

ARMY OFFICE GIVES NAMES OF RECRUITS

The United States army recruiting service announced the names of the following Klamath young men who have been accepted for enlistment in the army since the outbreak of hostilities:

The above applicants were tentatively accepted by Sergeant Frank J. Huhin, commander of the local army recruiting office and were then forwarded to Portland where they received their final examinations. They were then sworn into the service and are now en route to training stations somewhere in the U. S.

Sergeant Huhin has been authorized to accept an unlimited number of qualified applicants for the U. S. army air corps. These applicants will be sent to school and courses in airplane mechanics, machinists, welders, sheetmetal work, radio operation and maintenance, photography, weather observing and clerical work will be given. Young men between the ages of 18 and 35, with at least an eighth grade education, of excellent character, in good physical condition will be accepted for immediate enlistment. Married men may also be accepted provided their dependents have sufficient means of support and will sign a statement to that effect. "Kindly do not apply if you are over 35 years of age, as it is impossible to accept men beyond the age limit," said Sergeant Huhin, "the service can appreciate the willingness of these men to serve but regulations are regulations."

Applicants who have received the selective service physical examination but who have not been called for induction are still eligible for enlistment. Apply at the army recruiting office, 219 Post-office building, Klamath Falls, Ore.

HIGH SCHOOL

News Notes and Comment

By MAURICE O'CALLAGHAN

Wilhelm Willie Bodine, art teacher at KUHS, has received a request from Mary Ellen Buskirk, museum assistant at Indiana university, Bloomington, Indiana, to send one of his best paintings there to be exhibited there from February 1 to 10.

The exhibit will be known as "Local Scenes by Young Painters of the 'Mid-west,'" and will be held in the art gallery of that school.

A movie, "Trees and Home," was again shown the students of the high school. Although the same picture has been shown at the school in the past it proved very interesting and helped renew the lumber production picture in many of the minds of the scholars who witnessed the showings.

The technicolor movie was shown to the members of the high school through the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, who produced the cinema.

As most know, the method of giving semester tests has been changed.

In the years before students who had tests to take would come to school in the morning for one hour and afternoon for an hour. This would continue through three days with tests given for each class in order. This year, however, school will continue as usual for four days with any or all periods used for tests, but we believe that the bulletin which the office supplied the teachers will explain the procedure much better so we have received a copy and forward it to you.

Exams will be given anytime during the week of January 12 to 18. If more than one examination is necessary in particular subjects, this can be determined by the teacher.

A failure in the final examinations should not be the sole determining factor for failure in any course.

Teachers may exempt students as they wish, but they are not to be excused from classes.

If incompletes are given for the first semester, work should be made up by the second of February and a grade recorded in the office. In this case also, the teacher should turn in a list of the incomplete grades granted with an explanation in each case.

If any teachers have given a C grade (conditional) for the first semester, these teachers must clear all such grades at the end of the second semester. If the final second semester's work indicates a satisfactory accomplishment, the final grade for both first and second semester will be passing. If the work done during the second semester is unsatisfactory, the final grade from both semesters must be five.

We might venture to say that if Marcell Reynolds does as well this next half the school may claim this the most successful year for high school publications.
