

300 MEET FOR UNION PRAYER SERVICE HERE

Heads were bowed in prayer and many eyes were filled with tears as more than 300 Klamath residents filled the main auditorium of the First Methodist church on the first day of the year to observe the union hour of prayer as requested early in the week by President Roosevelt.

The parlors of the church were prepared for the meeting but so large was the attendance that the auditorium was warmed and the service held with "standing room only."

Presiding over the hour of prayer was the Rev. Eugene V. Haynes of the Community Congregational church as president of the Klamath Ministerial Association, and the Rev. Victor Phillips, pastor of the host church, read the scripture. Other members of the association took part.

First Aid Workers To Meet Tonight At Fremont School

There will be a meeting of all men who registered with the Civilian Defense Council for first aid work at 7:30 p. m. Friday at Fremont school. American Red Cross requests the presence of all men who have received first aid training, as well as all those who wish to take this training in preparation for rescue squad work.

It is estimated that the services of about 275 men will be necessary to organize enough rescue squads to adequately serve Klamath Falls and the suburban area in time of disaster. All men who are willing to volunteer their services for this phase of civilian defense are urged to attend.

Snow Falls in Los Angeles for First Time in 10 Years

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1 (UP)—Snow fell in Los Angeles today for the first time in 10 years, blanketing portions of the city for a brief period but sufficient for youngsters to get a few snowball fights started and some snowmen built.

Because of the unusual weather and because a warning of freezing temperatures had been released to agriculturists, the weather bureau relaxed its wartime secrecy to permit publication of the news that snow had fallen in usually sunny southern California.

In other portions of the city there were brief hailstorms and severe rain.

Citrus growers in southern California were warned tonight that temperature readings of below freezing might be expected during the night and smudging of citrus trees was advisable in many areas.

Winter Conditions Cause Accidents

Snow and ice laid the groundwork for several minor accidents in the Klamath area this week, but no injuries had been reported.

Andrew McCullough of 1619 Gary street collided late Wednesday afternoon with H. G. Corbit of route 3. The accident occurred on highway 97.

Austin and Shasta way was the scene Tuesday of a collision between Ray Dunan of 1733 Oregon avenue and Glen Slough, 2219 E. na. Henry Miksch of route 3 and Raymond K. Wilson of 1404 Klamath avenue, reported their cars collided Tuesday evening on Shasta way near Derby.

Kyser Loses Camera Fear, New Spy Picture Reveals

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Hollywood
Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2 (UP)—First time we saw Kay Kyser on a movie set, his hands were cold, his brow was sweaty, and his shirt was soaking wet. That was two years and four pictures ago. He'd never stood before a camera before and he was scared of the way the lens stared at him, with never a blink.

This afternoon Mr. K was in the pink. Calm. Peaceful. Nonsweaty. He simply ignored that lens. He was flat on his back, on a big, soft couch, earning his living doing nothing at all. Nonchalantly, too.

The actor doing all the work in this particular scene of RKO's "My Favorite Spy" was Waldo, a small, black-eyed dog of uncertain parentage. Waldo's job was to sneak around the sofa and grab a newspaper with Kyser's picture in it. This was bad, because it showed the maestro with Miss Jane Wyman, the beautiful blonde spy.

This was bad because Kyser had just married Ellen Drew, who didn't know he was in the U. S. army intelligence service, and who therefore would not have understood about that other lovely. So:

There was Kyser on the couch. There also was the nose of Waldo showing at one end of the sofa. That's all the camera saw.

What it did not see was Henry East, the animal man, on his hands and knees behind the couch, holding onto Waldo.

"Squ-e-e-k"

Neither did it see East's assistant, at the other end of the couch, with a rubber mouse in his hand.

Director Tay Garnett called for action.

East let go of Waldo. The assistant squeezed the mouse. It went "Squ-e-e-k-k."

And there went Waldo, after it.

"Tell Waldo to walk faster," suggested Director Garnett. East told Waldo, and next take Waldo went in a hurry. A smart pup. A mighty smart pup, East said.

Only trouble with Waldo is that he's getting on in years. And his past is a mystery. If East only could find a female dog of the same antecedents for Waldo's wife, then there'd be some little Waldos, and East would have a monopoly on dog actors.

"But nobody can look at Waldo and get any idea of his breed," East said. "There seems to be some terrier there, all right, and maybe some poodle, but there's something else, too, and nobody's been able to figure it out."

Right Glasses

The recumbent Kyser, who has made a whopping success as a movie actor by never even trying to act, said everything was fine insofar as he was concerned, except his eyeglasses.

His real ones are fine for seeing, but no good for movies, because they reflect the light and make him look on the screen like an eyeless wonder. The experts have evolved a special pair of spectacles for him with the lens bent sharply inward. He can see all right, but the angle of the glass gives him headaches. And that isn't all.

He gets letters constantly from oculists, who go to his movies, and spot something wrong with his eyeglasses. They write in to complain—and that just goes to show: when you're making movies you can't be too careful.

The picture is being produced by Harold Lloyd, who used to wear trick glasses, himself. He just left out the lens. Now that Lloyd is producer instead of actor he wears no glasses at all. He said he thought he had a pretty funny picture.

The same old premise, apparently, has new embroidery. Kyser marries Miss Drew in the first reel. Then he spends the rest of the picture trying to get a few minutes alone with her. He never succeeds, account of those spies.

If they are to work reliably, barometers should be protected from draughts, direct sunlight, and the heat of fires and radiators.

PASSENGER TRAINS DROP MEDFORD RUN

MEDFORD, Ore., Jan. 2 —Beginning January 12, the morning Southern Pacific train from California and the evening train from Grants Pass to California will be discontinued, it has been announced here.

This means that Medford will be cut off from California by train service. Bus service will be provided to connect this area with Dunsmuir, Calif., where connection will be made with the Cascade division trains.

Since preference has been given the Cascade division through Klamath Falls, passenger train service here has been chipped away until by January 12 there will be but two trains daily—the morning train from Portland, which ends its run at Ashland, and the evening train to Portland, which begins its run at Ashland.

Patriotism Fails To Save Defendant From Sentence

A belated sense of patriotism Friday failed to save Robert Lee Mallette from the penitentiary. Mallette, who pleaded guilty to a charge of obtaining property by false pretenses, asked the court for leniency on the grounds that he had deserted the U. S. army last year, but wanted to go back now and fight.

Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg sentenced him to five years in the Oregon state penitentiary.

FIGHT GOES ON AS U. S. FORCE CONSOLIDATED

defense lines, "necessarily uncovered the road to Manila and made possible the Japanese entrance into the city," a Washington communique explained.

The war department said advanced elements of the Mikado's invasion hordes entered the city at 3 p. m., Manila time (10 p. m. PST Thursday.)

Fight Goes On

"The loss of Manila, while serious, had not lessened the resistance to the Japanese attacks," the war department said.

Simultaneously, an official Tokyo broadcast asserted that part of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces were attempting to cross Manila bay to Corregidor island fortress and that other American and Filipino troops were cut off on the Batan peninsula north of Corregidor.

The broadcast said Japanese bombers were slashing at the troops moving across the bay.

The fall of the Philippine capital, which Gen. MacArthur last week designated as open and undefended, came two days after the deadline on a Japanese boast that they would take Manila "before New Year's."

American soldiers and marines had evacuated the city and today were reported manning strong positions in the jungles along a 200-mile defense arc against overwhelming Japanese invasion hordes pressing from the north and south.

Meanwhile, an official Tokyo broadcast reported cryptically that Japanese reconnaissance planes had returned safely from a flight "in the direction of Australia."

No details were given, but undermeath lay the clear implication that the flight may have been a scouting mission prelude to a Japanese attempt to invade Australia, many of whose troops have left the country to defend Singapore.

MOSCOW, Saturday, Jan. 3 (UP)—The Russians early today announced recapture of the important town of Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of Moscow.

Maloyaroslavets is on the railway from Moscow to Kaluga, and lies about 30 miles below Narofominsk on the same line, recaptured by the Russians a few days ago.

It also lies about 30 miles south of Mozhaisk, next all-important objective of the Russians in their great drive against the Germans, and the new gain further imperils the position of the Germans in the Mozhaisk region, already under artillery fire.

Help on Way

4. In Singapore, Gen. Sir Henry R. Pownall, new commander-in-chief of British Far East forces, reported that "considerable help is on the way" to Malaya, even as Japanese invasion hordes struck closer to Singapore in fresh landings on the west Malaya coast.

Japanese vanguards were reported hurling themselves against British defense lines only 190 miles north of Singapore on the eastern Malaya coast, in the Kuantan region, and 275 miles north on the west coast in lower Perak province.

New Japanese landings were reported in lower Perak, and a British communique said tersely: "Fighting continues."

the industry's advisory committee, Hillman said.

"The job now is to use the materials saved, and the men and machinery made idle, immediately to produce planes, guns, tanks and other war materials," he added.

To cushion labor displacement which will inevitably result, Hillman said, both unions and management in the automobile industry had plans to propose, and the OPM would offer a program resulting from weeks of discussion with engineering and technical experts.

Hillman and Director General William S. Knudsen of the OPM, both will participate in the automobile conference, which is expected to last for several days.

Officials indicated OPM's program probably would include plans for pooling engineering and production techniques to facilitate war production, the award of defense contracts to all available, useable plants within the industry, and creation of labor-management steering committees to supervise the overall effort.

turning off between 70 and 80 lines in as many homes Thursday and Friday with calls continuing to flood the service department. In most cases pipes had frozen and later burst as the buildings were warmed.

Individual stories concerning the intense cold spell were both tragic and humorous. One resident and his wife living near town got up to find their pipes frozen stiff and the oil heat refusing to heat. Hastily they dressed and dashed out in the freezing air to get in their car and the car wouldn't start.

Another family reported melting snow for cooking their New Year's day dinner and there was many a frozen household which melted snow and realized for the first time how much water they used during an ordinary day.

Coldest place in the state Friday, according to the official weather bureau was Lakeview at 9 degrees below zero, followed by Burns at 7 below. However, there were many unofficial thermometers in Klamath county which told a much colder story. Portland saw a minimum of 21 degrees Friday morning. Salem, 19; Timberline lodge at Mt.
