Entertains—Mrs. Parker Dyer of Klamath Falls entertained a group of friends and relatives at dinner on Sunday afternoon. Cards followed. Present were all of their children and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Brown and small son of Tionesta, Mr. Underhill, an old friend from California, and Mrs. Dyer's brother, J. M. Grayball and Mrs. Grayball of Merrill.

Go to Livestock Show—G. C. Harriman, general manager of the Meadowmoor dairy at Wenatchee, and E. M. Raymond, owner of the Raymond dairy here, left Tuesday for San Francisco to attend the Pacific Slope Dairy association meeting and livestock show. They were accompanied by Mrs. Harriman and Mrs. Raymond.

Circle—Members of Circle No. 6 of the First Methodist church, with Mrs. O. R. Kluth as chairman, will meet at the home of Mrs. Cervinka, 122 Hillside avenue, for 1:30 o'clock dinner on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. P. M. Deller will be co-hostess.

Correction—In a story on the Modoc area council meeting, appearing in Monday's Herald, it was stated the Klamath basin quota for the Boy Scout budget would be $500. That figure should read $4500.

Summers PTA—There will be a regular meeting of Summers PTA Wednesday, November 12, at 2:30 p. m. in the school cafeteria. Mothers are urged to attend.

Guests at Eugene—Betty Sparks was a guest at the Alpha Gamma sorority house at the University of Oregon in Eugene over the past weekend.

Benefit Dance Set For Dorris Hall Saturday Night

The annual benefit dance for the Dorris grammar school will be put on Saturday night, November 15 in the Dorris city hall. Dancing will continue from 10 p. m. to 3 a. m.

Each year the dance committee puts on a "hot soup" program during the winter months. Profits from the dance will go into the buying of movie equipment for the school. With the camera they hope to take pictures of educational doings for scholastic work in the school.

PTA Presents Program at Dorris

DORRIS—The Dorris grammar school PTA gave a program after its business meeting last week. Among those who presented the program were Dolle Dennis, Barbara Anderson, Dale Street and Dale Wonder, Mrs. Glover and Cleo Esbenshade, a group of sophomore students from the high school, Marie Jordan and Miss Beckman, Ruthie Latham, Joy Motschenbacher, Shirley Skeen, Jackie Glover and Jennie Rigo.

Bonanza

The Bonanza PTA announced a benefit card party for the high school gym on Monday evening, November 10.

The home demonstration unit will have their meeting Tuesday on "Keeping Our Balance in a World of Propaganda" at the Bonanza library. Those attending should bring a paper sack lunch.

The home nursing class that meets every Thursday evening at the science room at the high school is being attended by an ever increasing number of women. Last Thursday there were 23 at the class when there was a demonstration on the making of beds with and without a patient.

A Halloween party at the school was much enjoyed by a large crowd. Although the town put in a rather noisy night after the party was over when those bent on mischief just could not persuade them selves that home was a good place for them, however, no serious damage was reported. A much older group spent a good part of the night tearing around doing mischief of a destructive nature.

Bonanza can now boast its one and only neon street sign. It appeared recently on the Big Spring service station after the place was taken over by its new operator, Don Schooler.

Junior Police Department Helps Halt Delinquencies

More than 200,000 boys and girls march through the doors of the juvenile courts of the United States every year. From this group of youthful offenders comes the rank and file of our adult criminals. Surely this is an appalling number, and yet it does not represent nearly the total number of youths who are haled before the law enforcement officers throughout the nation for their misdemeanors.

It was this fact, together with the rising tide of juvenile delinquency in Klamath county that prompted the Klamath Falls police department under the direction of Frank Hamm, chief of police, to promote and maintain an organization which would primarily foster good will and friendliness between the youths of this city and the police officer.

The groundwork for the promotion of this program had already been laid. A schoolboy patrol system in each of the seven city schools had been organized and was functioning smoothly and efficiently. A Junior police department was organized March, 1939, and had as its nucleus, 35 boys, five from each of the school patrols. The primary function of the junior police was the enforcement of the bicycle traffic ordinance. Each junior police officer was authorized to pick up any bicycle which was being ridden without a proper license. He was also authorized to cite any boy or girl into junior police traffic court for riding double, riding at night without a light or for failure to give the proper hand signals.

The efficient work of these boys with the cooperation of the senior department soon made the youth of the city realize that the proper riding of their bicycles was as important as the proper driving of an automobile, with the result that Klamath Falls showed an immediate decline in bicycle traffic accidents, and within six months after the junior police department was organized, Klamath Falls was ranked as one of the outstanding cities in the state of Oregon for its bicycle traffic safety program.

Since its inception and up to the present time, the junior police court has handled 312 bicycle cases. Some of these offenders have been warned and released while others have had their bicycles impounded for periods of from 3 to 21 days. The police department budgeted an annual amount for the operation of the junior police which was to furnish their uniforms and also provide them with a week's summer camp at Lake O' the Woods under competent supervision and free to all members.

The junior police officer pledges to honor God and his country, to obey his parents and at all times conduct himself as an officer and a gentleman. The motto of the junior police department is "better men from better boys."

The satisfying results shown by the organization of the junior police proved beyond a question of a doubt that the police department could be one of the leading agencies in the fight for the prevention of juvenile delinquency, and plans were immediately drawn up for the opening of a boys' clubroom.

This clubroom was to contain two pool tables, two ping pong tables and a well-lighted reading room. It was to be used by the youths of the city as a place where they could occupy their leisure time in good, clean healthful recreation and at the same time keep them off the streets and out of trouble.

The clubroom was opened April 15, 1940, and the civic organizations, merchants and businessmen of the city who had contributed financially towards its development, were well-repaid by the opening days' attendance alone. The clubroom is open from 4 to 9:30 p. m. each week day and the boys are supervised in their play and reading by a recreation leader furnished through the assistance of the Works Progress administration. The average daily attendance at the boys' clubroom has run well over 50 boys per day, and the records show that 91,000 boy hours have been spent in the clubroom since its opening.

Out of the growth of this program and the completion of some of the projects has come a better understanding and a new respect for the police officer on the part of the school children of this city and it is this attitude of friendliness and cooperation which acts as a decided deterrent in juvenile delinquency.

It is important to remember that the police department cannot do this work alone, and it is only through the unlimited cooperation of all organizations and agencies interested in the prevention of juvenile delinquency that any program of this kind can succeed, but the original and driving force can be supplied by the police department with very gratifying results.

DANCING SCHOOL PRESENTS RECITAL

SPRAGUE RIVER—A large crowd enjoyed a dance recital of Sprague River and Chiloquin students by the Darlene Wolff school of dancing in the school gymnasium last Friday, November 7.

A chunky young Mexican boy, Tony Unive, dressed in a Mexican cabillero outfit brought a good many laughs to the crowd by his clever announcements of the numbers. The complete program was as follows:

Old Mexican mask dance, Norma Lee Glenger and Darlene Wolff; hula maiden, Bonnie Mae Glenger; buck dance and waltz clog, Shirley and Norma Jean Clog; baby tap and nursery rhymes, Charlotte Passolt; tango exhibition, Dolores Cody and Darlene Wolff; rhumba exhibition, Virginia Goddard and Darlene Wolff; Mexican folk dance, Bonnie Mae Glenger and Joan Fuller; La Sundaing, Norma Lee Glenger, scarecrow dance, Charlotte Passolt; Samoan goad dance, Doris Ann Ethridge. Mexican national hat dance, Tony and Lupe Unive.

Charlotte Passolt, five-year-old Sprague River child brought cheers for her work in dramatizing nursery rhymes. Although a tiny tot her voice could be heard plainly over the hall.

All of the dancers were dressed in the clothing of the country originating the dance. This recital was the culmination of the work of the class, which has been practicing all summer.

Theta Rho Girls Perform Drill

LAKEVIEW—The Alpha Eta Theta Rho girls' club of Lakeview presented a drill for the local Odd Fellows at the Odd Fellows' hall in Lakeview Saturday evening, November 8. They were also guests at the banquet following the drill.

The club will sponsor an invitational dance Friday night, November 22.

In a democracy every man has a right to his own beliefs—and a right to convince others, if he can, by lawful and peaceful means, to agree with him. So our newspapers arm us first with many facts, second with a variety of opinions. Upon these

FACT

This newspaper prints many facts. You may or may not LIKE the particular facts it prints, but your newspaper must report, as accurately as it can, exactly what happens. For instance, a rainy week end may spoil a city man's picnic but save a farmer's crops. The paper may report the FACT of rain from either the farmer's viewpoint or the city man's. The FACT doesn't change—it DID rain.

OPINION

Suppose the weather experts predict fair weather tomorrow. That is OPINION. Not fact. But you want opinions, as well as facts. Or suppose some scientist PREDICTS that chemistry will replace farming and we'll take pills instead of eating beefsteak. That is HIS OPINION; right or wrong, you are entitled to hear it. The editor has opinions—everyone who thinks does—and everyone in America has the right and perhaps the duty to express sincere opinions and beliefs. Your newspaper is pretty careful to tell you the WHO, the WHERE and the WHY of the opinions it print.

facts and opinions are based the actions of many groups, sects, political parties, merchants and manufacturers, as well as individuals. And yet you... one single American citizen, have the precious right to make up your own mind—with all the evidence and the argument spread out before you in newspapers that are free from censorship and government control.

SCHOOL NEWS OF DORRIS REPORTED

DORRIS—The Girls' Athletic association of Butte Valley high school staged a "Saddle Hawkins" party in the high school gymnasium for Halloween. Games were played during the early part of the evening, then dancing was enjoyed to a late hour. Many who were present were in costumes appropriate for the occasion.

Tuesday the school was closed and during the week of November 17 to 21 it will again be closed for teachers' institute and the Thanksgiving holiday. All the teachers will attend the institute in Sacramento on November 17, 18 and 19.

Principal Paul Goodwin and Coach Beck attended a principals' and teachers' meeting at Alturas Saturday. The guest speaker for that evening was Dr. Aubrey Douglass, chief division secondary education, state department of education.
