Klamath Birth Ratio Unaffected By State of War, Survey Shows

Another old wives' tale has gone down to defeat in Klamath county — the one whispered down through the centuries that when the guns begin to boom, more boys than girls are born. Here, the stork continued on his usual rounds with a lordly disregard for both superstition and a state of war.

Figures compiled at the county health unit Friday total up to 2243 boys and 2138 girls born in Klamath county through the years 1937 to 1942. During 1937, in a world at peace, 412 boys and 377 girls were born. In 1938, the girls edged out ahead for a total of 422 against 392 boys born.

In 1939, which marked the beginning of total war, 450 boys and 406 girls were born; in 1940, 469 boys and 463 girls and in 1941, 520 boys and 470 girls.

Klamath county's birth figures, it will be noted, increased steadily, with 789 births recorded for 1937; 814 for 1938; 860 for 1939; 933 for 1940 and 990 for 1941.

AERIAL GUN RANGE EYED NEAR ABERT

LAKEVIEW — The war department is expected to send a representative to Lakeview within the next few days to consult with the county court and interested federal agencies and persons on a proposal to establish an aerial gunnery practice range in central Lake county extending southward from the Central Oregon highway to a point west of Lake Abert, a tract which is 30 by 60 miles in size. The government recently approached the county on the proposal and the county asked that the matter be brought up for public discussion.

FIRST HE EVER SAW

NEW YORK — Ace Adams of the New York Giants was the winning pitcher of the first major league game he ever saw—the 1941 season opener between the Polo Grounders and Brooklyn Dodgers.

This war, it has often been said, is at the same time a social revolution. This is true for Canada, too, and will become truer as the power of the common people grows.

'Lonesome Sailors' Approve Local Letter-Writing Plan

Two self-styled "lonesome sailors" have wholeheartedly seconded Angus Newton's New Year appeal to Klamath people to write letters to men in the country's services. Newton, commander of the American Legion, has received the following letter from the boys—a letter which he hopes Klamath people will answer, and which should start correspondence rolling between here and every camp where boys are in training.

"We noticed your article of January 3 in The Evening Herald," the letter reads, "having reference to writing to boys in the service.

"We also believe this is a very good idea and hope that more people read your article. Now there are quite a few boys in the navy that would be glad to get more mail.

"However if you can help us by forwarding our address we will be very thankful. We are just lonesome sailors and will write to anyone (prefer Blondes).

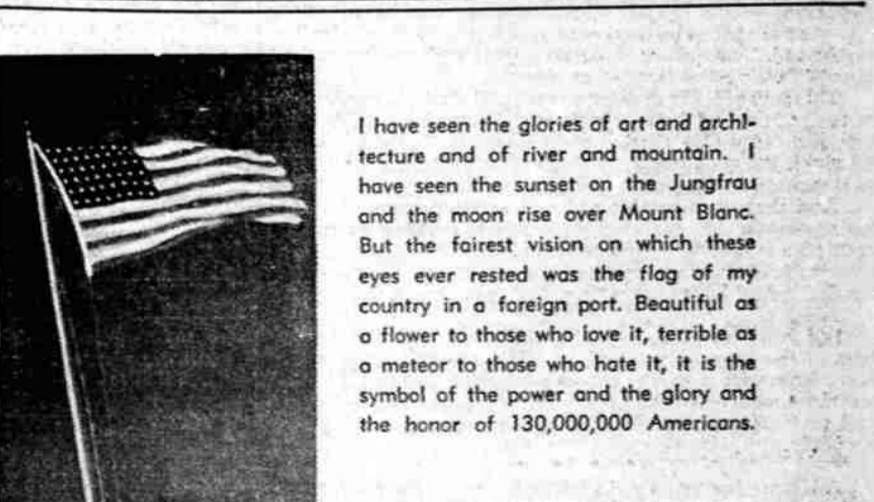

"Hoping you can help us in this matter, we remain yours truly—Lonesome Sailors." These boys' names are Clarence E. Wood and Kenneth W. Keehr, U. S. Naval Training Station, Co-41-177, San Diego, Calif.
