

ULTIMATUM IN WEED STRIKE WEIGHED HERE

Basin district council of the LSW.

J. W. White, manager of the Long-Bell Weed operation, said that he had heard nothing of a deadline but stated that he had heard indirectly that a mass walkout in other mills would be staged. He said that the company was willing at any time to meet with a union committee and discuss wage demands but that the firm did not subscribe to the union shop principle asked by strikers. White asserted that the company could not agree to the wage scale requested.

Workers went out on strike on October 20 following a breakdown in negotiations toward a collective bargaining agreement.

Bullet Wounds School Girl At Chiloquin

saw her drop to the ground. They saw blood oozing from her right side and carried her to a neighbor's house where help was summoned. The shooting is thought to have occurred shortly after 4:30 o'clock.

At a late hour Friday the girl's condition was said to be fair. It is understood she will be moved to a specialist in either Portland or San Francisco where a second attempt will be made to remove the bullet.

Chiloquin officers, investigating the case, said no arrests had been made. Earl Albert, the girl's father, said officers thought the bullet came from a .22 rifle which a number of small boys were using nearby. The boys were also classmates of Paula.

X-rays taken late Thursday night prior to the operation showed the location of the bullet which plowed through the girl's body from just above the right hip. Paula is the niece of Lola Lee Albert of this city, secretary to Chief of Police Frank Hamm.

SALVATION ARMY TAG DAY SLATED

To help complete the Salvation Army campaign for funds, a tag day will be conducted Saturday by the girls of Klamath Union high school SOS club. Forty will participate.

They will appear in public places all day Saturday, suitably identified and with containers to receive donations.

"This is a direct contribution to community service by the girls of the high school," said Major Norman Bowyer. The girls will work under direction of Mrs. Howard, the dean of girls, and William Craster, director of tag day.

Object of tag day, he said, is to give everyone who has not been contacted by the general canvass an opportunity for contributing.

Missing Plane Believed Heard By Hunter

McMINNVILLE, Ore., Nov. 7 (AP)—A report that a plane apparently in trouble might have landed in the heavily wooded and mountainous Meadow lake district 12 miles west of here, spurred search today for a craft missing since Oct. 25.

Frank McKenna, 36, Detroit and Glendale, Calif., manufacturer, and his pilot, Elmer Jeffries, 29, Bakersfield, Calif., took off from Eugene for Seattle on that date and have been unreported since.

C. V. Bell, aviation instructor at Benson polytechnic school, Portland, reported that he heard a plane circling overhead, apparently seeking a landing place, while he was hunting in the Lee creek vicinity on Oct. 25.

He concluded that the plane was down in the country near the headwaters of the Nestucca river.

A reward of $1000 has been offered for the missing airmen.

One residence was authorized by the building inspector's office this week when a permit for $3000 was issued to Harry Roman. The residence will be constructed on lot 658, block 118, Mills addition.

Mrs. Lura Cummings obtained a permit to remodel a residence at 2222 Orchard avenue, $50.

Walt Meets Nora Lou

Radio Stars Entertain at Grocermen's Dinner Here

Unique entertainment featuring famed radio singer Nora Lou, her Pals of the Golden West and Cousin Elmore followed a sumptuous dinner given grocermen of the Klamath Falls area at the Willard hotel Thursday evening by Closset and Devers, roasters of Golden West coffee.

It was the sixteenth anniversary of Closset and Devers, and the Klamath dinner was one of a series of similar events being held over Oregon. Nearly 90 attended and at the close a huge birthday cake was cut.

Mac Wilkins of the advertising firm of Mac Wilkins and Cole presided as toastmaster, introduced all of the guests and called for the special entertainment provided by radio figures in person.

Cousin Elmore, familiar to radio fans, brought down the house with his campaign speech as a "candidate" for governor. Nora Lou and the Pals of the Golden West then took over on the stage, and local grocers and their wives were called to the platform. A demonstration of a radio program production followed, and a transcription was made of the entire performance.

Jess Digman, sales manager of Closset and Devers, spoke briefly, and Jim Digman, in charge of blending, gave a demonstration of how Golden West flavor is created. Billy Walker, southern Oregon representative of the firm, assisted.

Those present in addition to the firm representatives were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Medford, Mrs. Gus Vlahos, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence K. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice G. Sherman Jr., and Mrs. Roy Carter, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Book of Sprague River, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Matt, Orville Fisher Jr., Mary Parks, E. E. Albrecht, H. A. STALIN DECLARES HITLER SLIPPING is no doubt that Germany cannot sustain such a strain for any long time. Another few months, another half-year, one year maybe and Hitlerite Germany must burst under the weight of her own crimes."

This was Stalin's second speech within two days in connection with the anniversary of the revolution.

(The London listening post of Tass, official Russian news agency, issued today a "complete and authentic" transcript of the passage in yesterday's speech in which the Russian leader spoke of the need of a second front in the battle with Germany. The original reception had been unclear and incomplete on that part.

"There is no doubt that the absence of a second front in Europe against the Germans considerably eases the position of the German army," said the completed version. "But there also can not be any doubt that the appearance of a second front on the continent of Europe—and such a front unquestionably must appear in the near future—will essentially ease the position of our armies and be to the disadvantage of the Germans".

Smith Held for Grand Jury in Russell Case

Medford where he identified Smith as the man he saw the afternoon of October 25 near his home.

Dr. Warren Hunt was called and told of Miss Russell's injuries at the time she was admitted to Klamath Valley hospital. He said, under cross examination, that "to my knowledge the girl was not criminally assaulted."

Arthur Larsen, Ward's ambulance driver, testified as to picking up the girl on the highway.

First to be called to the stand was Esper Claris Highley, 3543 Summers lane, who told the court he found the girl lying on the right hand side of highway 97, "her clothes stripped and torn." Miss Russell was some three-quarters of a mile north, past the "Wishing Well" at Wocous and two or three feet off the pavement on the shoulder.

Highley said he and two others in the car were "going about 40" to the camp where they were engaged in woodcutting. They noticed several cars pass them and then a fourth car going by at a high rate of speed. The machine disappeared around a bend in the road and within a few moments they noticed the girl. No other cars passed going the other way, Highley stated. He stopped the car and spoke to Miss Russell.

The girl raised her head and motioned up the highway, Highley testified, and attempted to cover herself. He described the condition of her clothing and said he stopped a motorist and asked them to send the sheriff or an ambulance. Later, when Ward's ambulance arrived and took the girl into town, between "2:30 and 2:45," he stayed at the spot where she was picked up and then went to camp.

The small justice court was filled to capacity with standing room only in the hallway of the courthouse basement. As the hearing got underway, a small dark woman, later identified as Ann Smith, wife of the defendant, took a chair in the front of the room. She was accompanied to the courthouse by her husband's brother, Ted Smith, of San Francisco.

Mrs. Smith was hatless, and she wore a light beige wool coat and plaid skirt. She carried a large brown leather bag.

Her husband, visibly nervous as the hearing continued, was garbed in a white shirt under a brown crew-neck sweater, brown trousers and shoes. He was seated with his attorney, Otto Frohnmayer of Medford, and Assistant Counsel D. E. Van Vector of Klamath Falls. Smith's two young children remained in Medford.

Portland Meat Strike Continues

PORTLAND, Nov. 7 (AP)—The tie-up of 13 Portland meat markets continued today as the AFL Meatcutters' union awaited its Monday meeting to consider an arbitration offer by the Oregon meat council.

Meade Hadley, council secretary, said the employers were willing to submit the wage issue to a neutral individual. The union asks $47.50 for a 48-hour week. Hadley said employers had offered $44.

UNION BOYCOTT ON TOURIST CAMP JOB

Bratton's Tourist Cottages, tourist cabin enterprise at 2045 Oregon avenue, was apparently cut off from purchasing grocery, bottled goods and other supplies handled by union labor in Klamath Falls Friday in the latest development of a three-week-old Building Trades council dispute.

According to several local wholesale merchant sources, the Trades council, an AFL organization including the Teamsters' union, has notified all firms hiring union labor that they may not sell or deliver merchandise to the Bratton concern. The alternative, it was reported, will be a walkout of the firm's union employees.

The ban prohibits the tourist hotel management from transporting its own merchandise even though it may be purchased at supply house doors as well as halting union truck drivers from delivering goods to the cabins.

The notification was confirmed Friday by union officials who said that under a ruling of the supreme court of the United States, the action is classed as a secondary boycott and entirely legal.

The dispute arose last month over the construction of a new settlement of tourist cabins on Highway 66 south of the city and north of the Weed highway junction. The building is being done by P. L. Kemp, a Klamath builder, for Willard T. Mann, operator of Bratton's.

Shortly after the project was started, Kemp was declared unfair by the BTC for allegedly hiring non-union labor and pickets placed before the construction site as well as in front of Bratton's on Oregon avenue.

Mann declined to comment Friday on the union action. Kemp could not be reached for a statement.

Unionists said that no negotiations had yet taken place toward a settlement of the issue since the squabble began.

Farmer Protests Dairy Farm Price Omits Temperament

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 7 (AP) Behind the placid expression of the reputedly contented cow, Farmer Edward Castle informed the government, beats the heart of a temperamental pastoral queen.

The farmer insisted at a government hearing yesterday that assessors overlooked the fretful bovine nature completely in setting a value of only $14,000 on the dairy ranch he rents. Uncle Sam wants the farm for Fort Lewis expansion.

Farmer Castle and Landlord H. L. Wolf are seeking double the figure.

The dairyman testified that moving his 93-cow herd would be a serious matter. It was sure to bring a slowdown on the production line.

"When a cow is moved to a new farm at this time of year," Castle expostulated, "she'll give a quarter less milk until things seem the same again."

Death Caused By Elevator, Says Coroner

A desperate struggle with a freight elevator apparently led to the death of Lewis Fife, 58-year-old Lorenz company night-watcherman, according to Dr. George Harold Adler, Klamath county coroner.

Dr. Adler conducted an autopsy on the body of the elderly nightwatchman and reported he died of extensive abdominal hemorrhages. Mr. Fife's body was found early Wednesday, lying on an alley floor in the large wholesale house on South Sixth street.

Accident Described

The coroner stated that Mr. Fife, who was working his fourth night and apparently was unfamiliar with the elevator, must have gotten on top of the cage instead of inside of it when it was stopped on a floor below him. Resin on his shoes and clothing checked with resin found on top of the cage.

Reconstructing the accident, the coroner said Mr. Fife apparently started the elevator upward by pulling a cable. He was partially crushed between the car and the ceiling of the shaft, but evidently got the elevator reversed. He then crawled from the elevator for about 50 feet, possibly hoping to call for help. He died before he could reach a telephone.

EXPENSIVE JOB MILWAUKEE, (AP)—

When Wisconsin's Governor Hell, whose $6000 state salary is augmented by his income as president of a large manufacturing company, donated $250 to the rescue mission, he was told the mission building needed a new $400 sign.

"Send the bill to me," Hell said. "It costs a man $25,000 a year to be governor but after all you can't take it with you."

NEW ASSAULTS ON LENINGRAD FAIL, REPORT

Ankara said Great Britain was steadily increasing her military strength in Iran (Persia), bordering the Russian Caucasus, with a stream of fresh troops drawn from the empire and American-made tanks and planes.

It seemed a fair assumption that when—and if—the Germans strike into the Caucasus, either across the narrow Kerch strait from the Crimea or from Rostov-on-Don in the north, British troops will move north through Iran and the lower Caucasus to meet them.

Winter Weather

German military commentators acknowledged that the German offensive against Moscow had been stopped by weather conditions which prevented any large-scale operations—particularly a direct assault on the USSR capital.

Soviet dispatches from the northern front said the Germans had attempted in vain to regain the initiative before Leningrad, with heavy losses on both sides. Actual capture of the city, under siege for many weeks, was declared out of the question without strong reinforcements.

In London, Prime Minister Winston Churchill's war strategists were reported to be studying the possibility of opening a new British fighting front, as urged yesterday by Premier Stalin.
