumble, injured, to the side of the highway.

Several motorists have reported seeing cars careening or moving rapidly on the highway, but the best clue came from the man who saw the flapping skirt, the authorities said.

ing a reserve army far to the rear in eastern Siberia, said a dispatch today from the Trans-baikal military district.

These reserve troops are being taught under war conditions how to fight their way out of encirclements, meet psychological attacks, destroy parachutists and cooperate with tanks — in short how to meet all the special problems of the war with the Germans.

In other respects, too, the Russian rear is being prepared to prosecute the war.

Anniversary of Mooseheart City Observed Here

Monday, October 27, was officially designated as Mooseheart day, and Mildred Wilkinson, senior regent of the local chapter of Women of the Moose, announced that the chapter had made plans for an outstanding celebration this week.

Mooseheart day, in addition to commemorating the establishment of Mooseheart, the world's most famous "child city," also celebrates the birthday of Mooseheart's founder and builder, Honorable James J. Davis, United States senior senator from Pennsylvania.

Senator Davis, who holds the distinction of having served as secretary of labor during the terms of three presidents, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge, and Herbert Hoover, is also director general of the Loyal Order of Moose and Pilgrim Governor of the Women of the Moose.

The Mooseheart day program is in charge of the Mooseheart alumni committee of which Esther Stanley is chairman. This committee has carefully developed a program designed to interest and appeal not only to outsiders invited to the meeting, but also to those already familiar with this "city of childhood," and the fascinating story surrounding its origin and development.

Another project, one in which the Women of the Moose take special pride, is Mooseheart's scientific laboratory of child research, sponsored and maintained by the chapters of the Women of the Moose, and with which the chapters correlate their program of child care and training study courses.

Chairman Esther Stanley is in charge of chapter night program. A cordial invitation to attend this celebration is extended by the chapter to the men of the Moose lodge.

Bailey's action came as President Roosevelt confronted John L. Lewis with a virtual ultimatum for a speedy end to the Captive coal mine strike.

Heavy fines and imprisonment would be imposed on leaders and participants in strikes, under Bailey's proposal.

At the same time, Senator Byrd (D-Va.) told the senate that the president could end strikes in defense industries by taking "firm measures." Moreover, Byrd said, it ought to be obvious to anyone that congress could do nothing about the work stoppages until the administration put its weight behind corrective measures.

Underscoring his third appeal to the CIO mine chief to call off the strike, Mr. Roosevelt declared in his Navy Day speech last night that "Our nation will and must speak from every assembly line—yes, from every coal mine—in our vast industrial machine."

HE seems to elaborate the same idea in these words: "Hitler can be stopped and be compelled to dig in, and that will be the beginning of his downfall, because dictatorship of the Hitler type can live only through continuing victories—increasing conquest."

That, if one chooses, can be read to mean that joining physically with Britain and Russia for the defeat and destruction of Hitler by dispatching expeditionary armies to Europe will not be necessary—that STOPPING Hitler will put an end to him.

tion and specific requirements were omitted the answer would be yes. But he said probably there were ten ideas of specific methods that might have to be considered and not just two.

The chief executive said he had not yet received any reply from Lewis to his third appeal to end the mine strike. He would not say what he considered a reasonable time for a reply to be forthcoming nor would he make any general statement on the Captive mine situation or demands in congress for legislative action.

Lewis and Myron C. Taylor, retired chairman of the United States Steel corporation, are to meet tomorrow to discuss the coal dispute.

Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) proposed in the senate today an amendment to the pending armed ship bill which would bring labor strikes within the category of sabotage when their intent was to retard defense production.

THIRD SUIT FILED IN ALGOMA FLOOD

A third suit in the now-famous Algoma flood situation was filed in circuit court this week.

John, William G. and Hazel Hagelstein brought the action, seeking a total of $73,131.25 from the California Oregon Power company, Southern Pacific company, and various employees and agents of those companies.

The alleged damages are asked because of asserted losses to land, equipment, etc., in the flooding of a large area in the Algoma valley in May, 1940.

Water still stands on most of the land flooded when a dike broke at that time.

Attorney for the plaintiffs is J. H. Carnahan.
