BROAD DRAFT REGISTRATION EYED IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—The United States is studying broadening of selective service to register and classify all the able-bodied men and women in the nation for military and civilian defense, Brig. Gen. Louis B. Hershey said today.

The director of selective service said at a press conference it was the "number 1 project at this time" and added that of the 40,000,000 men in the nation, about 25 per cent could eventually be made available to the army and navy. He outlined the panorama his organization is viewing to mobilize the whole nation in its war against the axis powers.

"I don't visualize five or six million men marching off to war," Gen. Hershey said. "But we must try to be ready through a measured approach to the problem."

"There is something to be gained by registering and classifying a broad group of people."

"I believe there should be flexible authority (from congress) to be used piecemeal, presenting the people with a broad liability for registration and a narrower liability for service."

"We undoubtedly are soon going to consider the registration of women."

Christmas Lighting Plans To Go on As Scheduled

Junior chamber of commerce officials announced Thursday that the Christmas lighting program will proceed as planned, their decision following conferences with officials of the civilian defense here.

The junior chamber inquired if there was any defense reason why Christmas lights should not be installed out-of-doors and were told to go ahead with the program, it was stated.

So long as Klamath Falls generally is lighted at night, there is no reason why there should not be Christmas displays, it was stated. If there is a blackout, displays should be blacked along with all other lights.

"The defense officials said that a little cheer in a darkening world would be a good thing," said Howard Smith of the junior chamber. "We hope everybody in town will join in the spirit of the program, making sure, of course, that the lights can be turned off on a moment's notice, just as will be other lights."

CHASE APPOINTED DORRIS JUSTICE

DORRIS—Since the death of Justice of the Peace George Otto this past month, all legal cases have been temporarily handled by Justice of the Peace Eldon Darley of Macdoel. After five nominations had been presented to the county supervisors by various friends of each, the decision was made this week.

Lee Chase, who has the contract to carry the mail from the depot to the post office daily, also owns and operates the Ford service station at the corner of Butte and Fourth streets, also is a city councilman and president of the volunteer fire department, is the busy man who has been appointed by the supervisors. Mr. Chase has stated he will resign from his city councilman office and as president of the Dorris fire department. Announcement has not yet been made as to whom the city council has appointed in Mr. Chase's place.

NORTHWESTERN BLACKOUT HAS FUNNY ANGLES

By The Associated Press
An 18-year-old air raid warden was arrested and held on an open charge in Seattle early today after he fired four shots trying to extinguish a police traffic signal blinker. He missed.

Dr. Kiang Yi Seng, Chinese consul in Seattle, said Chinese nationals soon would be wearing red, white and blue identification buttons to distinguish them from Japanese.

When the government detains enemy aliens — Japanese, Germans and Italians — at the immigration station in Seattle, it is obligated to feed them.

And guess who's doing the cooking? Wilbur Wong, 23-year-old Chinese.

"I'd like to join the American army and fight the Japanese," Wong says. "But I'm under government contract to feed them, instead. The government wants me to make the best kind of meals, and that's what I'm trying to do."

An intoxicated pedestrian was being booked at the Seattle police station during the blackout early today.

"How much do you weigh?" asked the booking sergeant. "No place," was the reply. "Where do you live?" "One hundred and seventy pounds," came the befuddled answer.

And upstairs in the Seattle jail, prisoners were allowed cigarettes during the blackout—but no matches.

The war has silenced all church bells on Bainbridge island in Puget Sound. They will no longer toll to announce church services.

Albert Peters was held up and robbed of $30 near his hotel in Seattle by a man who said, "Lights out, Buddy. It's black out time." The man apparently had a revolver in his pocket.

PIG
SPOKANE, Wash., (AP)—Roy Kirchner just overlooked it when an occasional bottle of beer disappeared from his truck. But somebody with a man-size thirst sent him howling to police headquarters.

"This time," wailed Kirchner, "he took the whole load, truck and all!"
