

WALLACE DISCUSSES SESSION PROPOSAL

Lew Wallace, Multnomah state senator and candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, was in Klamath Falls Friday to speak at a meeting of the sportsmen's association at the Willard hotel Friday night.

Senator Wallace said he has not actively started his campaign for the governorship nomination as yet, although he has completed his filing.

Discussing the proposed special session of the legislature, Senator Wallace said he would favor such a session after the holidays if it could correct the tax situation in Multnomah county and at the same time would assist in the solution of various up-state problems.

Burdens of Multnomah homeowners, Wallace said, have been greatly increased by the state tax commission's order increasing levies on homes in that county. A solution, he averred, could be found in the passage of a law classifying the property of the entire state, the benefits to be retroactive to January 1, 1942.

"The counties in the up-state also have their problems and unless there can be a well prepared and thought out program taking care of up-state difficulties as well as those of Multnomah county, it is very doubtful if a legislative session would meet with any substantial success," said Wallace.

Wallace came in on the morning train from Portland.

Thanksgiving Day Quiet in Klamath

Klamath residents observed Thanksgiving quietly with family dinners the focal point in hundreds of homes.

The day was not marred with serious accidents despite the heavy traffic on highways in this section of the state. Many students were home for the holidays for the first time since they left for schools in September.

An exceptionally good attendance was reported at the union Thanksgiving day service held in the First Presbyterian church by the Klamath Ministerial association.

Aged Indian Woman Gives Boost for Red Cross Work

From B. G. Courtright, superintendent of the Klamath Indian reservation, the Klamath chapter of the American Red Cross received the following letter:

Klamath Agency, Oregon.

"I overheard this conversation between an old grandmother, 86, and her granddaughter—both Indians:

"I know, Mary. We can't all give even a dollar to the Red Cross. But I taught you how to knit. And look at all that yarn going to waste I gave you! If you would only . . ."

"I don't want to knit any sweater. I get all tangled up."

"But you did pretty good on that little jacket for Johnny. You could if you tried."

"But look at all the sweaters everybody in Chiloquin and Klamath Falls is knitting. Everybody sending sweaters. Piles of them. What if I didn't make a sweater? Nobody would ever miss it. The Red Cross don't even know I'm alive."

"Listen, Mary. That ain't the way to look at it. Look. Suppose you don't make one little sweater. Suppose you don't. You know what?"

"What?"

"Some little baby just goes without, that's all. One little one, Mary. Just one goes without. See? Somewhere a little child is going to be cold, maybe freeze. Because, Mary, you didn't make just one sweater. Now, suppose you make a little sweater. Then, some little child somewhere you make warm; maybe you keep it alive even. One more! See, Mary? One more child is warm because you make it warm. You don't make a sweater—one goes cold. You make a sweater—one more little child is warm." A long pause.

"Mother."

"Yes . . . ?"

"I just never looked at it like that. One more . . . I'm going to make a lot of them!"

VITAMIN C AIDS AGAINST SYPHILIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Physicians reported today new evidence that ordinary vitamin C can help in the medical treatment of syphilis.

The vitamin C, or ascorbic acid, may solve the problem of bad reactions in persons especially sensitive to the anti-syphilis drugs derived from arsenic.

This was reported in the journal of the American Medical Association by Dr. Herman N. Bundeson, president of the Chicago board of health, and Drs. Hans S. S. Aron, Regina S. Greenbaum, Chester J. Farmer and Arthur F. Abt, all of Chicago.

The number of people sensitive to the arsenic drugs is still considerable, the reactions ranging from mild upsets to death.

The doctors found that the reactions apparently were due to the formation of poisonous matter when the drugs were exposed to oxygen in the blood.

Even when in contact with air, solutions of the drugs turn a brownish black as oxidation products are formed, but this oxidation was prevented for 48 hours when one part arsenic acid was added to three parts of the drug.

The doctors, after patch tests on 115 patients and other studies, concluded that the vitamin C promises to assist in preventing reactions to these anti-syphilis drugs in the great majority of patients.

Red Cross kits are being produced by the local chapter, American Red Cross, for Christmas distribution to the men in defense outposts as well as to hospitalized men of the army and navy. The kit and contents are on exhibit at 602 Main street, temporary headquarters for the Red Cross enrollment. Each kit contains a small notebook and envelopes, small diary, 1 pencil, 1 jackknife, 1 comb, 1 tube shaving cream, 1 deck cards, 1 housewife, 5 US postcards. The kit bags are similar to those which it has been the traditional custom of the Red Cross to give the men as a Christmas remembrance.

Oldest Member of Young Republican Clubs Soon 96

SALEM, Nov. 21 (AP)—William R. Simpson, Salem, who will be 96 years old in February, might become the oldest member of the state organization of Young Republican clubs, which ordinarily is limited to persons between 16 and 35 years of age.

Officials of the Marion county club said they would seek special dispensation to enroll Simpson, who is in "every respect a young party member," club officers said. Simpson rides his bicycle every day.

The first shipment will leave the local headquarters on December 1.

Mrs. L. D. Stephens had charge of temporary headquarters for Friday. Mrs. C. W. Rudd instructed a class in knitting in production room, armory building, during the afternoon.

Earl Redman, chairman of the local chapter, has called a meeting of the Red Cross board for Tuesday, November 23, at 4 p. m., at headquarters, armory building. All members are urged to be present.

Reports for each community, district and precinct are requested by Red Cross headquarters from all roll call captains by noon Saturday, November 22. The motor corps is available to assist in collections and conveying of materials to headquarters. Please call phone 8444 or 7184.

Union high school instructor, in the presentation of the Junior Red Cross radio program to be given Tuesday at 8:15 p. m. over KFJL. These twice-monthly radio broadcasts are under the direction of Dick Maguire.

The work of the Red Cross at Beatty barely escaped a setback when Jack Harrison's Sycan store burned Thursday. Mrs. Harrison, chairman of the roll call at Beatty, had left her collection in an envelope on her sewing machine. A neighbor, however, put the envelope in one of the drawers and carried the machine out of the building. Nearly everything else was destroyed.

Mrs. Dwight Davis, national chairman of volunteer workers, American Red Cross, Washington, D. C. says: "The volunteer is a person who has been allowed to choose how, not whether, he will serve his country."

Red Cross worker: "Have you any money for Red Cross roll call?"

Disabled World war vet: "I've always got money for the Red Cross." Thanks to "A. G. Fort Klamath."

An even greater membership is called for during Red Cross enrollment, November 11 to 30. Have you joined?
