

WAGE EARNERS MUST BUY MANY DEFENSE BONDS

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 (AP)—The nation's 35 million wage earners must buy as many defense savings bonds as they possibly can afford, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau said Wednesday.

In a prepared address before a national meeting of state defense bond sales chairmen and administrators, Morgenthau said that "token contributions" from the wage earners would not be enough and added:

"I mean a real investment, the very limit that each person can afford without actually taking food and other necessities from himself and family."

Intensification of the defense bond sales is necessary, Morgenthau said, if the government is to succeed in financing the expanding costs of the war "while avoiding the immense and dangerous evils of inflation."

"We are in reality fighting two wars—one, the great struggle on all the continents and all the oceans, and the other the war against an insidious enemy here at home. That enemy is inflation."

"The most effective course for us, as we have known from the very beginning, has been to enlist current income and to divert excess spending, to persuade our people to set aside a part of their pay every day in defense bonds and stamps."

Farmers as well as wage earners are expected to make regular purchases of bonds in the drive to make "every pay day bond day."

House-to-house canvasses and voluntary payroll deductions will form the basis of a nationwide drive to get everyone into the habit of buying defense savings bonds.

A sales goal of $1,000,000,000 a month was announced Tuesday at a conference of representatives of the 48 states and treasury officials.

Through the canvasses all citizens will be asked to sign printed pledges to buy bonds. Under the payroll plan wage earners will authorize their employers to make regular deductions from their pay to purchase bonds.

The billion-a-month goal for sale of all types of bonds was set by Harold N. Graves, assistant to the secretary of the treasury. He set the goal for sale of small bonds, with an issue price of $18.75 and maturity value of $25, at $400,000,000 a month.

California Storm Was Army Secret

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18 (AP)—Now it can be told. Northern California was battered by the winter's worst storm the first of the week, but until Wednesday it was a military secret.

Since naval officers and weather bureau observers, who guard the weather from Japanese spies, agree that 24-hour-old weather wouldn't do the enemy any good, it's safe to report that a nine-inch rainfall in three days filled the Sacramento river and its tributaries to their banks.

Highway crews worked through sections of the northern part of the state to clear blocked roads.

Christmas Seals Finance Tireless Battle on TB

This is a story of a battlefield, a battlefield not where lives are lost, but where lives are saved. It's war . . . against one of the deadliest enemies of mankind, a vicious foe which, today, in the United States alone killed 170 Americans. Yesterday, this relentless enemy killed 170 persons in this country; tomorrow 170 more will fall. One hundred seventy a day, mostly between the ages of 15 and 45, in the midst of their most productive years.

These are the victims of tuberculosis, ruthless disease which has plagued the race of man since before civilization dawned and the trail of recorded history began.

Twenty years ago, more than 360 persons in this country fell every day, victims of the killer which has waged war against the human race since the start of time. Three hundred sixty 20 years ago, 170 every day now. The number has been cut more than half as the vicious disease is slowly pushed backward, retreating under the heavy fire of all the great weapons of the army of science now commands. But the pitiless assassin is being pushed backward toward a final defeat, and the armies who march forward against the White Plague under the banners of progress and human salvation are led by a double-barred cross.

This is the symbol of the world-wide campaign against tuberculosis, sign of a modern crusade since the turn of the century, emblem of the Klamath County Public Health association. You see it everywhere at this season of the year, the familiar symbol of the war to save lives which appears on your Christmas seals. Now as common to the holiday season as holly or mistletoe, these seals are the only source of income for the Klamath Tuberculosis association.

If ever a dollar is stretched a long way, it is the dollar with which you buy your Christmas seals. For that dollar has brought to life a battle-cries which in the early days of the campaign was prevent tuberculosis, later became cure tuberculosis. Now, as the big push gathers force and new objectives are won, the rallying call to arms is tuberculosis can be eradicated.

Hansgirk Arrested By Federal Bureau

SAN JOSE, Calif., Dec. 18 (AP)—Dr. Fritz J. Hansgirk, 50-year-old inventor of a new magnesium process, was arrested by FBI agents Wednesday at the Permanente Magnesium plant where he was acting in a supervisor capacity. FBI agents gave no reason for the arrest of Hansgirk, who was in an authoritative position during three recent explosions and a number of minor accidents at the plant. The government has advanced $20,000,000 for construction of the plant to produce 12,000 tons a year of the vital defense metal.

Hansgirk was booked as "en-route to United States immigration authorities."

Vibrations from a dynamite explosion have been detected as much as 2000 miles away.
