Cold Wave Stops Muskrat Trapping In Tulelake Area

TULELAKE - The present cold wave which has frozen the surface of the Tule lake sump is delaying muskrat trapping operations, according to Bernard C. Schultz, president of the Northern California Trappers association, and the outcome of this year's season can't even be guessed. Late arrival of trap-ping permits also delayed operations and the close of the sea son hinges on a thaw out and im-proved conditions.

Officers of the association will probably be elected this month and members of the association plan spring sales of furs providing the catch is adequate to bring in buyers
