fly over almost incessantly. When they discover an American position they summon dive bombers and use tracer bullets to point out U. S. gun positions. At the same time they direct Japanese counter battery fire. Then the Americans catch hell for awhile.

Camouflage is the American's only defense against detection, and they have become masters at it.

I stood within 20 yards of a battery of big guns of a U. S. artillery unit today and didn't spot the guns until they opened up with earthshaking blasts.

The target was a large concentration of Japanese troops having a mid-day meal in a clearing six miles away. This was a definite, objective and the battery kept on constant fire as Mister Moto's observation planes kept pottering overhead.

Capt. Lawrence Meade of Redwood City, Calif., commander of one of the batteries, said of the shelling "these are to say 'hello' to Tojo."

Tojo, however, talked back a few minutes later with a series of rounds from 75s and 105s which splattered our fox holes with shrapnel and made more deep bomb shell holes all around the guns but caused no damage or casualties.

The Japanese fired twice the number of shells we had sent over, and Col. Alexander Quinlan, regimental commander, explained "that's what we call retaliatory fire. It looks like Tojo got a little riled, which means we probably got our target. We like it when we make him waste so many shells."

Lake County Sports Association Adopts Fish Proposals

Recommendations regarding stream closures, opening dates and bag limits were adopted by the Lake County Sportsman's association at their annual meeting last Thursday evening. Officers were elected for 1942, and dues were raised.

Gordon Smith will head the organization as president; Carl Lange, vice president, and Milton Nolte, secretary-treasurer. Ned Sherlock and Oscar Kittredge will serve as directors.

Dues were raised from 25 cents to 50 cents and F. Carl Fetsch, J. C. Clark and Fred Fisher were appointed by the newly elected president to serve on the membership drive.

The association approved the stream closure and planting schedule outlined for the next five years by the forest service.

Discussion of the feeding of quail and pheasants found in scattered bunches throughout the valley resulted in a vote to purchase and feed as recommended by the state game commission.

grounds in the world—impenetrable jungle criss-crossed with streams and ridged by steep bluffs. Ex-Governor Martin is a close friend of both MacArthur and Chief of Staff Marshall, whom he helped bring along back in World War days.

The retired statesman said that two of the remarkable things in Klamath county were its school system and county agent's office. He said that Klamath county schools comprise one of the most economical-run systems in Oregon and asserted that C. A. Henderson, Klamath county agricultural agent, is an outstanding man in his field.

Gen. Martin's address tonight will highlight the junior chamber's banquet at which time the organization will make its annual award to the most outstanding young man in Klamath county for the past year. Mayor John H. Houston will act as toastmaster.

The group has announced that the banquet is open to the public and that tickets are available at the chamber of commerce offices at 323 Main street and at the Willard and Elk hotels.

observance here was a parade which passed through the streets at 2 p. m. Music and marching groups, commercial establishments whose employees had entered the payroll allotment plan, and the Red Cross, were represented in the parade.

Final preparations for bond pledge day were made at a rally meeting of more than 150 workers at the courthouse last night. Precinct committeemen and members of the election boards received final instructions on the effort today.

Charles Walker, president of the Northwest College of Commerce, gave an inspirational address at the rally, his theme being, "Bonds or Bondage."

Jack Henry and William Kuykendall, democratic and republican chairmen, respectively, and County Clerk Mac K. Short, gave instructions to the workers. The group listened to a radio broadcast which started off the Oregon pledging effort.

It was emphasized that pledging is done on a confidential basis. Because of the form in which the treasury department sent out the pledge blanks, the signed pledges cannot be placed immediately in a closed receptacle as planned, but they are in bound books and will not be scrutinized by the precinct groups or other pledgers.

NLRB COMPLETES LABOR HEARING

Rival CIO and AFL lumber workers' unions and officials of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company Tuesday awaited the next move of the national labor relations board after completion of a board representation hearing here late Monday.

The hearing, held on an AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers union petition asking that it be named sole collective bargaining agent for nearly 300 members of the Weyerhaeuser woods crew, consumed only one day in the city library. It was conducted by Harry George, NLRB trial examiner. The CIO was intervening.

Testimony was offered by R. R. Macartney, superintendent of the Klamath branch of the world's largest privately-owned lumber concern, Dick Wicks and W. C. McKune, Weyerhaeuser mill employees.

Macartney testified as to the organization of the mill and woods and the two employees compared mill work with logging camp work. Main issue of the hearing revolved around the appropriateness of the woods unit as a separate bargaining unit against the mill and woods crews together.

Both unions were in agreement over the woods as an entity while officials of the firm contended that both were a part of the whole logging operation.

Representing the AFL were Harold Mackenzie and J. J. Wolf. Al Hartung, assistant organizational director of the CIO International Woodworkers of America, and George Brown of the IWA were present for their union and a Mr. Heldenger, Tacoma attorney, represented Weyerhaeuser.

Unionists hoped that the hearing would result in a board-ordered election in the near future.
