CONSOLIDATE ROUTES

SALEM, Jan. 8 (P)—The state department of agriculture suggested Wednesday that milk companies could save considerable rubber by consolidating their routes. He suggested that all distributors take their milk to a central depot, and then each company be responsible for milk deliveries in a certain area of each town.

PORTLAND, Ore. (P)—A Portland man says he has been driven to it. He signs his name "Adolph (not Hitler) Goehring (not Goering)."

War always breaks up family life and family ties. It is up to women to keep those ties as strong and as real as possible.—Senator Hattie W. Caraway, Arkansas.

Markets and Financial

REPORTS WEAKEN MARKET IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, Jan. 8 (P)—Reports of increased amounts of government wheat going into commercial trade circulation along with some 1941 grain redeemed by producers from the loan program weakened futures prices here today. Profit taking and hedging sales lowered wheat about a cent, with rye and soybeans off correspondingly and corn and oats almost as much. Wheat closed 1/4 cent lower than yesterday, May $1.28 1/4, July $1.29 1/4; corn 1/4 cent down, May 85 1/4; July 87 1/4; oats 1/4 cent off; rye 1/4 cent lower; soybeans 1/4 cent off.

Kansas City reports indicated purchases of Commodity Credit Corporation wheat and of redeemed 1941 grain were on the largest scale so far this season but not big enough to suggest that general liquidation by producers was under way. A move to permit harvesting of volunteer wheat acreage in the southwest, even though the allotment may be exceeded, also attracted attention.

HEART STOPS FOR 20 MINUTES, LIVES

CHICAGO, Jan. 8 (UP)—If your heart stops beating, you die usually. But two Boston physicians, writing in the January 10 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, reported to-night the complete recovery of a patient whose heart stopped beating for 20 minutes during a lung operation. Drs. Herbert D. Adams and Leo V. Hand said that as soon as the stoppage was detected, heart stimulants were injected. Artificial respiration and massage of the exposed heart, to induce circulation of the blood, was begun immediately. The patient began breathing spontaneously shortly after the heart resumed beating, and 25 minutes after his heart had stopped, his color began to return and his breathing gradually became normal. The operation was completed and the patient, whose name was not given, left the hospital 60 days later "in good condition," they said. Adams and Hand said the case demonstrated that the period of heart arrest "compatible with normal recovery" is much longer than formerly was appreciated. Recovery is dependent upon adequate saturation of tissue, especially brain tissue, with oxygen, they said. Although the authors admitted that "the rationale of treatment in this instance was governed more by urgency and expediency than by any prepared plan or organized regimen for treatment," they said that the case "has changed some of our fundamental concepts regarding cardiac resuscitation." Normal recovery in such cases is dependent upon adequate saturation of tissue — especially brain tissue — with oxygen, Adams and Hand said. Prompt and skillful administration of artificial respiration and artificial circulation were found to accomplish this end. Cardiac arrest may develop at any stage during an operation or post-operative procedure, the authors said, and "every surgical team will at times be called on to face" such a problem.

WAR JOB PUT IN CONCRETE TERMS

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (P)—The National Association of Manufacturers, translating into everyday terms the war production schedule called for by President Roosevelt, Wednesday disclosed the enormous scope of the program in material, time, space and manpower. The association said that the president's demand for 125,000 planes and 75,000 tanks in 1943 meant turning out a plane every four minutes and a tank every seven minutes. The president's estimated need of eight million dead-weight tons of merchant shipping in 1942—and an additional 10 million tons in 1943—would require a sustained rate of about two ships a day. Attempting to estimate the manpower requirements in the aircraft industry alone, the association said the 193,000 workers engaged in making war aircraft in 1940 would grow to 1,392,000 in 1943, or approximately one-fifth as many workers as are now employed in all defense factories. For aircraft production alone, according to the association, the floor space needed for the gigantic program would be about 140,000,000 square feet in 1943, the equivalent of more than 1000 city blocks, or an area equal to a third of Manhattan island in New York.
