Old Family Tree

Who was your great-great-grandfather? What was his name? You cannot say? You can't most of us. But here was a young girl who had a family tree that ran back two thousand years. It dated from the time of Christ back to Abraham, the father of her race. The Jewess Mary, was she. In her line we find King David who gave the national boundaries of Israel their widest spread and of whom God said: "A man after mine own heart."

When the fulness of time was come, God sent the angel Gabriel from heaven to tell Mary that she was to become a mother and that God would give her the royal Son the throne of his father, David. "He shall be great and shall be called the Lord of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of His father, David," said Gabriel. Hear Mary's question: "How shall this be since I know not a man?" The angel answered: "The Holy Spirit shall come upon thee and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee; therefore, that Holy Thing that shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."

So it was that Christ was born into this world. He was God on His Father's side and man on His mother's side and human, was Christ; truly God and truly human, was He; two distinct natures in One Person. And the Son of Man. He related Himself to humankind. As the Son of God He held His place as the Second Person of the Godhead.

He grew to manhood, died for our sins and ascended back to His place in glory, still one with us as the Son of Man. You see Him, the Son of God with His Glory restored and the Son of Man in a glorified body. So it is that when we call on Him in our woe and despair, we know that He feels for us. He was a Man of Sorrow and acquainted with grief. When we sin and ask His forgiveness, we know we have it, for He who knew no sin was born into this world to become sin for us.

May this Christmas become different for you. May you lay hold on Him as the Son of God slain for your sins. By that be saved. But more: May Christ become your satisfying portion. Look always to Him; feast on Him until you can truly say that He is still with you. May He be to you the Bread sent down from heaven; your Joy, Wisdom, Peace and Glory; the Power by whom you glorify God in every task. The Apostle could say: "I can do all things through Christ that strengtheneth me." Can you?

OREGON TELEPHONE CALLS HIT NEW HIGH

Telephone calls handled by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in Oregon Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week soared to all-time highs, with local calls generally being up between 30 and 40 per cent and long distance calls being up from 20 to 30 per cent.

The normal number of originating calls per day handled by the company in Oregon before the emergency was approximately 1,100,000.

In many exchanges the calling rate was much higher than the average for the state as a whole. In Seaside, for example, calls jumped from a normal of 2800 to 11,461, an increase of more than 300 per cent.

Charles E. Scavey, Klamath Falls manager, said that Klamath calls jumped in proportion with the rest of the state. No check, however, was made.

In practically all exchanges, off-duty operators reported for work voluntarily as soon as they learned of the emergency, and scores were needed. Hundreds of extra hours were worked by craftsmen and others.

By Wednesday, the total number of calls, though still above normal, was down somewhat—a fact indicating that the public was beginning to take the emergency in stride.

Many of the long distance calls were concentrated on long haul routes to the east, north and south. As a result of advance engineering and construction work, underway for several months in anticipation of just such an emergency, a large project was rushed to completion which added a large number of circuits to the east. Half of these circuits were placed in service Wednesday, and the rest will be cut in before the week is over. Other projects throughout the state nearing completion also will augment materially the number of long distance circuits available.

Officer Rules Luminous Man Too Much "Lit"

"These blackout. Senor, he is no good," the phosphorescent pedestrian replied.

"There is danger of being run over or bumping into somebody, no? So I illuminate myself with paint."

"You're lit up in more ways than one," Small commented, jailing the man on suspicion of intoxication.

Legion Auxiliary Working To Ban Subversive Groups

Action to strengthen the hand of the United States in its fight against subversive influences which seek to weaken the nation from within is being asked by the American Legion auxiliary, according to Mrs. Paul Otterbein, Americanism chairman of the Klamath unit.

The auxiliary is urging the American Legion in joining the stopping of all foreign language broadcasts, and is asking legislation which will force all foreign language newspapers and periodicals printed in the United States to carry the English translation in a parallel column.

The campaign of the federal bureau of investigation against spies and saboteurs has the auxiliary's endorsement, and the auxiliary is supporting the Legion's request to universal finger printing to make this work easier.

The auxiliary is asking that no alien be employed on national defense projects or in the merchant marine, and that the selective service act place aliens in the same category as conscientious objectors. They would stop all immigration for the duration of the emergency and would deport all undesirable aliens, placing those who cannot be deported because of war conditions in detention.

They also ask deportation of naturalized persons found to be engaged in subversive activities. The auxiliary to communism, nazism and fascism, considering their enemies of the democratic form of government which cannot be tolerated in America. They are demanding that communism be no longer permitted to function in the United States as a legitimate political party and are asking legislation to outlaw it in all states.

Legislation to accomplish these purposes will be asked of congress and state legislatures during the coming year.

COUNTY GRANGE MEN ASSEMBLE WITH OFFICERS

One hundred and thirty-five grangers representing the 12 granges of Klamath county assembled at Midland grange hall Thursday for the annual conference with state grange officers. The state officers present were State Master Ray W. Gill and State Overseer Morton Tompkins and the following heads of departments: Inez Langdon, chairman home economics committee, L' R e n a Slack, state juvenile superintendent; Be. Buisman, editor Grange Bulletin and state youth superintendent; and Charles Wicklander, Elmer McClure, district deputies.

These conferences were originally organized to carry forward a grange building program but with the start of the war were changed largely to a program of organizing the farmers to a program of production of "Food for Fighting," a phrase coined by one of the grangers.

At the evening session State Master Gill made a stirring appeal to the farmers to get 100 per cent behind the government program of expansion of production without taking into consideration possible collapse of prices below the cost of production with the end of the war. The state master assured his listeners that it was the farmers duty to produce in all out effort because there was no means of forecasting the duration of the war, but at this time we did know that America would have to furnish much of the food for our allies. "On the farmers shoulders is a vital responsibility which may mean success or failure of our efforts to defeat Hitler. The American farmer has never yet failed to defend our American way of life and he will not fail this time," declared Gill.

State overseer, Tompkins, declared the work of the Klamath grange agricultural committees were outstanding in the state and praised the work of County agent, C. A. Henderson.

The work of the conference started at 1:45 p. m. and continued evening adjourning at 11:30 p. m. Dinner was served at 6 p. m. by the ladies of grange home economics clubs.

LETTER TELLS OF HAWAIIAN ALERT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13 (AP)—The last letter Private Jack H. Feldman, 19, wrote to his parents disclosed Friday that Hickam field, Hawaii, where he was stationed, went on the alert six days before the Japanese attack.

The philadelphia was dated 2 a. m. Friday, Dec. 5, two days before Feldman was killed. It was delivered today to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Feldman.

"Last Monday Hickam field went on the alert. I have been on guard since then . . . I don't mind this a bit. As company I have a .45 automatic, and I've been instructed to use it in the event of sabotage. After tomorrow night I will be returned to my duties in the machine shop."

"For the present the schedule of outgoing steamers to the coast has been discontinued, so I don't know whether a ship is going out, but I'll write every week . . ."

A postscript added, "Please excuse pencil as I'm now on guard (2 a. m.) It was all I could find."

"We don't care who licks the Japs, but we feel that China is carrying such a heavy part of the war that she should be aided to the fullest extent," the Rev. Phillips stated.

Principal speaker of the afternoon was W. E. Lamm of Modoc Point, introduced by "Cap" Collier. Lamm spoke on "Long Range Aspect of the War."

"I think the United States is doing what it has to do, but I cannot see how the debt we will have at the close of the war can be handled except by freezing (the debt) for a number of years and merely be satisfied by paying interest until the world, once more, is again on a productive peace-time basis," said Lamm.
