

QUICK ACTION BY HOUSE DUE IN NEXT WEEK

changes of compliments between opposition leaders at the end. The ballot on passage was completed at 9:22 p. m. after the administration forces had demonstrated their superior strength on several previous tests.

The vote on passage found 43 democrats, six republicans and one independent aligned for the legislation and 15 democrats, 21 republicans and one progressive against.

Opposition Blocked
Supporters of the president's foreign policy bowed over, one after another, opposition attempts to limit the measure to ship arming; to arm ships and permit them to enter any belligerent ports not surrounded by combat zones; to repeal the law completely.

The house originally passed legislation limited to lifting the neutrality act prohibition against placing guns on merchant ships. The broader senate measure, allowing armed ships to enter now-forbidden belligerent ports and combat areas, thus must be considered by the house.

House debate was set to start Wednesday, and although the rules in that chamber would permit the leadership to limit debate to an hour it was indicated that at least one or two full days' discussion would be granted.

Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of the house foreign affairs committee predicted to reporters the house would approve the senate measure by a majority of from 75 to 100. Some more conservative administration estimates placed the majority between 50 and 60.

On the other hand, Representative Fish (R-N.Y.), ranking minority member of the foreign affairs group, said that he would not concede the administration "anything at all" on the house vote. However, he made no prediction of the possible vote.

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—German spokesmen said today the United States senate vote to arm merchant vessels "caused no surprise here" but added that "the narrow margin by which a majority was won does not look like a big victory."

Reports from London that a continental conference would be held soon at Vienna to announce a new order in Europe were termed nonsense by the spokesmen.

Editorial Rights Upheld by NLRB In Labor Inquiry

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 8 (AP)—The right of a newspaper editor to deliver his opinion of any labor leaders in an editorial was held to be unchallengeable yesterday by James C. Batten, national labor relations board examiner hearing charges that the Birmingham Post engaged in unfair labor practices.

Batten ruled that any editorial attitude of the Post could not be construed as unfair to the American Newspaper Guild (CIO).

The remark came when James E. Mills, Post editor, was being questioned by Thomas J. Edwards, counsel for the paper, as to whether Mills ever had said anything derogatory about the guild and its leaders or any other labor leaders.

Without hesitation, Mills answered: "I might have in editorials written things that could be construed as derogatory—, but before he could complete his answer, Batten declared "that is a right that can not be questioned here."

The newspaper, a Scripps-Howard afternoon daily, suspended publication Sept. 6 following a strike of guild members in connection with demands for a guild shop and varying salary increases.

had been left on the shore. The sack had been slit open by the trapper. The men raised the body. Grottesque arms and a naked torso appeared. Adler bent closer for an examination. The body was headless and hairless.

"Why, it's a bear," exclaimed Adler. He admitted the skinned animal's body looked almost like that of a human and fooled him momentarily. He explained that apparently the bear had been killed out of season and had been hidden in the lake to erase evidence. The hind quarters were gone.

Deputy Sheriff Mattoon took the final ribbing. The "body" was towed to shore. The rest of the group informed Mattoon it was an ex-deputy sheriff.

France, particularly at Marseille. Besides the 30 arrested yesterday, five had been arrested previously at Nice.

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—DNB reported today from Bucharest the execution of six persons charged with possessing explosives and preparing to commit acts of sabotage "on soviet orders."

An official announcement quoted by the German news agency said that the six—five of whom were described as Jews—had arrived in Rumania November 2 as "enemy agents."

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—Reliable quarters said today that the Rev. Bernhard Lichtenberg, provost (dean) of Berlin's Roman Catholic cathedral, St. Hedwig's, had been arrested by nazi authorities, accused, among other charges, of offering prayers for Jews.

Intensive nazi measures against Jews have been renewed recently and tens of thousands are being transported east. The elderly provost was known to have been called to German secret police headquarters previously. That occasion was last summer when he was questioned about sermons he delivered in support of criticism which the Rev. Count Clemens August von Galen, Roman Catholic bishop of Muenster, directed against the nazis and the gestapo in particular last July.

came as the climax of a sustained drive which carried the Grizzlies to the Medford six-inch line.

Pushed back to the 11, Jandreau faded back and tossed an aerial to Provost who stepped over.

Medford, without the services of fleet Cliff Jones but for a brief period in the second quarter, was unable to cope with Jandreau's short, flat passes which were continually good for sizeable gains. The passes of Cato Wray, ace Tiger tesser, were hitting their marks but were being dropped by Medford receivers.

The loss almost drops Medford from the state title consideration and leaves The Dalles as the only undefeated team in Oregon.

tiredly in the hands of the president."

Whitney said the strike would be called at 1:45 p. m., EST, December 5, "exactly 30 days to the minute from the time the board handed its report to the president."

While the railway strike threat loomed large, other labor disputes attracted wide attention.

Harry Bennett, Ford Motor company personnel director, charged last night that officials of the CIO United Automobile Workers failed to discipline union members who, he said, caused illegal work stoppages. He also said 15 machines were sabotaged during a shutdown, caused by wage disputes, in two plants at River Rouge, near Detroit. The disputes threw 25,000 workers into idleness.

From the west coast came word that unless striking AFL building trades workers go back to their jobs Monday on $10,500,000 in defense projects at three military establishments in the San Diego area, the navy would take over.

Work stopped Monday on a destroyer base graving dock. The navy said it was brought about by a jurisdictional dispute. Workers later left their jobs at the naval training station, and also at Camp Elliott, where marines are stationed, asking a 12 1/2 per cent increase over a rate of 75 cents an hour for laborers and $1.37 1/2 for electricians. There were 1500 men idle.

Roosevelt Asks Teamsters Union To End Strike

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt repeated his request today that members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters on strike in Detroit return to work within 48 hours pending consideration of their dispute with the Railway Express agency by a presidential emergency board.

Replying to a telegram from Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters, in which Tobin said 48 hours was insufficient time for him to place a request before his general executive board, Mr. Roosevelt said in a telegram made public by the White House:

"This will acknowledge your telegram of yesterday in response to mine requesting that you order remaining vehicle employees of the Railway Express agency in Detroit back to work within 48 hours. I have fully considered your answer and reiterate my request."

At Indianapolis, Tobin said of the president's second appeal: "I am under direction of the (executive) board and can not submit the request by telephone. The board members are scattered over the country and I'll have to send telegrams."

ROTARIAN SERVICE LAUDED BY LEADER

"The world needs the moral offering of Rotarians," it was asserted here Friday by Dick Dowery, governor of the 101st district of Rotary International.

Dowery spoke to members of the Klamath Rotary club at their regular meeting in the Willard hotel. He is currently on a speaking tour of Rotary organizations throughout the district which is comprised of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, British Columbia and Alaska.

Citing the beginnings of Rotary and its early purposes when the idea was conceived in 1905, Dowery called attention to the four-way plan of the organization which asks club, vocational, community and international service.

"We must start giving before we can hope to get," the governor said. Rotarians should give their best to the club, he stated, should follow out the idea of vocational service as business men, carry out Rotary community ideals in civic life, and attempt to understand international problems and the attitude of other nations.

"The comprehensive Rotary program affords an unlimited field for service activity," Dowery said. Touching on national defense, the British Columbian called Klamath Rotarians' attention to the vast field it opened for the carrying out of the organization's aims.

weather, including severe icing and thunderstorms.

The largest number of British planes ever reported officially to have participated in an attack on Germany was 300 one night last August. The British said that the Germans, in their big night raid on London last May 10, used 400 planes and lost 33.

Brindisi Bombed
In the coordinated attack by British air forces of the Middle East, Italy's big Adriatic port of Brindisi also was bombed for hours in an attack comparable to the five-hour battering given to Naples on October 21.

The Italian high command said serious damage was done as the British dropped explosives and incendiaries by the hundreds.

Besides Berlin, bombed for the 53rd time since the war began, the air ministry said Cologne and Mannheim were the chief targets "for operations in the heaviest scale by the bomber command."

winds. Floods also were bothering them. Russian sources, how ever, said the Germans could not remain through the winter at the point where they have halted and face a choice between a desperate new attack or retreat.

The Russians were making stands before Sevastopol and Kerch in the Crimea, and military observers here declared that as long as soviet forces were entrenched at those two points, Germany's costly invasion of the peninsula would be of little benefit either as a road to the Caucasus or as a base for control of the Black sea.

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—The German high command announced today that the nazi armies in the Crimea had smashed through a Russian defensive zone about six miles deep on the narrow peninsula leading to Kerch and were continuing to advance toward that port.

The high command made no direct mention of operations around the big Crimean naval base of Sevastopol, on the southwest coast, where German troops previously had been reported hammering at strong Russian fortified positions.

The war bulletin declared, however, that the nazi air force was continuing to blast at transports which the Russians were said to have assembled off the Crimean coast to facilitate a possible troop withdrawal by sea.

The navy will keep university flight training units intact during training to enable friends to be together.

It appeared that the lines before Moscow were fluid, swaying almost from hour to hour as the two powerful armies applied and relaxed pressure.

The British radio broadcast a prediction today that the German high command "will undertake in the near future a new assault on Moscow in a new sector," without saying where it was likely to be.

The announcer did say, however, that it was reported that German troops were being transported southwards from Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of Moscow, where heavy fighting has been under way for weeks.

The Moscow radio said that German casualties around Leningrad had amounted to 260,000 during October alone.

In the Rostov area along the Black sea coast, the nazis were said to have dug in temporarily in the teeth of sleet and ice.
