By JOHN W. DUNLAP SACRAMENTO, Jan. 2 (UP) The legislature has promised a full investigation of the state's defense needs, including the function of the state guard. Make no mistake, a full rethe legislative sub-committee of 22 members sits down in Sacramento today to prepare for the next special session on January 12 or sooner. The reason is Rolland A Vandegrift (and there's no period after that initial A). Vandegrift is well known in government circles, having put in four years as state direc-tor of finance (under Governors Rolph and Merriam), director of research for several years for the California Taxpayers association and an expert in California history, taxation and governmental research. Vandegrift has been retained by the legislature as a legisla tive auditor, with wide powers to poke around and dig up facts. He is one of these direct-to-the-point fellows, with an analytical mind and an inquisitive eye. He is made to order as an efficiency expert for the legislature.

Many legislators, including the anti-Olson contingent, wanted independent figures on state operations, in addition to those furnished by the administration-controlled department of fi-nance. Perhaps the fact 1942 is an election year hastened the plan to hire an auditor, but Vandegrift was appointed, nev-ertheless, and has been making unobtrusive investigations for several months.

During and since the recent pecial session, however, Vandegrift and his staff have been in high gear, particularly as concerns the California state guard. He has compiled a com prehensive digest of guard ac tivities to date, indicating the administration will have hard sledding in the attempt to se-cure a large appropriation from the legislature.
